Annual Meeting Of The Canadian Bar Association

The eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association will be held in the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, September 4th, 5th and 6th.

While the details of the programme for the meeting have not yet been completed, the plans of the committee on arrangements have so far advanced as to give assurance that the meeting will be a memorable one in the history of the association. It will be held in Montreal with convention headquarters at the Mount Royal Hotel.

Hon. Charles Evans Hughes, Secretary of State of the U. S., has consented to make the annual address. The high position occupied by Mr. Hughes would alone ensure him a cordial welcome from Canadian lawyers, aside from that, his distinguished career as one of the foremost members of the profession. The presence of Mr. Hughes, therefore, is significant of the prestige of the Canadian Bar Association.

The Rt. Hon. the Earl of Birmenshead is also to attend the meeting. The part which has been taken by Lord Birmenshead in the public life of Great Britain during the last fifteen years and especially his work as Lord Chancellor from 1919 to 1922 have brought him so prominently before the bar of Canada that he requires no introduction. The great measure associated with his name—consolidating and revising the law relating to real property—assure that his political activities have not overshadowed his interest in the law. The Earl of Birmenshead is the third in the line of those who have filled the great office of Lord Chancellor to address the Canadian Bar Association.

The governing bodies of the bar in both France and Belgium have been invited to send delegates. Prominent members of the bench and bar of Canada will make addresses and take part in the discussions.

There will be presented for consideration reports on such subjects as the administration of justice, legal education, uniform legislation and other matters of moment to the bar. A very important report on the administration of criminal justice in which amendments to the "Criminal Code" are suggested, will be one of the matters for discussion.

WOMEN WANT TO FIGHT DUELS

Insist on Having the Only
Privilege of Male Students
They Do Not Yet Share.

Berlin, May 29.—(Associated Press).—Women students at Heidelberg University are very unhappy because they are not permitted to engage in duels. All the other privileges of the male students have been accorded the women, but the privilege of duelling is not. It is not advisable for women to slash each other's cheeks and scalps with swords, and of them students don't like the ruling. They insist they should have the same rights as their brothers to engage in sword contests if they choose to do so.

The duelling season is now at its

Don't let diapers irritate your baby's skin

No matter how carefully you bathe and powder him—if his diapers are washed with harsh soap—his tender skin will suffer.

The diaper rash that is the source of such severe suffering to babies is caused by this very thing—washing diapers with harsh or impure soaps.

Safe for all his little clothes

Keep your baby's diapers soft and comfortable. Wash them in pure, safe Lux suds and thoroughly rinse.

There is no free alkali in Lux to stick to them and make them irritating. No harmful ingredient to inflame the sensitive skin. These pure flakes are safe for all the clothes that touch his tender skin.

Use Lux for your baby's soft woolen shirts and bands, his petticoats and dresses, his diapers and socks.

To keep diapers from irritating

To prepare for washing: Remove all solid matter immediately to soak in cold water. If diapers are simply wet place in a covered pail and let soak in cold water.

To wash: Whisk two tablespoonfuls of Lux into a thick lather in a tub of very hot water. Let diapers soak for a few minutes then dip up and down pressing suds repeatedly through them. Thoroughly rinse in three sections. Boil diapers once a week using one tablespoonful of Lux to a gallon of water.

A NEW PLANE CARRIER FOR BRITISH NAVY

Invention Now Being Built is Expected to Give Fleet
Its Own Airdromes.

London, May 29.—(Associated Press).—Every building in London with a flat roof has become a potential airdrome by reason of the invention of apparatus to facilitate the landing and taking off of airplanes from the decks of Britain's aircraft carriers.

The invention will enable every navy of the future to put to sea with not only a vast number of airplanes, flying boats and seaplanes, but its own airdromes and workshops, say English air experts.

Already some vessels have been converted into aircraft carriers by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, but the British Admiralty has laid down ships of this kind which are held to be better than those of any other power.

In the new type of aircraft carrier there are two decks connected by huge lifts. The upper is the airdrome deck, which makes it possible for a machine to land at night. There are also cranes for hoisting on board flying boats which need repair.

The flying deck is fitted with a searchlight and landing-light tower, which makes it possible for a machine to land at night. There are also cranes for hoisting on board flying boats which need repair.

4,000 AT EMPIRE
DAY CELEBRATION

Pageant in Boston Depicts Coronation
Of Queen Victoria.

More than 4,000 persons attended the Empire day celebration held last week in the Boston Arena under auspices of the affiliated British societies of the city, when the anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria was observed with appropriate exercises which culminated in a spectacular pageant depicting the coronation of Victoria the Good.

Earlier in the evening members of the British Officers' Club of New England attended an anniversary luncheon at the Westminster Hotel, which was presided over by W. G. MacEwen, president of the club. Edward Grey, British consul-general in Boston, and Vice-Consul Arthur H. Marlowe were special guests and speakers, and following the luncheon the members proceeded in a body to the arena to attend the celebration there.

