1500 JAPS BEAT OFF 4000 RUSSIANS 2 KILLED AND 400 WOUNDED LEFT

But the Little Fellows Lost More Than One Hundred in the Fray.

London, June 6.—The Daily Telegraph's Tientsin correspondent writes: "Four thousand Russians belonging to Gen. Stakelberg's brigade on May 31 attacked 1500 Japanese occupying a position 15 miles south of Tientsin. The Russians were repulsed, losing 2000 killed and 400 wounded. The Japanese lost more than 100 killed."

RUSSIAN LOSS HEAVY.

Fokio, June 5.—(6 p.m.)—The Japanese and Russian forces located north of Pulantien, which were in a series of brush wars in the early part of the week had another encounter on Friday, June 3, near Chuchuan. On that day the Japanese cavalrymen met the Russians at noon.

The Russians numbered 2000 men and were composed of infantry, detachments of cavalry and artillery. They were pressing the Japanese cavalry when the Japanese assembled their entire force and engaged the enemy. The Russians drew off gradually, and at half past five in the afternoon they retired to Tientsin. The Japanese had four men killed and four men wounded in this fighting.

A report has been received here from Gen. Kuroki saying that on Friday last a detachment was despatched from Aiyangcheng (Aiyangcheng) to the east of Fengwangcheng to make a reconnaissance towards Chaimatsi (Siam). 35 miles north of Fengwangcheng. The detachment encountered the Russians and after a brief engagement the Russians retreated.

Gen. Kuroki reports that the Russian loss was heavy. The Japanese suffered only one man killed and three wounded.

KUROKI HAD TYPHUS.

Paris, June 6.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris says: "According to information received here Gen. Kuroki has been suffering from a mild attack of typhus fever, but he has now recovered."

"The general belief is that Gen. Kuroki will not advance to the relief of Port Arthur. In any case orders to do so have not yet been transmitted."

"I learn that England has obtained from Japan an assurance that the Japanese will not destroy ships in Behring Sea during the war."

"It is rumored the army corps of the St. Petersburg district will be mobilized shortly. I have reason to believe that two other army corps of the central district also will be mobilized."

ST. PETERSBURG RETICENT.

St. Petersburg, June 5.—The government appears to be without fresh information to-day of any sort concerning Port Arthur. The authorities are skeptical over the reports of smoke and heavy detonations at Port Arthur, which may have been caused by the Japanese passing over mine fields on the land side. Even so, they say, the doubtful supposition thus early in the siege. It is again pointed out in official quarters that the government is in receipt of regular information from Port Arthur, but is wholly dependent on the reports from Japan or neutral sources, excepting a messenger who succeeds in running the blockade. It is not expected that the embargo will be soon raised.

COSSACKS ROUT JAPS.

St. Petersburg, June 4.—The general staff has received the following despatch from Gen. Sakharoff, dated May 31: "The trans-Baikal Cossacks encountered Japanese troops at a pass half-way between Tsianchau and Saimatsa. The Japanese occupied a strong position on the heights. The Cossacks moved front under a heavy fire, attacked the enemy and forced them to evacuate the position. The Russian losses were six Cossacks and twenty-two wounded, including Lieut. Col. Sabotkin."

SEPARATED BY TWO MILES.

Chefoo, June 6.—(1.30 a.m.)—But two miles separated Japanese and Russian armies on the Liaoting Peninsula on June 2, according to Chinese who have arrived here from Tsingtao. The Japanese army, reinforced by the men who landed at Dalny, occupied Twining and also Sanchino, several miles west of Dalny.

RUSS GUNBOAT TORPEDOED.

Tokio, June 6.—(11 a.m. bulletin)—The Russian gunboat Giliak was torpedoed and destroyed at Port Arthur Saturday.

WHOLLY A MISTAKE.

By a typographical error there crept into the advertisement of the Investment Exchange Co., Spectator building, "laundry," that appears in Saturday's World. Two lines associating the stocks offered for sale with the estate of the late Mr. Justice Ferguson. This is entirely untrue and is absolutely contrary to the facts, and the World takes the first opportunity of correcting the mistake.

KAISER'S ON THE NERVES OF THE BRITISH PEOPLE

King's Trip to Kiel Will Not Result in Any Compromise With Germany.

New York, June 5.—The Tribune's London correspondent cables: "The Spectator's" trepidation, over the King's visit to Kiel is a fresh proof that the German emperor gets on the English nerves. The Venezuela affair is recalled, and a fresh statement by which British relations with France and Japan may be clouded is dredged. Even the Daily Mail, which dearly loves an abashment of the emperor, is now an anti-German agitation, laughs at these fears."

THE KING HAS THE CONFIDENCE OF THE NATION. As an astute diplomatist, with true English instinct, he does not need warning that a better understanding with Russia is the most conspicuous figure in European diplomacy. He now has a rival in the King, who has readjusted the diplomatic forces of Europe at a critical period.

While the German press and literature revealed bitter prejudice and jealousy against England, the emperor was not influenced by it during the Boer war. He is a brilliant sovereign, who is not placing himself under obligation to Germany, and thereby securing neutrality at St. Petersburg when the time comes for the circle of the empire.

THE KING IS NOT LIKELY TO BE DECEIVED. He was taught in the Venezuela affair; the mistake was made by one of Lord Lansdowne's subordinates.

MYSTERY OF HANSOM CAB MURDER OR A SUICIDE?

Wealthy Bookmaker Shot in Company With Actress—Pistol is Missing.

New York, June 5.—Seated in a cab beside an actress whose relations with him for some time past had threatened to break up his family life, "Caesar" Young, one of the best known and most prosperous bookmakers on the Metropolitan track this season, was shot and killed yesterday morning while driving down West Broadway. His wife was waiting for him on the pier of the White Star line with tickets which were to have carried them both to Europe.

It is said by her friends that the object of the trip abroad was to remove him from the influence of the woman who was with him when he was shot. She is Mrs. Nan Patterson, better known on the stage as Nan Randolph, a member of a famous theatrical family. At first she was held as a witness in $1000 bail. Then, as fresh details of the case came to light, this amount was raised to $5000. After an autopsy on the body of Young, and when detectives detailed to the case had made their reports, the authorities refused to accept any amount of bail, and the woman passed last night in the Tombs a prisoner.

LOOKS LIKE MURDER. "It looks like life or death," said Capt. Langan after he had finished his preliminary investigation. "In the information placed in me as a bookmaker, certain letters, said to have been written by the woman, which are of a threatening nature."

Abraham Levy of the firm of Levy & Unger, counsel for Mrs. Patterson, said he expected to produce evidence which would show that the young bookmaker, abandoning his original intention, which the lawyer asserted, was to kill his wife and her lover.

Mrs. Patterson, who comes of a good family in Washington, has been living in New York in the St. Paul hotel, Sixth-street, and Columbus-avenue, where she always has seemed to be provided with plenty of money. She is the niece of Charles Patterson, cashier of the Fourth National Bank, while J. Morgan Smith, the husband of the sister with whom she lived, has passed as a nephew of J. P. Morgan. It is said the banker never pressed the relation.

HAD WON BIG STAKES. Young at one time was an athlete of international reputation. In addition to his success as a bookmaker, he owned a fine string of race horses, with which he had won several important stakes in the last few years.

Nothing had excited the bitterness of the dead man's friends against Nan Patterson, and they do not hesitate to say that the pistol, the fact that the pistol was missing was one of the first features of the case that presented itself to the public.

Both in the station house and later in the coroner's office she answered questions freely. The coroner's jury found that the woman had fired the shot. It was found that the woman had fired the shot. It was found that the woman had fired the shot.
