This meeting seems to be but thinly attended, with the exception of the Representatives of Alabams. It will thus fail to create that moral influence, to which alone such deliberative assemblies hould aspire. The vexed question of restricting r extending the area of Slavery has nursed angry assions on both sides. Hence we find Henry Slay, one of the leading spirits of the age, hooted down by the North and South for proposing a compromise; yet the censures to which he is exompromise; yet the censures to which he is ex-osed at the hands of men of discordant epinions, esiding in the midst of Southern Slavery and Northern Freedom, indirectly do homage to his impartiality. Last night the House sat till about twelve.

The promised Committee on the public-expenditure, on the motion of the Inspector General, was appointed. It consists of twenty-one members, eight of whom are Ministers and ex-Ministers. The Inspector General took a great deal of pains to show that the course proposed by the Government, in moving for a Committee, was in accordance with English precedent. Str. Hincks' Bill to issilitate Free Trade between the British American Provinces, was read a second time. The inspector General explained that this Bill merely extends the principle of the Bill of last Session to articles other than those enumerated in that Bill. In answer to Mr. Cayley, Mr. Hincks said there had been some correspondence on the subject with Nova Scotia; and that Province had expressed a hope, that their levying Is. 3l. duty on the barrel of flour would prove entirely satisfactory to Canada. The Canadian Government remonstrated against this import, but the effect of their remonstrance was not yet knows.

notion of Mr. Houlton, of Norfolk, for a second reading of a Bill to amend the Practice of the Law in Upper Canada, a long and sleepy discussion arose, but the subject and the apseches could be of no interest to Lower Canada. The Bill had many good points, and others of questionable character. It was apposed by Messra Baldwin, Cameron, (Cornwall.) Smith, (Durham.) Solicitor-General Macdonald, all lawyers, whose smoluments, and those of the whole profession in Upper Canada, would be materially decreased by the success of the missaure. It is scarcely necessary to any that it was thrown out—only four voting for the second reading. Amongst the minority was Mr. Wilson, of London, who has penetralion enough to see that those lawyers who oppose Law Reform will not be returned to Parlament at the next election.

Mr. DeBlaquiers gave notice of an important motion in the Legislative Council. On the 8th June, be will move an Address to the Queen for preventing an augmentation of the present numbers of the Legislative Council, and in future to exclude from it members of the Executive Government. The great number of motions for constitutional changes, is proof of wide-opress disastications with the prevent system. In addition