Other prominent guests at the arena included Maj.-Gen. Andw W. Brewster of the 1st army corps, Col. Arthur T. Marx of the Marine corps, J. C. J. Flannery, French consul in Boston, and officers of the United States army and navy now stationed here.

The programme opened with a children's May carnival.

This was followed by the posting of the colors by the British naval and military veterans of Massachusetts.

The coronation pageant was a brilliant spectacle. Queen Victoria was impersonated by Miss Florence E. Sewell, and more than 200 persons assumed other roles.

The pageant was arranged and directed by Mrs. Helene F. Holmes. The music was furnished by the YD service band, conducted by Lt. John J. O'Neil.

A Laxative Food With No Harmful Reaction

Nature never intended you to use harsh drugs to insure regular health habits. "Nature's way" is provided by the bran of wheat. This is a laxative without harmful reaction—a gentle, sure factor in keeping us on our toes all the time—clear-headed, happy, full of energy, free from poisons.

But you have discarded bran in practically all your wheat foods. You get no "roughage". And as a result you are below par most of the time or you resort to drastic drugs.

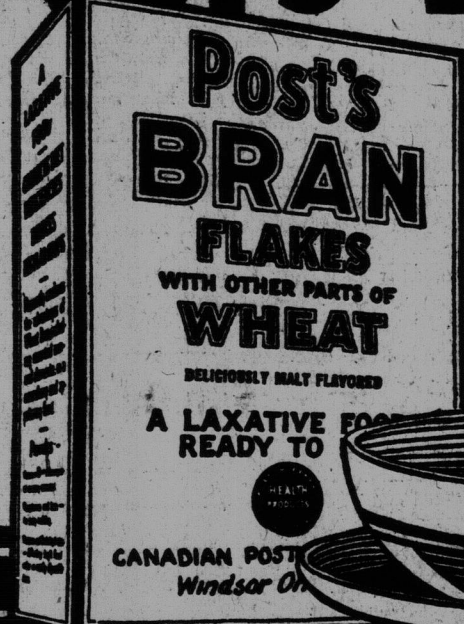

You've had bran offered you. But it has been almost impossible to eat—harsh, dry, unappetizing.

NOW, for for the first time, you can get an efficient bran food which is really delicious—Post's Bran Flakes with Other Parts of Wheat. Not just bran alone, but much of the other food value of wheat. You can eat it every day. Try it tomorrow—with milk or cream.

BODY OF SAINT IS VIEWED.

St. Francis Xavier's Coffin Opened for the First Time in Twelve Years.

Thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the Orient flocked recently to Goa, a Portuguese possession on the east coast of India, to view the exposition for the first time in twelve years of the incorruptible body of St. Francis Xavier, the first Jesuit missionary to India and the "Apostle" of the Orient, who in 1542 carried Christianity to the Far East.

Among the pilgrims, who represented all nationalities, were many cripples, imbeciles and persons with incurable diseases, who attended in the hope that they might be healed by touching the body.

At the conclusion of vespers in the Church of the Bon Jesus the coffin containing the body of the saint was borne into the sacristy, where the seals were broken and it was opened before a select gathering of dignitaries of the Catholic Church. It was found that the body of the saint was as well preserved as on the last public exposition, and on the following day thousands of Christians and Hindus were allowed to view the body and to kiss the feet of the saint. A Delhi correspondent who was present writes:

"The eyes appear as though newly closed in death; the hair gleams faintly golden; the nose is shrouded to a point, the skin broken in places. The right arm is missing, having been removed by order of the Pope in 1614 and divided into four parts, the largest of which is enshrined in the Gesù in Rome.

"The fourth and fifth toes of the right foot are also missing, one having been bitten off in 1564 by a Portuguese lady, Donna Isabel de Caron, in a frenzy of religious zeal. Indeed, it was the vandalism of relic hunters that led to the abandoning of the annual exposition of the body.

The magnificent tomb is held by many to be second in splendor only to the Taj Mahal at Agra. In marble of various colors, it consists of three stages, on the last of which rests the exquisite crystal coffin overlaid with silver and lined with the richest flowered tissue. The first stage is of red-dish purple jasper striped with white and adorned with arabesques and figures of cherubs in Carrara marble; the second is of green jasper striped with black and white, the borders polished to the point of transparency. In the centre of each are glowing bronze plates portraying scenes in the life of the saint. The third stage, surrounded by a railing of red and white jasper, is particularly beautiful. The central portion is supported by elegantly carved columns, the spaces between being filled with carved plaques displaying scenes in the saint's life.

It is a fitting resting place for the justly famed crystal and silver coffin, which stands a silver image of St. Francis, five feet high."
