The Bruce Spring Assizes opened Monday, with Justice Rose presiding. There are seven civil snd three oriminal cases, the latter consisting of an indecent assault and a forgery case, and a case wherein intoxication while in control of a railway train is charged. The grand jury returned a true bill against Michael Wagner for forgery. The prisoner does not appear to answer his bail. No bill was found against Duncan McCallum on the charge of intoxication while acting as railway conducter. His Lordship, in addressing the grand jury, speke in very strong terms as to the condition of the court house, of its defective heating and ventilation. His Lordship thought if the councils would not take these matters up that the Government should do so through its inspectors.
