Miss Hilda Douglas, of the South End Club, who for several years held the Maritime title, won a hard fought match with Mrs. F. V. Woodbury, also of the South End Club. The C. P. R. team is jubilant over their victory in the closing minutes last night, when defeat stared them in the face. They feel now they have broken through they will succeed in the last game.

A record breaking catch was made at St. Anne's Harbor, on Saturday afternoon, when Commander J. K. L. Ross, landed a tuna weighing 720 lbs.

Paris Opens Up.

Paris Dix—Paris made a great effort in this round that aroused considerable enthusiasm. The rest appeared to have done him good and he came out quickly. He was unable to reach the dancing champion in front of him for a few seconds, however. The challenger caught several of Healey's swings on his arm and then Paris swinging round a rain of blows, both arms working like flails. He backed the Halifax boy into the ring under a heavy fire while the crowd yelled lustily. As Healey came out of the ropes, he landed a heavy left square on Paris' jaw. Paris

MANY SEE STIRRING BOUTS IN ARENA; HEALEY AND PARIS IN EXCITING ONE

Best Fistic Entertainment in Years, Opinion of Sports.

That it was the best ring exhibition staged in the Maritime Provinces in a long time, was the verdict of some 2,200 fans who attended the fistic bouts in the Arena last night. The fact that twenty-two hundred people attended the fight and never lost interest speaks for itself. The preliminaries were well staged and some mighty nice work was exhibited by the local boys. The main bout, however, was the main attraction, and from the first sound of the gong till the final bell at the end of the tenth, Nedder Healey of Halifax and Gordon Paris ably merited the closest attention of the fans and the applause which greeted them. The bout ended in a draw.

Nedder, when interviewed after the go, said that he thought he earned the decision. He had led all the way through. Paris, he said, was a little scrapper and he was quite willing to meet him any time again. Paris expressed the desire to meet the Halifax boy again, and believed that he would do better the next time.

Joe Irvine made quick work of Machine Gun Smith, sending him through the ropes in the third. Healey repeated itself in this instance, but the glove was on the other hand, for during Carnival week, Smith handed Irvine a trimming in the third, in a bout staged in the Opera House.

In the first preliminary, John Sullivan handed Jack Keefe the kayo in the third round, and collected the bonus. The bouts were conducted in excellent manner. The Healey-Paris go by rounds follows:—

Fight by Rounds.

Round One—They came out quickly, Healey landing the first blow, a light tap on the nape of Paris' neck. They clashed in the centre of the ring and fell into a clinch. Healey swung a right that Paris caught on his arm. Paris landed a light left. They clinched, the referee separating them. Healey landed a left and right without return. Paris then cut loose with a rush that backed the champion into the ropes and the gloves fairly flew, both men pounding each other heavily around the shoulders. Healey slipped on the canvas and went down on his knees but was up again in a flash. Both got home hefty uppercuts. Paris pushed Healey into the ropes and landed a clean left to the jaw. Coming out, the champion landed a hard right uppercut to the body. When the bell rang they were sparring in the centre of the ring.

Round Two—They fell into a clinch at the opening of this round and the referee had difficulty in breaking them. Paris landed a light left without return. Paris poked his left into Paris' face and danced around the ring, keeping strictly on the defensive. Healey got home an uppercut as they met. They clinched. Healey punched Paris heavily but Paris again brought down the house by a slashing rally in the closing rounds that earned him a draw at least.

Round Three—Paris ducked a right swing and they fell into a clinch. Healey increased the fast pace he had set from the start and got home his right swing to the head and swings into a clinch. The remainder of the round was clinching and pushing, Healey having a shade.

Round Four—This round had a rather tame beginning. Paris got home an uppercut and the Halifax boy returned the compliment. Healey landed lightly on the neck. They clinched and there was considerable infighting. Healey resumed the offensive landing his left. The round was slightly Paris'.

Round Five—Before this round commenced, the referee announced that the rabbit punch was not barred and the men could resort to their favorite blows into a clinch. Healey then poked in his left very effectively, drawing blood from Paris' nose. Healey again got home his uppercut but Paris only smiled. Healey did all the leading in this round tapping lightly in Paris' face. Healey again landed his uppercut and Paris also opened up. There was a lively skirmish as the bell rang.

quickly tired, however, and did not appear to have the necessary stamina to follow up his advantage. The bell ended the round then. Paris had this round by a wide margin.

Round Seven—It became apparent to the spectators that the bout would not end with a knockout. Both appeared strong as the bell sounded for the seventh round. Paris again took the lead but Healey blocked his swings cleverly and managed to get home some wicked uppercuts. They sparred at long range and there was not so much infighting as in the opening rounds. Frequent clinching slowed the pace considerably. Healey danced around the local colored boy looking for an opening but Paris watched the chance carefully. Healey again got home his uppercut and Paris swung wild in return. Healey ducked another right to the body and let fly into a clinch. Healey swung wild and almost lost his balance. Quick as a flash, Paris was on him with a left and right but the Halifax boy weathered the attack in good style. Paris cut loose with another one of his rallies and earned the decision again.

Round Eight—They clinched as they came out and indulged in some infighting. Healey landed a heavy right to the body and they fell into another clinch, Paris covering up carefully. Paris piled his left in Healey's face and Healey came back strong. Paris punched Healey hard on the neck. Paris again backed Healey into the ropes but could not follow up. Healey recovered quickly but Paris held him until the bell rang.

