

RIVIERE-DU-LOUP

is the next stopping place of the boat after leaving Murray Bay. It is one of the favourite Summer resorts, and whilst probably not as thronged as Cacouna, is frequented by many of the best families of both Montreal and Quebec. The site of the Town of Fraserville, (the name under which it is incorporated,) is very beautiful; on a level plateau, at a considerable elevation, it commands a most extended view of the St. Lawrence, and the distant Laurentian Mountains. The lover of nature will enjoy the beautiful effect of a June or July sunset, as seen from here—when the sea-like river lies calmly at his feet, reflecting the distant azure mountains just tip't with a golden glory.

"Cold must the heart be, and void of emotion," that would not melt under the influence of such a sight."

There are two very fine water falls at Rivière-du-Loup. The upper one can only be seen from the point of a rock jutting over it, on which not more than two or three persons can venture at a time. The other, to be seen to advantage should be seen from the further side of the river from the village. The hotel accommodation is all that could be desired. La Rochelle's is not surpassed for comfort and cleanliness anywhere.

Cacouna,

lies on the banks of the St. Lawrence about seven miles from Rivière-du-Loup, and is the most popular of all the Canadian watering places. Its houses are comfortable, roads good, sidewalks broad and clean.

ST. LAWRENCE HALL,

the largest hotel below Quebec, can accommodate upwards of 400 guests, and offers all the comforts of a first-class Hotel. Besides, the "Hall" there, are numerous, other good Hotels in the place affording accommodation for about 1500 guests at a time.

Leaving Rivière-du-Loup wharf, the boat now turns her prow due North and steams for

the "Mecca" of all tourists. What a crowding on the traveller as he feels that he has reached that mysterious river! A run of twenty miles by boat to where the great river loses itself in the great sea.

This watering place has been selected by the Governor General of the Dominion as a place where he has erected a splendid dwelling.

The Hotel accommodation is first class, the hotel being owned by a rich company, every room with it is of such a nature as to afford all the comforts of a hotel for several years, is again head of the river.

Mr. Fennell, the popular manager, who has been at the head of the hotel for several years, is again head of the river.

From this point to Chicoutimi, a distance of about 100 miles, and the furthest place to which the boat goes, truthfully be said that not an inch of the way is without interest. At every turn of the boat—at every rapids—some new attraction is discovered. The water beneath, a thousand feet deep, the high, sombre mountains above, have each their fair share of beauty.

It is impossible within the limits of an article to even name the many attractions of the river.

CAPES ETERNITY AND TR

claim a word. Guarding the entrance to the Saguenay, these two promontories rise on either hand, the one to a height of 1,900 feet and the other only a little less. The Saguenay possessed no other points of interest, the traveller would regret having come to see the river.

The traveller wishing to see other places after leaving the Saguenay and crossing the Rivière du Loup, take the steamer "St. Lawrence" which leaves Quebec at 1 P.M. on Saturday, which pleasant town is well worth visiting on the water's edge and is the seat of large manufactures, has a fine Cathedral, College and House and Jail. The Intercolonial Railway crosses the town, and here crosses the Rimouski river by an iron bridge. The hotels are comfortable and moderately.
