

We are at a crossroads. All this is history in the making. We control the destiny and the future of this country. Let us not forget that we are all diverse. We all may see Canada through a somewhat different window, but we all see Canada in the background. Let us not lose our focus on Canada and its diversity.

Some Hon. Senators: Hear, hear!

Hon. B. Alasdair Graham (Deputy Leader of the Government): Honourable senators, I would certainly not suggest that we have completed the roster of speakers on this particular bill on either side of the house. There have been discussions with the leadership on both sides. There seems to be an agreement that we might adjourn and resume tomorrow. If any honourable senator wants to speak tonight, then we still have time. However, I do not see anyone who is so inclined.

If there is agreement, I would adjourn the debate in the name of Senator Bacon.

On motion of Senator Graham, for Senator Bacon, debate adjourned.

BUSINESS OF THE SENATE

Hon. B. Alasdair Graham (Deputy Leader of the Government): Honourable senators, if there is agreement, I move that all remaining Orders, Reports, Motions and Inquiries stand.

Motion agreed to.

The Senate adjourned until Wednesday, November 22, 1995 at 1:30 p.m.
