HOME WITHOUT A MOTHER.

The room's in disorder,
The cat's on the table,
The flower-stand upset, and the mischief to pay;
And Johnny is screaming
As loud as he's able,
For nothing goes right when mamma's away.

What a scene of discomfort and confusion home would be if mamma did not return. If your wife is slowly breaking down, from a combination of domestic cares and female disorders, make it your first business to restore her health. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is without a peer as a remedy for feeble and debilitated women, and is the only medicine for the class of maladies known as female diseases which is sold under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers that it will give satisfaction, or the money will be refunded. It is a positive cure for the most complicated cases of womb troubles.

A very strange ceremony is observed in the Cevennes Mountains every New Year's Eve. This is the so-called "Animal's Mass." The church where this takes place is described as "a poor, little, tumble-down place, with lichen-grown walls and a square, ungraceful steeple." While the "cracked bell tolls frantically," the mountaineers inside the church, dressed in their festal clothes and each one holding a lighted candle, sing the old Cevenol hymn beginning, "Night more beautiful than day," and the oxen, the cows, sheep and goats are driven to take their places in long rows before the open portico of the church. Mass is then celebrated in the usual manner, but when the "Ita messa est" is pronounced the priest once more raises the host, and chanting the "Magnificat" marches toward the door, followed by the whole congregation. The drivers and shepherds fall upon their knees, and an acolyte with a holy-water-sprinkler walks through the ranks of the bellowing and bleating animals and anoints them with the holy fluid. Moved by some unknown instinct, or excited by this ceremony, the animals which have been lying down rise to their feet, while the venerable cure blesses them. The ceremony concludes with a loud hosanna, in which everyone joins, and the sound, mingled with the voices of the animals, is echoed from the surrounding hills.

THE TESTIMONIALS Published on behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla are as reliable and as worthy your confidence, as if they came from your best and most trusted neighbor. They state only the simple facts in regard to what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done, always within truth and reason.

Constipation, and all troubles with the digestive organs and the liver, are cured by Hood's Pills. Unqualified as a dinner pill.

By the time a deer is five years old he should have what are called his "rights," that is, the brow antler, which is nearest the base of the horn or burr, the bez or bay, an inch or two higher up the beam or upright (main shaft of the horn), the tray or tres above that, and finally two on top, or two points on one of his antlers. This constitutes a stag of light points—a runnable or warrantable deer, who will, in another year, have two on top on both sides and become a stag of ten points. In Scotland when there are three on top on both sides the head is termed a Royal one, but I have never heard the term used in the West. Most of these words are derived from old Norman-French hunting terms, but the deer themselves are called by names which sound unmistakably English. In his first year, for instance, a young male deer is a calf, at two years he is a "knobber," "knobbler," or "brochet," from his budding horns, a hind at the same age being called a "hearst." In the third year he is a "spire" or "pricket," the upright beam having formed, after which he becomes a "staggart," attaining to his full titles and dignities at the age of five.—From "Wild Stag Hunting in Devon and Somerset," by the Countess of Malmesbury, in North American Review.

ENDORSED BY THE LEADERS.—When a remedy is endorsed by ministers, editors, merchants and leading men of all classes, it is strong evidence that that remedy has great merit and does what is claimed for it. Such a remedy is Burdock Blood Bitters, its wonderful success as a cure for dyspepsia, bad blood, etc., is well known to old and young.
