

which was formed by his Care, and confessedly owes its Triumphs in every Quarter of the Globe, to the Excellence of his Institution !

Thus shall the Military Power of Britain, entrusted by its Sovereign to the Conduct of those, whom Nature has bound inseparably to his Interest, and Heaven made strong for his Service, be a Terrour to her Enemies, and a Safeguard to her happy Sons.

By this constitutional Distribution, all Jealousies will be removed, and that Harmony between the Governours, and Governed, which blessed the happy Evening of the late Father of his People, and made their Hearts bleed for his Loss, he restored ; while the Supreme Power shall be exerted SOLELY by the King himself ; and all the Emoluments of Government flowing regularly from his Royal Hand, bind the Souls of his Subjects in the Adamantine Chains of Gratitude to the Sacred Dispenser of their Happiness ; nor will any Minister have an Opportunity to strengthen himself in his Power,
