

1842.

AUGUST XXXI DAYS.

This is the proper season for inoculating or budding fruit trees—Pears in the early part of the month when the sap flows freely—Apples and others at any period of the month when the bark parts easily from the stock. Herbs that are now in flower should be cut and dried in the shade for winter use. Sow Onions to stand over winter; also, Cauliflowers. Keep dunghills free from weeds during summer to prevent their seed from being sown widely next season.
