

Mystery of the Mustache.

Watch the men who wear a mustache. The good-natured ones curl the ends up, the cross ones pull the ends down. So you can tell 'em apart and govern yourself accordingly. But the secret isn't in the mustache,—it is in the stomach and in the blood. Clear out the bile with a few doses of Mother Seigel's Operating Pills and the ends of the mustaches will curl upwards of their own option, as a dog lifts his ears when somebody speaks his name pleasantly.

The maid fell overboard one day;
The boat was far from land;
Her frenzied lover cried, "Oh! pray,
Pray, love, give me your hand!"

The maid betrayed no silly fear,
But murmuring said: "Oh, la!
You ask me for my hand, George,
dear,
You first must speak to pa."

A General.

Mabel—Maud is a clever flirt.
Ethel—Is that so?
Mabel—Yes, indeed. In a recent little affair she managed to cut out her chaperon.

ESQUIMAUX

Up to Date.

There have always been plasters of some sort or another. The old-fashioned mustard poultice, the bread poultice, etc., were among them. Not bad, in their day, but untidy, sprawling things at best. Neatness, handiness and medicinal virtue are qualities of Mother Seigel's Soothing Plasters. The old style plasters must go with all the other things that the world has outgrown.

What Women Like.

They like a man who can be strong as a lion when trouble comes, and yet, if one is nervous and tired, can button up a shoe, and do it with an amount of consideration that is a mental and a physical bracer-up.

They like a man who can take hold of the baby, convince it of his power, and get it to sleep after they have been worrying with it and walking with it until their eyes are tired and they feel as if they had no brains.

She Ought to Be.

Mr. Bridie—She looks like an intelligent girl.
Mrs. Bridie—Cert. I got her at an intelligence office.
