TORONTO, Feb. 5-11 p.m.—A disturbance which has traveled rapidly from the Pacific now covers the country from Kansas to Lake Superior, and the pressure is very high over Eastern Canada and throughout the West and Northwest. Snow has fallen generally from British Columbia to Manitoba. Elsewhere the weather has been fair.

Minimum temperatures: Calgary, 36° below; Swift Current, 26° below.

TORONTO, Feb. 6-1 a. m.—Probabilities for the next 24 hours for the lower lakes region (covering the peninsula and as far east as Belleville) are: Strong winds, shifting to westerly and northwesterly; cloudy, mild with rain, followed towards evening and night by decidedly colder and local snow. A three days' session will be held.

The usual ceremonies connected with candlemas day were held at St. Peter's Cathedral and St. Mary's Church Sunday. They consisted in blessing the candles that are to be used during the year. Members of the congregations contributed large numbers of candles.

Cold Comiort.

February temperature usually ranges pretty high, but when there is a spell of cold weather extending into that month, as in the present case, an early spring may be looked for. The forces that have caused the rigors will have exhausted themselves by the end of this month, and March in all probability will be mild and safubrious. This can never be looked for in an open winter. A cold winter, besides, kills disease germs in the earth, and is also productive of a good harvest, having, as it does, a peculiar influence on the soil.—

A water pipe burst in the top flight of the Masonic Temple about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The pipe was two and a half inches in diameter, and the water gushed out at an alarming rate. Flat after flat was flooded until a policeman on that beat heard the water dripping through into Halle's music store. The engineer who resides in the building was at once aroused, and in a minute the supply was turned off. The floors in some of the lodge rooms were flooded, but were uninjured. "The Stowaway."

It may be a matter of interest to the public to know just how Manager Litt, of "The Stowaway," ever happened to secure "Spike" Hennessy and "Kid" McCoy to appear in the play named, doing their realistic safe-blowing act. Some seven years ago Mr. Litt was making the trip from Milwaukeet to New York by way of Toronto. Somewhere between Toronto and New York he was approached by a very smooth-talking; elegantly-appearing young man, who soon succeeded in engaging Mr. Litt in conversation. Mr. Litt soon retired to his berth, but early in the morning was awakened by some one feeling under his pillow; he quickly seized the intruder and discovered that it was none other than his smooth young friend of the night before. The young man at once denied all attempt at robbery, but the evidence was too strong, and he was compelled to admit his guilt. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for a year. About a year after this Mr. Litt was approached one day in New York by a nice-appearing man, who at once introduced himself as Spike Hennessy. He told Mr. Litt his history, and that he was desirous of reforming, but was unable to obtain any kind of work, and that he had made up his mind to speak to him at the solicitation of the young man who had been sent to the penitentiary for attempting to steal Mr. Litt's watch and pocketbook on the sleeping-car. Mr. Abbott was a man in good circumstances, who had drawn a liberal salary for a number of years, and it was an imposition on the taxpayers of the city to ask them to put their hands in their pockets and pension a man who was in no need of it. The principle was had, those who had the most were pensioned most, and in the case of a corporation laborer he could work until old age compelled his retirement but he must look for no pension. The secretary was instructed to communicate with the City Council, and ask that in the event of a deputation waiting on them, asking that the suggestion of the chairman of the Board of Education be carried out. "we ask in the name of the ratepayers that it be filed, as we believe that the great majority of them are opposed to it, as Mr. Abbott has already received pay for services performed and should not receive considerations that are not extended to other servants of the corporation." LESSONS FROM THE FISHES.

Dr. Talmage on the Ichthyology of the Bible.

The Celebrated Divine Draws Many Beautiful Thoughts From the Finny Tribe-Fish the First of Liv-

BROOKLYN, Feb. 5.—Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage this morning preached to a great audience in the Tabernacle, a remarkably interesting and elequent sermon on "The Lehthylogly of the Bible, or God among the Fishes," being a continuation of his series of discourses on "God Everywhere." The text chosen was Genesis, i., 20: "And God said, "Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creatures that hath life."

life."

What a new book the Bible is! After 36 years preaching from it and discussing over 3,000 different subjects founded on the Word of God, the Book is as fresh to me as when I learned, with a stretch of infantile memory, the shortest verse in the Bible, "Jesus wept," and I opened a few weeks ago a new realm of biblical interests that neither my pulpit nor anyone else's had ever explored, and having spoken to you in this course of sermons on God Everywhere concerning the Astronomy of the Bible, or God among the Centuries; the Ornithology of the Bible, or God among the Centuries; the Ornithology of the Bible, or God among the Fishes.

Our horses were lathered and tired out, and their fetlecks were red with the blood cut out by the rocks, and I could hardly get my feet out of the stirrups as on Saturday night we dismounted on the beach of Lake Galilee. The rather liberal supply of food with which we had started from Jerusalem was well nigh exhausted, and the articles of diet remaining, had, by oft repetition, three times a day for three weeks, ceased to appetize. To our extemporized table on Sabbath morning came broiled perch, only a few hours before lifted out of the sacred waters. It was natural that our minds should revert to the only breakfast that Christ ever prepared, and it was on those very shores where we breakfasted. All that seeme came back to us when on Sabbath morning, in December, 1889, just outside the ruins of ancient Tiberias, and within the sound of the rippling Galilee, we breakfasted.

