THE LADY WITH THE LAMP.

There is in France a young English V.A.D., who serves King and country and the whole world by trimming between two hundred and three hundred lamps every day. If any one has ever attempted to keep one lamp in order, that person will not envy the V.A.D. Neither will the fine grade of patriotism underlying the lamp trimming be overlooked. The work is performed in a cold, dark cellar, and the worker is alone much of the time; but the thing that keeps her steadily and cheerfully at work is the fact that every lamp will be needed at night in the hospital to which the cellar belongs. It happens that this particular hospital is one established in an old French chateau, picturesque and full of charm, historically, but entailing a vast amount of extremely hard work because chateau and monasteries were not constructed centuries ago, with an eye to perfect sanitary arrangements. Highly cultured Englishmen, over draft age or physically unfit, count this difficult work no hardship. They have become expert stretcher-bearers, have driven ambulances under fire and do countless things that are much more difficult than similar work in English hospitals in France.

NEW ZEALAND'S GREAT TUNNEL.

With the holding of the official ceremony in honour of the piercing of "the hole in the Southern Alps," the great Otira Tunnel of New Zealand took its place proudly as one of the world's longest subways. The tunnel is five miles in length, and the first shot at the Otira end was fired on May 5th, 1908. Owing to scarcity of labour, due to the war, it may be two years before the permanent way is laid through. By that time the water power available will have been harnessed in readiness to drive the electric trains that will run from Canterbury to the west coast.

TWO VICTORIA CROSSES.

A double V.C. is the rarest of all soldiers. There is only one living, and only two have ever won the bit of bronze on two occasions. A curious fact in this connection is that both of them served in the Royal Army Medical Corps, a non-combatant service. Major Arthur Martin Leake, R.A.M.C., is the only man living with a bar to the V.C. He gained the cross in South Africa and the equivalent of a second cross nearly four years ago. Capt. Noel Godfrey Chavasse, the gallant doctor son of the Bishop of Liverpool, was the only other double V.C. He won both during the war, but died of wounds soon after receiving the second award.

Jail Visitor: My friend, have you any religious convictions?
Prisoner: Well, I reckon that's the right word. I was sent here for robbing a church.—Boston "Transcript."

The lawyer was sitting at his desk absorbed in the preparation of a brief. So intent was he on his work that he did not hear the door as it was pushed gently open, nor see the curly head that was thrust into his office. A little sob attracted his notice, and turning, he saw a face that was streaked with tears and told plainly that feelings had been hurt.

"Well, my little man, did you want to see me?"
"Are you a lawyer?"
"Yes. What do you want?"
"I want"—and there was a resolute ring in his voice—"I want a divorce from my papa and mamma."—New York "Globe."
