THE SISTERS' HOSPITAL.

Among the institutions of Rossland which deserve in an especial degree the good will and assistance of the public there is perhaps none quite as deserving as the Sisters' Hospital, the annual statement of which was published in Sunday's Kentucky favored McKinley in 1896, while speaks for it elf, and should be carefully the standard of Bryan on that occasion accommodation of the hospital may be that he did very well in the Middle West city the provincial government and private citizens will rise to the occasion is not to be questioned, but the fact that by Bryan of a double s'andard, and of they must do so should be kept constant- the coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to ly before them.

who are suffering from accidents. It is to be hoped that the citizens of this city will prove equal to the duty which really l'es with them to place the institution on the basis which it should occupy in a rith and growing camp like Rossland. The city council ought not to overlook the fa t that with the increase of population, its obligations to the hospital necessarily become greater, and in addition to its own contribution it ought to impress the provincial government with the merits of this hospital. # THE AMERICAN ELECTION.

The result of the election in the United States yesterday as shown in the returns reveal that McKinley has been elected president of the United States by a large majority. The Republicans carried California, Connecticut, Illinois, Delaware, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Maryland, New Hampshire, New York, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Ne- republic. braska. The combined electoral vote of these states is 285.

Bryan carried Alabama, Arkansas, Florda, Georgia, Louisiana, Montana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Colorado, Idaho and Nevada. The electoral vote of these states root up 130.

The doubtful states are Kentucky, with 13 electoral votes; Utan, with 3; South a total of 37 votes.

faking the states which are not doubtful for McKinley and we have 285 electoral votes, and those for Bryan give 130. This would give McKinley a majority of 155 votes, even if the doubtful states could be so divided that each of the candidates the leaves on a tree, but only a few Liberal member. On other grounds his where partisan feeling dominated every from all parts of the district of a most would get half. Conceding all of the only give him a total of 167 votes. The defeat of Bryan means that the be scolded out of them. What they h ve seized in the Philippines and in the West jected to by Bryan and his followers. The determination arrived at vesterday means that the people of the United States intend in the future to take a larger interest than ever before in the affairs of the world, and that the country intends to be a power, indeed, among the Powers.

As for the trusts, the Republican party doubtless is as able to cope with them as Bryan and his flowers would have been had he been elected.

On the whole, it is better that the Republican party has been triumphant, for the reason that the existing order of disturbed. The country generally is prosperous, and we beieve that t.e.e will be a continuance of that prosperity. The Republican party, to a sm ll d gree, at least, is more representative of the business community of the country than Bryan and those who support him. B yan is considerable of an iconoclast, and would have been so radial as to have, if he could, upset the eixsting order of things. This tendency on his part would dubt less have produced a distrust, an uneasiness, a fear as to the possible outcome of his administration which would ha e had a depressing effect on the material interests of the country, and might have caused a great industrial and fin n ial depression. We believe it w.s t.e fear of this that in a large measure caused his rejection at the polls. The interests involved in a change of adm nistration in the United States have grown so vast and so large that the people hesitate about placing a man in power who announces in advance that he intends to make, if he can, radical changes in the foreign and domestic policies. What they real y desire is a man of steady, fixed principles, who is not radical in his methods, and who does not desire to revolutionize the affairs of the country. We believe the country will prosper during the next four years under the rule of McKinley, and that his election is really a blessing to the people of the We believe, too, that the result in the United States will be imitated by the people of Canada today, and that the electorate will return to power the steady and reliable Liberal party, and will reject the irresponsible government which Sir Charles Tupper and his followers would like to foist upon us.