Now, is it not strange that the Bible imagery is so inwrought from the fisheries, when the Hely Land is, for the most part, an inland region? Only three lakes, two beside the one already mentioned, namely, the Dead Sea, where fish cannot live at all and Egypt. The Nile was full of fish, and that explains the horrors of the plague that slaughtered the finny tribe all up and down that river, which has been and is now the main artery of Egypt's life. Yea, the fish began to swim in the very first book of Genesis, where my text records, "And God add, let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life." Do you realize that the first living thing that God created was the fish? It preceded the bird, the quadruped, the human race. The next thing done after God had kindled for our world the golden chandelier of the sun and the silver chandelier of the moon was to make the fish. The first motion of the principle of life, a principle that all the thousands of years since have not been able to define or analyze, the very first stir of life was in a fish. Lanceolate and translucent miracle! There is enough wonder in the plate of a sturgeon or in the cartilage of a shark to confound the scientists. It does not take the universe to prove a God. A fish does it. Oh, its beauty, and the adaptedness of its structure to the element in which it must live. In times to come the world may be so populated that the harvests and vineyards and land animals may be insufficient to feed the human family, and the nations may be obliged to come to the rivers and ocean beaches to seek the living harvests that swim the deep, and that would mean more health, and vigor, and brilliancy, and brain, than the human race now own.

Efficiently and the mations may be obliged to come to the rivers and ocean beaches to seek the living harvests that swim the deep, and that would mean more health, and vigor, and brilliancy, and brain, than the human race now own.

Efficiently a principle of the fish as an article of food. The reason that men and women lived three and four and five and nine hundred years was because they were kept on parched corn and fish. We mix up a fantastic food that kills the most of us before 30 years of age. Custards and whipped sillabubs and Roman punches and work, when nothing killed the poor fellow but llobster eaten at a party four hours after he ought to have been sound asleep in bed. There are men to-day in our streets so many walking hospitals who might have been athletes, if they had taken the hint of Genesis in my text and of our Lord's remark and adhered to simplicity of diet. The reason that the country districts have furnished most of the men and women of our time who are doing the mightiest work in merchandise, in mechanics, in law, in medicine, in theology, in legislative and congressional halls, and all the Presidents from Washington down—at least, those who have amounted to anything—is because they were in those country districts of necessity kept on plain diet. No man or woman ever amounted to anything who was brought up on floating-island or angel-cake. The world must turn back to paradissic diet if it is to get paradissic morals and pardisaic health. The human race to-day needs more phosphorus, and the fish is charged and surcharged with phosphorus. Phosphorus, that which shines in the dark without burning. What made the twelve Apostles such stalwart men that they could endure anything and achieve everything? Next to divine inspiration it was because they were

which shines in the dark without burning. What made the twelve Apostles such stalwart men that they could endure anything and achieve everything? Next to divine inspiration it was because they were nearly all fishermen and lived on fish and a few plain condiments.

Know, also, in order to understand the Ichthyology of the Bible that in the deeper waters, as those of the Mediterranean, there were monsters that are now extinct. The fools who become infidels because they cannot understand the engulfment of the recreat Jonah in a sea monster, might have saved their souls by studying a little natural history. "Oh," says some one, "that story of Jonah was only a fable." But my reply is that history tells us that there were monsters large enough to whelm ships. The extinct ichthyosaurus of other ages was 30 feet long, and as late as the sixth century of the Christian era, up and down the Mediterranean there floated monsters compared with which a modern whale was a sardine or a herring.

Furthermore, in order that you may understand the ichthyology of the Bible, you must know that there were five ways of fishing. One was by a fence of reeds and canes, within which the fish were caught. Another mode was by spearing; the waters of Gallee so clear, good aim could be taken for the transfixing. Another was by hook and line. Another mode was by a casting net or that which was flung from the shore. Another by a drag net or that which was thrown from a boat and drawn through the sea as the fishing smack sailed on. How wonderful all this is inwroughe into the Bible imagery, and it leads me to ask in which mode are you and I fishing, for the Church is the boat and the Gospei is the net, and the sea is the world and the fish are the souls, and God addresses us as he did Simon and Andrew, saying: "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men."

But be sure before you start out to the Gospel fisheries to get the rightkind of bait.

us as he did Simon and Andrew, saying:
"Follow me and I will make you fishers of men."

But be sure before you start out to the Gospel fisheries to get the rightkind of bait,
"But how," you say, "am I to get it?" My answer is, "Dig for it." Where shall I dig for it?" "In the rich Bible grounds." Yes, not only must you dig for bait, but use only fresh bait. You cannot do anything down at the pond with old angle worms. All hail, the fishermen with hook and line! I think many less their time by wanting to fish with a net, and they never get a place to swing the net; in other words, they want to do Gospel work on a big scale or they will not do it at all. In the eternal world there will be many a man and many a woman that was never heard of outside of a villege Sunday school or a prayer meeting buried in a church basement, who will come before the throne of God with a multitude of souls ransomed through his or her instrumentality and yet the work all done through personal interview one by one, one by one. You do not know who that one soul may be. Staupitz helped one soul into the light, but it was Martin Luther. Thomas Bilney brought salvation to one soul, but it was Hugh Latimer. An edge tool maker was the means of saving one soul, but it was John Summerfield. Our blessed Lord healed one blind eye at a time, one praylyzed arm at a time, one dropsical patient at a time, and Summerfield. Our blessed Lord healed one blind eye at a time, one paralyzed arm at a time, one dropsical patient at a time, and raised from the dead one girl at a time, one young man at a time. Admire the net that takes in a great many at once, but do not despise the hook and line.
