

be a failure
event. The itself from
who agreed
common with
sent during
of young,
ere, not in America, of their elders
y type and
conclusion
d loudly, it
nts. These isy cries of
d confusion,
years later,
of English
acter of the
ents of the

y, where he nded by a
of Lessard
aw him—as
as a leaf by
o avoid his nd, leaving
alone.
n pallor and
he had seen

The Conflict

421

him. If a lost passion be irreclaimable, the pain it leaves is nevertheless permanent. Lessard was glad that Sophy had gone. They had been two shades passing each other in silence, but not in peace. There could never be peace between them.