NECESSARY

Only Question is Whether it Should Be Straight or Curved, According to Board of Trade - Mayor Geary Says Another Vote Will Re Taken in January.

Whatever the issue of the various sites and methods of construction, it was clearly evident tt the board of trade luncheon at the St. Charles yes terday, that the members were of the opinion that the Bloor-st. viaduct was an absolute necessity, and must come at an early date. E. L. Cousins, chief. engineer of the harbor commission, ex-plained to the members by means of a blue print of the members by means of a blue print of the Rosedale ravine and vicinity, the various proposals which had come to his attention. He, first of all, however, made clear the point that rumors to the effect that the department resented interference from outside organizations; was untrue. "On the contrary," said he, "these proposals have been very helpful to me and to my superiors in laying out our estimates on the viaduct." Mr. Cousins did not hesitate to state that in his online some convection. that in his opinion some connection or means of transportation between the Danforth-ave. vicinity and the central section of Toronto was absolutely ne-rates received strong opposition at a special meeting of the water sub-committee in the city hall yesterday morning from representatives of the Manu-

W. C. Phillips refuted the charge that manufacturers were getting water below cost. He also excorlated the present system in the waterworks department at the city hall, saying that it was impossible to secure any accurate data without exhaustive search among the books there.

Referring to Mr. Mitchell's report of 1911, where the revenue for 1910 was reported at $775,000, and expenditure at $900,000, he contended that the figures for expenditure were overestimated by 20 per cent

Ultimately one of the divers managed to get into the cabin, but the current was so strong that twice he was washed out again before he succeeded in his object. Another of the divers got entangled in the wreckage, while on several occasions the men were obliged to let go their hold on the guide-ropes, and trust to luck and the currents to reach the surface.

It is the state of the water rather than the depth which has made the task of recovering the Oceana buildion so difficult, for it is by no means the greatest depth of water from which treasure has been salved.

WAR ON FRENCH CRIMINALS.

PARIS. May 22.-As the result of a of radical reforms will be introduced in French police methods.

Police Prefect Lepine advocates the installation of telephones, accessible only to the police, who, by means of pocket transmitters, could communicate with headquarters.

In view of the valuable services rendered at the siege of the motor car bandits by bullet-proof shields, the prefect favors their further use, supplemented by coats of mail.

mented by coats of mail.

He has also suggested the use of sulphuric acid and capsules, which would render the air so poisonous that criminals would be obliged to come out of hiding places and surrender.

The dangerous nature of the work in this case may be gathered from the fact that the deck collapsed to within 18 inches of the cabin floor, and at the finish of the dynamite operations the diver reported that there was no part of the wreck standing higher than himself, excepting the engines and the main boliers; it was just a heap of scrap iron.

Among other instances of recovered sunken treasure might be mentioned the $250,000 worth of specie raised from the Hamillo Mitchell, which sank in 150 foet of water near Shanghai, In these cases the great depth of water was an important consideration. The Liberals are unlikely to put up a fight.
