

IN SUSPENSE

I try to still the tumult
 Within my troubled breast,
I try to pierce the clamor,
 My hands are tightly pressed,—

Not yet! Not yet! Oh, hasten,
 My trusted messenger,
Bring me tidings, good or ill,
 Rest not, nor spare the spur!