SUDDEN DEATH OF GEO. HAYES

The people were shocked on Wednesday morning on learning that George Hayes of Renouf had been found dead in his automobile near D. P. Sullivan's store at Renouf. The deceased was in town Tuesday with his father, Mr. Edward Hayes, Sr., and both went home by auto Tuesday night. The deceased left home early Wednesday morning, and sometime later was found dead. Death was due to heart trouble. He was about 23 years of age, and is survived by a number of sisters and brothers besides an aged father. He was highly esteemed throughout this section. About a year ago he was married to Miss Hyland daughter of Mr. William Hyland of Redbank.

FATAL RESULT OF ACCIDENT AT MILLERTON

A fatal accident occurred at Millerton Friday morning about 7 o'clock. Alfime Pineau, a young man about twenty-one years of age, son of Andrew Pineau, employed in a mill owned by his father, was putting a belt on the trimmer when the saw came back suddenly practically severing his left leg. He was immediately taken to the Miramichi hospital but succumbed to shock passing away at 3 p. m. The young man was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pineau. Besides his parents, one sister, Emma, survives him. The remains were taken to his home at Acadiaville Friday evening. The funeral took place on Sunday. Much sympathy is expressed for the family in their sorrow. He was a very popular young man and will be much missed in the community.

CHATAUQUA MEETS SUCCESS THIS YEAR

This season's Chatauqua was a grand success in every way, and was vastly superior to the two past year's performances. The guarantors of this season's Chatauqua are to be highly congratulated on the entertainments, who, by unselfish effort and without financial reward, made possible the joys and benefits of Chatauqua. Each entertainment was greeted with crowded houses and one and all of the many patrons were unanimous in their praise of the numbers presented. Long before the opening hour, patrons sought admission, and each afternoon and evening St. James' Hall was crowded to its full capacity.

No difficulty was found to dispose of the necessary number of season tickets to warrant the guarantee, and many single admissions were purchased at the door. On the opening day Wednesday, music of a high class was rendered by the American Male Quartet which was highly appreciated, and a lecture on "Social Redemption" was delivered by Hon. Chas. Poole, M.P. of New Zealand. Mr. Poole held his audience spell bound for one hour and twenty-five minutes and in a most forcible manner pictured to the audience present, how New Zealand built up the democracy which that country can so proudly boast. Mr. Poole is an excellent speaker and his address was worth much more than the full season's price of admission.

On Thursday the musical and elocutionist numbers were presented by the "Ladell Trio." Each number was delightfully rendered and received by hearty responses. The lecturer of the evening was Chancellor George Henry Bradford in "This Way Up," and for the duration of one solid hour the speaker spoke to the rising generation and their parents on the absolute necessity of education. The speaker possessed a commanding voice and an unusual vocabulary emphasizing strongly the part which the rising generation must play in the future building up of the world. This lecture like the preceding ones on Wednesday evening was worth easily ten times the season ticket admission.

On Friday the Junior Chatauqua put on their Stunt Party, and delighted the audience immensely. This feature of Chatauqua clearly demonstrates what can be accomplished with the young when taken charge of by a competent instructor. The "Buckner's Jubilee" Stanzas were most agreeably received, and many favorable comments were heard concerning the beautiful selections rendered. The three days on which Chatauqua were held will be long remembered by the patrons, and those unfortunate enough not to have heard the entertainments have missed something out of the ordinary, especially to a Newcastle audience.

The work of the Chatauqua is of a highly educational nature and they people of Newcastle should appreciate the efforts made by the guarantors to give them this high class entertainment. The Chatauqua, being of such a high order this year should find no difficulty in securing guarantors for next season and we feel sure that when they again return they will have a much larger success than they did this season. The guarantors for this season's Chatauqua were as follows: Messrs J. W. Troy, H. D. Atkinson, R. C. Clark, E. A. McCurdy, F. E. Locky, J. R. Lawlor, Thos. A. Clarke, A. L. Barry, L. D. Murray, Rev. L. H. MacLean, Dr. R. Nicholson, W. F. Cunn, Chas. Sargeant, John Russell, John S. Johnson, Dr. Marven, W. A. Park and Misses E. C. and A. E. Parker.

Miss Stevens Murdered Is Doctors View

Edmundston, N. B., Oct. 13—Murdered and then thrown into the Madawaska River was the decision of the physicians who examined the body of Miss Minnie Stevens, the young telegraph operator whose body was discovered in the bottom of the river early yesterday. Tonight two officers left for Quebec City and Montreal in an endeavor to locate two men who left town in a hurry as soon as the cruel murder was discovered. They passed thru River Du Loup, Que. early last evening while in this town. As the Quebec police have a full description of the car and the number, it is expected they will not succeed in reaching the United States boundary.

Very Popular Girl
Hourly the tragedy becomes more appalling. Miss Stevens was a beautiful girl of about twenty years of age, who had been in the telegraph office here since last June. She made friends rapidly and was exceedingly popular in all circles. On Tuesday evening she left her friend Miss Bessie Johnston, about 9 o'clock to walk to her room.

"I'm not afraid," was her parting word as she turned away. No one, as far as can be discovered yet, ever saw her alive after that moment—except the murderer. About a half hour later fearful screams were heard from the direction of the river, but as they ceased in a moment the two or three who came out of doors to investigate decided all was well. It was at the place of the screaming that the body was found the next noon, with the head battered in and the neck and parts of the body showing horrible finger marks. The shrieks were the death cries of the young woman.

How Crime Was Discovered

The murder was discovered when a set of false teeth, some hairpins and some hair were found on the shore. As blood stains were very numerous, Chief of Police Savage was called. He decided to drag the river, and he had been engaged in this work only a few minutes when the slain girl's body was brought to the surface. Doctors who examined it were united in their decision that the girl had been assaulted and murdered before she was thrown into the river.

The local officers are keen on the trail of the auto that left the town so fast after the discovery of the crime. It was an old car bearing a Massachusetts number. It was without any mud-guards, and carried four spare tires. It is said that the room the men had occupied here shows blood stains upon towels and bed linen and that they seemed very nervous when the village learned of the tragedy.

The two are about 27 years of age each and one is at least six feet in height, while the other is slightly shorter.

BUILDING BOOM IN MONCTON

MONCTON, N. B., Oct. 13—Building permits here this month to date totalled $57,200. A permit for $30,000 was taken out on the 8th inst. by L. H. Higgins for the erection of a moving picture house on Lutz street. The Bank of Nova Scotia is applying for a permit for the erection of a building here, the amount being $10,000.

Very Sharp Reductions In Men's Overcoats

in Heather Mixtures and Grey Tweed

We mean that magnificent material that wears, and wears without end. Lots of style to them too. Warm and comfortable, have deep pockets, slash or set in as you prefer, big storm collars or the smaller ones. Built to withstand the raging of winter winds when one is driving in the open country, quite as much as walking in town.

The Prices Have Been Cut Below Cost Prices to Clear.
