

Oh, Lift up Your Hearts.

J. E. KURZENKABE.

1. Oh, lift up your hearts, for he com - eth, The promised one ho - ly and true;
2. The sto - ry so old and so pre - cious, Once told to the shepherds at night,

Oh, greet him with glad a - do - ra - tion, And car - ol his prais - es a - new.
Grows dear - er and sweet - er, and fills us With ev - er re - turn - ing de - light.

CHORUS.

He com - eth, eth,
He com - eth, he com - eth, ex - pect - ed so long! No vis - ion of beau - ty we see,

But glo - ry, great glo - ry of heav - en - ly song, And crowning of an - gels hath he.

3 Oh, could we but look through the ages,
How sweet to behold from afar,
The gleam of the angels in glory
Reflected in Bethlehem's star!

4 O tidings, most holy and blessed,
Of "peace unto men and good-will,"
Come, quicken our hearts with devotion,
Our souls with thy melody fill.

—Mrs. R. N. Turner.

Imp
P
Arct
The Near East.
Scientific Farm
Among the Phi
A Great Canad
Lumbering.
The Danish Ro
Homes and Ha
Sunny Days in
Auld Reekie a
The Ministry o
In the Baleari
Sidelights in S
China in Tran
More "Keys of
Old English Bo
Bath.
Warwick: Its C
—Joseph A
In Shakespear
Pictures of Ol
Everyday-Life
Pasant Life i
Albert Durer
Holbein's Dan