Beneficient Vesuvius.

Beneficient Vesuvius.

Volcanoes and sharks are the latest drafted allies of "the man with the hoe." As a result of extended investigations into the results of the 1906 cruptions of Vesuvius, the Italian Experimental Station, reports that the fall of valcanic material caused a notable increase in the fertility of the soil.

It hurts crops then in the ground by reason of its crushing weight and the excess of injurious salts and acids. But these harmful elements were all highly soluble and have already volatilized or washed away, while the remaining eiecta have added vast quantities of needed potash, phosphoric acid, and nitrogen.

Far away Tasmania, whose shores are infeated with sharks in apparently uncountable numbers, has ceased to dread the mousters and is now getting rich by using them as fertilizer in its immense apple orchards.

PURITY OF HEART ELIXIR OF STRENGHT

(By Ada May Krecker.) When we say, as with reason we can, at a man's strength is as the strength ten because his heart is pure, we are of ten because his heart is pure, we are only extending our materia medica to subtler spheres. Much of modern materia medica turns on the purities and impurities of the system. It is making more and more of claritying agents for the restoration of health and the renewal of youth.

That the mental influences the physical we long have known. We have known without the doctor's dictum that we grow pallid with fear, flush with shame, laugh with delight, shed strange little drops of briny water because we are grieved. If frail little women we may pine away with unrequited passion, and, albeit, the stontest of men, we went to a shadow under severe mental stress.

and, albeit, the stoffices of men, we were to a shadow under severe mental stress. But latterly the experts add to our knowledge with laboratory work. Dr Elmer E. Gates finds that the based emotions breed poisons in the blood and that the higher emotions, such as Elmer E. Gates finds that the baser emotions breed poisons in the blood, and that the higher emotions, such as love, hope and happiness, are cixirs. He avows that the ptomaines yielded by a two hours' passion of violent hatred injected into the veins are fatal. He terms hatred the deadliest poison known to science. Anger is a poison. Fear is a poison. Despair and sorrow and sadness all instill their deadly toxins into the blood.

But if we laugh we grow fat. If we hope we have bright eyes. If we love we are strong. If we are suffused with some vast idea, Liberty, Equality, Fraternity, we become conquerors.

"The Empire Builder," as Prof. James relates, was a youth enamored of a maiden on a desert island. Through the complexities of his government position he could not marry outside the kingdom, so he worked for love's sweet sake until the island was annexed to his king's teritory. So he built an empire under the impetus of his love.

The original plan of the Indian suttee, it is said, was not intended to be painful for the widow who was burned on her husband's funeral pyre. Her mind was thought to be in a magnificent frenzy of self-sacrifice, her heart all aglow with an exaltation which whelmed all her being with the ecstasies of her renunciation of life, her hail to death for her husband's sake, for her duty's sake, for the sake of her faith. Amid the blaze she was caught up in a delirium of spritual blisses, the bodily experience wholly nullified by the supremacy of the heart and mind activity.

The Christian Scientists and those of kindred convictions are ceaselessly cataloging fresh examples of the pure mind building a sound physique and of an impure heart undermining bodily health. The theorem is proved if we go no further.

But the occultists do go further and reinforce the argument. They say that

The theorem is proved if we go no further and the continuent of the control of th

tion. So all our own love and joy and hope have added love and joy and hope from the thought clouds, from friend and passerby, and thus reinforce them The affectionate, hopeful, happy, cour-

The affectionate, hopeful, happy, courageous thoughts return to us as blessings. The discordant and discouraged come back-as banes, and draw added bane from any discord or discouragement that lurks near.

Thus the pure in heart, those whose hearts are pure of thought poisons, pure of hatred, wrath, despair, those whose learnts are cleanly nourished with the clixirs of love, peace, hope, joy, courage, are strong not only with their own strength. They are invigorated with the power attracted to them by their own power attracted to them by their own purity. And their strength is made man-ifoldly stronger.

ON DULL OLD BROADWAY.

The inidicious who broke the record was progressing south in the main thoroughfare near Duane street at 3.30 o'clock, when he suddenly stopped and emitted, or admitted, a yawn.

'Hi, hum,' he observed. Then his arms fell to his side and his eygs closed. His head drooped forward, but he kept his balance and within a few seconds his snoring attracted the attention of the few near him. They stopped to watch the somnolent one and slowly the crowd grew. Still the sleeper's snores came regularly and his equilibrium remained undisturbed. One of the bystanders was about to give an imitation of an alarm about to give an imitation of an alarm clock, when he was restrained by anothlicitous individual. "Don't touch him!" warned the second "He's a soambulance and if you wake him sudden he's liable to go crazy. I read about a man once that——" but the ations of two men in checked had stopped to join the throng. "Bet you five he falls over within a minute!" offered one as he pulled out minute!" offered one as he pulled out his chronometer.

"Take you!" replied his friend, while the crowd held its collective breath.

"But if he wakes up, it don't go," stipulated the first.

An enterprising cabby who thought that a bit of business was in sight pulled up at the curb, but he was suppressed by the crowd, while the watch ticked off the seconds.

"This ain't no place to mesmerize a man," snorted the cabby in disgust, as he drove away.

The slumberer began to waver after the watch had been held on him for 10

Lead to the Fear That Miss Woodcock Has Been Murdered.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Kingston, Ont., Aug. 20 ... The lates: from Cross Lake, which is much exer cised over the disappearance of Miss Eliza Ellen Woodegock, who was last seen alive on the night of Thursday, Aug. 12, would indicate that she has been brut-ally murdered. Scarching parties have found locks of her hair and parts of the found locks of her hair and parts of the dress which she was wearing on the night that she disappeared. These grue-some traces of the missing woman were found on the shore of Beaver Creek, about four miles from where she was last seen alive. Friends fear that her body may have been thrown into the creek, and it will be carefully searched. Cross Lake is about three miles from Ardendale, a station on the C. P. R. between Smith's Falls and Toronto.

OYSTER CROP.

Set a Failure This Year-Scarcity Some Years Hence.

Providence, R.I., Aug. 19 .- The oyster set in Narraganset Bay this year is a failure, and many of the oyster growers failure, and many of the oyster growers will sustain heavy losses as a result. The failure of the set here is rendered more serious by the fact that practically the same conditions prevail in Long Island Sound, which is usually depended upon for a large part of the seed oysters. Every year millions of oysters are "planted" to set or spawn. Last year there was a phenomenal set, and in anticipation of a repetition, the oyster growers planted an unusually large number this season.

As it usually takes the young oyster

As it usually takes the young oyster from three to five years to mature, the shortage will not be felt for a few years.

DEATH OF REV. M'CARTNEY

The Rev. A. H. McCartney, a super-annuated Methodist minister of the Hamilton conference, passed peace olly away last evening at his residence, 90. Wells street, Toronto, where he had been living for the past four years.

Four weeks ago he was seized with an acute attack of influenza, and though the doctor declared his case hopeful it first, complications set in, and during the last ten days he sank rapidly.

Mr. McCartney was born in Manches-ter, England, in 1837, both parsins being of distinguished military dessent. Eis early years were spent in County Cavan, Ireland. Coming later to the United States, he received in Philadelphia an excellent education, and, coming to Can-ada, he taught school at Cartwright for several years. He was one of the first in this country to direct attention to the education of the deaf and dumb, teaching a large class of them himself for a legation.