Round Nine—There was much sparring at the opening of this round. Paris landed an overhand right swing and Healey came back with an uppercut to the body. Healey landed a left and right without return. Paris poked his left into Healey's mouth and Healey landed flush on the challenger's chin. Paris again rallied and beat off Healey's fierce attacks, following up nicely, however.

Final Round—Healey had the better of the milling in this round by a slight margin. Both men were trying hard to end the fight by a kayo, Healey landing his right effectively. Paris tried his best to break through the Halifax boy's guard but could not. He rushed Healey into the ropes and punched him about the shoulders but Healey fell into a clinch. Paris hooked his right but Healey caught it on his arm. They sparred for several seconds and then fought on even terms in a clinch. Paris landed a right but Healey got home a heavy uppercut. They were in a clinch when the bell ended the fight.

Reds Lose Hope Of Topping League

Go Down to Defeat Before Giants — Yesterday in Big Leagues.

New York, Aug. 7—Cincinnati's hope of gaining the pennant was completely shredded and then scattered to the four winds yesterday when the Giants, playing in Redland, trimmed the Reds 5 to 4 and 4 to 2. The second game had a ninth inning finish. The double-header was not the least spectacular, but the Giants played a steady, powerful game and forged away to the fore while the Cincinnati players followed close behind.

In New York the Browns were just dusting off the megaphones preparatory to telling the world what 'un it was to curl them around the Babe's neck that the Babe leaned on him before he woke up.

Philadelphia made it two out of three in Pittsburg by taking the game with the Pirates 6 to 4. Pittsburg errors counted largely for the victory, a pair of them by Carey and Maranville accounting for four runs in the first inning.

In Chicago the Robins made it two all by trimming the Cubs 5 to 1. The Chicago batsmen turned out only six hits against Ruether. Fournier hammered out a homer.

The Indians cleaned up on the Senators in Washington, winning 5 to 2. Speaker made a neat catch of Smith's drive to the infield for the first out with a fly in the ninth for the final out with two runs across and the bases filled for Washington.

The Athletics ran away with Chicago in Philadelphia and piled up 14 against the westerners 4. Chicago used three pitchers to no effect.

The Red Sox beat the Tigers in Boston in a close battle, 2 to 1.

The Boston-St. Louis game was called because of rain.

Harness Driver Seriously Hurt

W. H. Cane Has Both Legs Broken in Spill During Trotting Race at Monroe.

Monroe, N. Y., Aug. 7—William H Cane, wealthy turfman of Goshen and Hackensack, N. J., who owns the Good Time Stables at Goshen, lies in a serious condition at Tuxedo Hospital with both legs broken at the ankles and other injuries as a result of a spill in the second heat of the two-year trot on the second day card of the Orange County Circuit races here.

Peter Macalipha, last-minute entry in the race, put his foot through the sulky drawn by Raemore at the quarter turn throwing both horses. Cane, driving McAfee and following close behind crashed into the wreckage and was thrown forward from his sulky. His legs caught in the stirrups of the cart and were broken. He received first-aid treatment at the track and was taken to Toledo Hospital in his own car, where it is feared he will be crippled for some time, if not permanently. The horses and other drivers were uninjured.

Announcement Re St. Peter's Park

All league games on St. Peter's Park are postponed at least until after the funeral of Daniel Connolly. In sad circumstances last evening, return the players for the game and W. J. McMahon, park manager, said this morning that admission tickets would be supplied them free on application at the box office on the next occasion when St. Peters and Moncton play here, some time next week.

LONDON THEATRES SLUMP.

Lawn Tennis and Hot Weather Responsible for Poor Business.

London, Aug. 7—Rarely has there been so pronounced a theatrical slump in London as that which is now affecting the business. More than six of the largest theatres are closed, and of the plays now running in other theatres less than five are revivals of old-time favorites.

The craze for tennis is held partly responsible for the poor business being done by the theatres. The heat wave has been another factor.

The costs of production are so great that unless full houses are assured it is impossible to continue any play.

Scientists Caution Against Deadly Gas

Washington, Aug. 6—(A. P. by Mail)—That hydrogen sulphide, a gas often found in and about industrial plants, is extremely poisonous, although not heretofore recognized as such, is disclosed by the Bureau of Mines after a series of tests on men and animals. The investigation showed that acute poisoning can be produced by low concentrates of this gas and may result in respiratory paralysis followed by heart failure and death.

The gas is sometimes present in mines, railroad tunnels, sewers, and marshes, and is found in various stages of the manufacture of sulphuric acid, in the distillation of petroleum, particularly those oils known as high-sulphur crudes, and also about some gas wells, gas plants and smelters. It is colorless and in low concentrations has the odor of rotten eggs. In mines this gas is given off the term "stink damp."

At the Pittsburgh experimental station of the bureau a large chamber was used for making exposures of men and various animals. The study showed that complete inhalation causes almost immediate unconsciousness, and death follows frequently before men can be accomplished.

Harold McVicar of 190 Union street, got his fingers in the machinery at the Corona candy factory yesterday afternoon and had to have two of them amputated at the hospital. Later he was sent to his home.
