Mr. Eaton then introduced "Our early-closing friend. Rev. Dr. Potts." After referring to the Eaton Company as "unlimited," the Doctor said: "I am a little like the Queen of Sheba to-night; I was expecting large things, but I am almost overwhelmed with the magnificence of this gathering, and Mr. Eaton was the first that ever came to me in the interests of early closing, begging me to join him, and I did so. I only recently came across the manuscript of the sermon I preached in Elmstreet Church, from the text. Biessed are the merciful for they shall receive mercy. It has not been a failure at 190 Yongestreet."

A Joke and 3000 Laughs.

Dr. Sullivan remarked that people in general did not understand the significance of the early-closing move to workers. He had never witnessed a grander sight than to-night. He referred to Miss Alexander's delightful rendering of the bargain people, which reminded him of a certain little boy who, being away from home for a few weeks, returned to find a pair of twins in the crib he had so lately occupied. His mood was surprise, then sorrow, then wrath, and finally he burst out, with the exclamation: "I suppose mother's been to the bargain-counter again!" which caused much merr'ment and about 3000 laughs.

"Our consumptive physician, Dr. Cotton," was suffering from a cold, but wished those present a happy New Year.

"This is the biggest Eatin' company if ever witnessed," was Dr. Briggs' opening remarks—2500 souls with but a single thought of enjoying it to the full. In the words of Oliver Goldsmith, "he claimed a kinship here and wished his claims allowed," for they all believed in the value of printers' ink, "and one of these days someone will be coming to me and wanting a marter of a million catalogs." The spirit of the printer was not mercenary, it was magnanimous, merely to spread news, and a liberal use of printers' ink and advertising had made the T. Eaton Company a household word. In the words of the poet, "Early to bed, early to rise," Never get tight.—

Mr. H. H. Godfrey is out with a new song with the above title, and, if the success of his previous songs is any criterion, it is sure to have a big run. As a popular chorus. It is perhaps not as likely to be used, but as a solo it is one of his best efforts, being very tuneful and easy, while the words are sure to inspire enthusiasm. Messrs. J. L. Orme & Son of Ottawa are the publishers. Mr. Godfrey is also the author of the new "Two-Step" (General Hutton's Two-Step), which was so much admired at the dance of the Royal Greuadiers this week. end of the play it savors of uncertainty. The scenic effects are said to be strikingly realistic. The yard of an old inn situated in the forest is described as pretty and effective, scattered about being evidences of the time, notably an old carriage covered with ivy, and showing evidences of long disuse. The Chateau de Mauray is spoken of as another brilliant example of the artist's handiwerk. The ivy, hanging in coils from the trees, is used as a swing by the people, as a means of entrance through a high window. The company, said to be an exceptionally talented one, is headed by John Griffith, an actor of resources, whose impersonation of the character, originally assumed by E. H. Sothern, has been a revelation to his most ardent admirers. Miss Katheryn Prunell is the leading lady, and the attraction is sure to be a big card. The engagement opens with a special matinee this afternoon. Bargain matinees will be given, as usual, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The Fascinating Mantell.

"Moths" at the Princess. "Moths" opens the 19th week of the Cummings Stock Company's season at the Princess Theatre to-day, and a production is promised that will surpass anything yet done at this house. The company is now castly stronger than it has been before, and having in "Moths" one of the best plays to work on the performance should be an attractive one. This story of Oulda's is well known in Toronto, the book has been read all over the world, and, with the play bringing out the story in a much more forceful manner, it becomes all the more interesting. The play in this way has a most decided advantage over the book. It has long been one of the stage's biggest successes, and, with the present strength of the Cummings Company, it should prove a splendid success here. Miss Eleanor Browning makes her first appearance as Vern; Mr. Wright Huntington appears as Lord Jura; Mr. Glazier at Zouroff; Mr. O'Neil as Correze; Miss Lillian Andrews as Lady Dolly; Miss Marshall as the Duchess, with the balance of the cast well chosen. Matinees continue daily at this house, as usual.

Manager Robinson has a spleadid array of new features at the Bijou Theatre this week which include Hines and Remington of Sam Dever's company. They will present their latest New York success, "The Road Queen," introducing Miss Earle Remiligion's creation, "The New Woman Irramp." Another great card is Jess Dandy. America's celebrated Hebrew chargeter artist is said to outrival Frank Bush. Charles Moreland, Miss Minnie May Thompin son and Joe Roberts will offer their novel singing and comedy sketch, and Lee Ingham is a wonderful hand equilibrist and acrobat. Miss Maude Courtbey, the queen of song, will vocalize old-time melodies in a catchy style. Herr Von Polm will execute elegant oil paintings in a dexterous manner and present them to the ladies at each performance. Mr. John Kurkamp will entertain the many patrons with some new selections. W. O. Stevens, the rag-time planist, and others conclude a mighty high-class, refined vaudeville performance. There will be two shows daily, afternoon and evening. Secure your tickets in advance.

Manager Robinson has a spleadid array of new to be tried in Cuba. Prince George of Greece, who was formally installed this week as High Commissioner of the powers, seems to appreciate the fact that he has an opportunity to advance the prestige of Greece as well as his own personal prestige. He has begun to rule with an iron hand. The Prince found the island honey-combed with religious and political factions, each threatening outrages upon its to adopt drastic measures, and announced that he would suppress disorder even if he had to turn the whole island into a barracks.

His policy and Christian rule are so distanted the would suppress disorder even if he had to turn the whole island into a barracks.

There will be a special matinee New Year's Day; regular matinees Wednesday and Saturday; every evening during this week. One of the best shows ever presented in Toronto will be given. Every act is a feature, and a head-liner. The Dees have played here before, and pleased. The De Grears have the most refined, versatile act on the vaudeville stage, William and Kittle Harbeck, the latest acquisitions from Europe, are marvels of grace and eleverness. The Nondescript Trio, black-faze comedians, comedy acrobats and champion high-kickers of this country, Wilby, Pearl, Keyes and Nelles, present a novelty that is the eleverest and best-constumed ever seen in Toronto. Master T. Carrol, the youngest, smallest and most phenomenal dancer living, is only part of the big holiday show that the management purpose springing on the public. On Tuesday evening the newsboys of the city are invited to attend a free show given by the management for their special benefit. Tickets are to be had at all newspaper offices, but boys may come with or without. Will make you welcome. Bring your sisters and brothers and enjoy a good show free. Empire Theatre.
