

in the thriving town of Aurora, who wrote a short article in that ably conducted and excellent paper, the Aurora Banner, about Pat's "trash of a book" and "the terrors of his book;" poor old rabid, ranting, raving

RICHARDSON.

What a world-wide difference there is between such a contemptible creature and the Hon. Oliver Mowat! what a great gap between the positions they severally occupy. But it is one of the inscrutable laws of human existence that men should occupy the levels their natures, dispositions, their talents and attributes qualify and fit them for. There is almost as much difference between this man and Mr. Mowat as there is between this man and a big baboon!
