B.C. Beaver Multiply in Close Season

VICTORIA, B.C., May 10.—Although the intensive and ruthless trapping operations of a few months ago threatened to wipe out altogether British Columbia's beaver colonies, a series of closed seasons and careful government supervision have resulted in a rapid increase in the number of these valuable fur-bearing animals. From all districts beaver are now reported to be multiplying and there is a strong prospect that this branch of the fur industry will be completely rehabilitated within a year or so. The fox farm has come to stay in this province and there are more than 200 licenses for such farms, according to game bird figures. The fur trade of British Columbia represented approximately $3,000,000 last year.

Star Movie To-Night

TARNISH! The word rang in her ears, echoing on every side from the calls and trumpet blasts of the wild merry-makers. She had expected to be the happiest in all that happy throng, for the man she loved had just asked her to be his wife. And then an accident revealed the startling truth—tarnish! A picture that will sound the depths of your feelings and make you a truer sweetheart when you learn how this trusting girl solved her problem. With May McAvoy, Marie Prevost, Ronald Colman, Norman Kerry, Harry Myers.

Input or Output Transformer ?

EDITED BY JOHN H. CLAYTON.

A super-heterodyne receiver has a radio-frequency amplifier which operates on a comparatively high wavelength (5,000 to 10,000 meters). This radio-frequency amplifier is known as the intermediate-frequency amplifier. It consists, usually, of iron core transformers whose cores are very thin sheets of laminated silicon steel and whose windings are made of comparatively small wire. These transformers operate over quite a large band of frequencies but in a super we want to amplify and pass only a comparatively narrow band of wavelengths. It is necessary, therefore, to have a sharply-tuned transformer somewhere in the radio-frequency amplifier to limit to some extent the broadness of the intermediate amplifier.

It placed ahead of the intermediate transformer this sharply-tuned system is called an input transformer, and if placed after the intermediate amplifier the tuned transformer is called an output transformer. It can be placed in either place, but which is best? That is a question which is causing much comment and which is worrying super-heterodyne fans. The super will work no matter how the transformer is used, either as an input or an output transformer. Advocates for the output transformer claim that as the signal in the

The Ascania

NEW CUNARD LINE FOR THE CANADIAN SERVICE.

Thousands of Tyne-side ship-workers stopping work to wave good-bye to the vessel that represented five years of their craftsmanship—this was the memory of those who reached Southampton recently in the new Cunard liner "Ascania," which has just successfully completed her trials. Owing to labour, trade, and other difficulties the "Ascania" had slowly grown at Walker-on-Tyne for five years.

The "Ascania" was built by Sir W. G. Armstrong, Whitworth, & Co., Ltd. She makes her first sailing from Southampton to Quebec and Montreal on May 22. She is of 14,000 tons, carrying 522 cabin and 928 third-class passengers.

City Under the Sea

"The ruins of an ancient city have been found by divers submerged thirty feet below the surface of the Mediterranean Sea, off the coast of Tunisia," says the Daily Express.

The divers report that many large stone buildings were visible, outlined in dim shadows on the sandy bottom, and that fish swam in and out of crumbled doorways.

"Archaeologists are preparing to make further explorations. Additional interest is attached to the discovery by the fact that the city lies in waters described by Virgil and near the 'Isle of the Lotus Eaters,' of which Homer sang."

High Union Wages Forces Company to Close Mines

PITTSBURGH, May 11.—Suspension of operations at four additional union mines, was announced to-day by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Eleven had previously been closed and the announcement said only two of the company's union mines are now in operation. The mines were closed, the company statement said, "for the reason that coal cannot be produced at the present high union wages and sold in competition with southern non-union coal, except at a heavy loss."

Gas on Stomach Made Mrs. Cook Nervous

"For years I had gas on the stomach and was nervous. Adierlin has done more good than anything," (signed) Lela Cook. ONE spoonful Adierlin removes GAS and often brings surprising relief to the stomach. Stops that full, bloated feeling. Don't waste time with pills or tablets but let Adierlin give your bowels a REAL cleansing, bringing out matter you never thought was in your system! Sold by all leading Druggists.

England's Backbone

The Rev. A. W. Orr, Vicar of St. Paul's, Kingston Hill, Surrey, in his parish magazine writes:—"Thank God for the heavily taxed, despised, respectable, home-loving, middle-class people who cannot afford night clubs, jazz, and cocktails because they are actually educating their children at their own expense. They are the salvation of the nation."

Among the galaxy of bright shades black trimmed with white looks distinctively smart.

Of course! Hostesses who make nice distinctions simply wouldn't think of offering their guests a soap less pure than Guest Ivory!
