PUBLISHERS' TALK

Kind words are as welcome as stern criticism. A prominent Toronto barrister sends the editor the following note:

"Dear Sir:—Kindly allow me to congratulate you on the 7th March issue of 'The Canadian Courier.' Nothing has ever appeared in Canada before the equal of this.

"Yours sincerely,

The editor is rather proud of that letter because it comes from a man known for his keen literary judgment and his broad knowledge of the best literature of to-day and yesterday.

Next week's issue will be somewhat unusual and slightly larger. It will have as a leading feature four pages of illustrations in colour, in addition to the regular run of news photographs. Among the latter will be a magnificent picture of the first Sikh temple in America, recently dedicated at Vancouver; and a large engraving showing the Manitoba Legislature in session. We hope that it will be the best issue of the "Courier" to date.

It is still possible for new subscribers to come in at the special rate of three dollars. The "Courier" will be steadily improved as the weeks go by and eventually the price must be higher. At the meeting of the Press Association in Toronto last week, there was much talk of higher subscription prices because of dearer paper. America's era of low-priced paper is almost over, because of its rapidly dwindling spruce forests.
