A prominent physician tells us that convalescing patients whose appetites require stimulating and whose digestion is weak, can use large quantities of Ice Cream with great advantage.

He further states: "Many of my patients have lived on Ice Cream without other nourishment for periods varying from three to six weeks."

One quart of Ice Cream will do so much towards the maintenance of body and mind as a pound and a half of round steak or a gallon of oysters. It provides an excellent food for people of all ages and reduces one's desire for heavier and less digestible foods that have with one's stomach.

Bear in mind the food value and economy of DAIRY PRODUCTS in the home. Eat MORE MILK, MORE BUTTER, MORE CHEESE, MORE ICE CREAM, and you will have greater reason to rejoice over the physical and mental well-being of your family.

BILLIARDS.
Against Time.
One thousand billiard points in five minutes! That is the objective of Charles Peterson, a fancy shot maker of St. Louis. He will make his second attempt in public to accomplish this remarkable feat on Monday night at the National Recreation academy in Brooklyn.

Briefly explained, this means scoring 1,000 straight rail billiards in five minutes. Peterson has succeeded in doing this in private, but has attempted it only once in public. He then succeeded in scoring 920 billiards in the allotted time. In a measure his failure to count 1,000 was due to the fact that the time keeper failed to announce each passing minute. Peterson holds the world's speed record, having made 100 points in twenty-seven seconds. His attempt will be made following an exhibition 10.9 balling billiard match against Willie Hoppe.

RATS BEDFELLOWS OF U. S. ATHLETES
A. A. U. Faces Fight With Mutinous Olympians at National Convention.
Chicago, Nov. 6.—The annual convention of the A. A. U. at New Orleans on Nov. 17, 18 and 19 promises to be a battle royal between the clique of officials who managed the journey of the United States Olympic team to Belgium and the backers of Norman Ross of Chicago, world's champion swimmer, who headed an organized protest against the treatment of the United States athletes during the voyage.

The officials, it was reported, are endeavoring to run Ross out of amateur athletics as the result of his stand while stalling and producing facts on the case, and the swimmers' life in the A. A. U. may hinge in the result of the election at the New Orleans convention.

If the officials swing their men back into office it may be a rainy day for Ross and others of the United States team who stood for fair treatment and justice among the contending athletes' games.

Ross is being backed by the Illinois Athletic Club forces, and there will be a terrific fight if an attempt is made to punish the popular record-breaker. Charles A. Dean of the L. A. C. will be one of the representatives of the Central A. A. U. at the national convention, and it will be under his direction and generalship that the athletes' controversy will be presented.

Ross, Ted Meredith, Matt McGrath and Pat McDonald were the leaders at the time of the rebellion against the officials while the team was still on board ship. McDonald later switched to the other side, but McGrath was out for blood. Ross drew up the protest that was signed by 160 of the athletes.

LIKELY TO MODIFY BAN ON SPITBALL
Club Owners Seem Ready to Allow Present Pitchers to Continue Moist Delivery.
(N. Y. Times.)
Major league club owners at a meeting last winter passed a rule that the spitball should pass out of their circuits at the close of the 1920 campaign. One year of grace was allowed so that experiments of the most delivery might develop effectiveness along other styles of pitching. Now it appears that the regulation against spitball pitching in the majors is to be modified.

The campaign of self-protection got under way at the training camps last spring and it has been carried on in a quiet but most effective manner during the season. Pitchers specializing in the moist delivery got together whenever two teams met and word was passed along as the season progressed until all the spitball pitchers had been acquainted with the plan which was simple. It consisted of discussing frequently with the club owner the idea of having the rule changed so that all pitchers now in the National League, but which was discarded when the plan was objectionable.

The 1920 season was a highly successful one for the moist ball pitchers. In the National League, Burleigh Grimes and Bill Doak were among the few bowlers who registered twenty or more victories. Fred Toney of the Giants was the leading spitball pitcher, but he did good work with a poor team. Phil Douglas of the Giants is a spitballer. It is hardly likely that Messrs. Ebbets, Breton, Stuchman and Grant will be inclined to oppose the rescinding of the rule which doomed the spitball, when it will mean much to have certain pitchers at their disposal next season. In the American League, Stanley Coveleskie, Urban Shocker and Jack Quinn are the leading spitball pitchers, but there are a few others who use the moist delivery at times. It would not be difficult to line up the owners of the Cleveland, St. Louis and New York clubs in the fight to rescind the rule, and it is probable that other owners would join.

Unfair to Pitchers.
Nor is the attitude of these owners to be regarded as entirely selfish. They consider it a bit unjust to the pitchers themselves in a certain delivery only to have the bars thrown up, compelling them to give up the particular style at which they are the most effective.

The contention is that it is all right to make work with a poor team. If it has objectionable features, but the rules should become effective at a time when they do not work an injustice to players now in the game. Since the legislation was passed last spring there has been a change in the sentiment against barring the present crop of spitball pitchers, even by club owners whose teams would not be affected by the proposed changes.

In most of the minor leagues the doors already are closed to the spitball pitchers, some having passed a rule against this and other peculiar deliveries even before the major league action. This would mean that if a major league pitcher could not remain in the majors without using the spitball, he might be forced to retire from the game or go to some low-class minor league which has not legislated against the delivery. This would be unfair to the boxman, it is charged. The simple settlement to the spitball problem that is being advanced is to bar its use in the future except by certain designated pitchers, who may use it as long as they remain in the game.

The season is on for invitations from southern cities asking major league clubs to favor them when choosing a training location for another season. For particular reasons all three clubs of the metropolitan district are in much demand. It is a long time before another training season arrives and no decision will be made before December, and the various club owners. By that time the string of invitations will be quite long.

New Giants, whether winning or losing, always have been a big card in the south, as they have been along the major league trail. The fact that they did not figure in the recent winning plans makes no difference. Requests have been received at the club's new offices on West Forty-fourth street extolling the advantages of training in some particular city. Last spring the Giants did their training at San Antonio and as far as is known Manager McGraw was perfectly satisfied with conditions there and with the results attained. Owner Benson of the San Antonio club was in New York recently and he discussed with McGraw the prospects of the Giants returning to the Alamo City. The Giants' manager gave no definite answer and will not make a decision until December.

The presence of Babe Ruth on the Yankee roster makes the New York Americans unusually attractive, and numerous letters are being received by the owners proposing a change in training quarters or inquiring about exhibition games in which Babe Ruth would take part. These letters are being set aside for consideration later, as there is no hurry about arranging training plans.

The Brooklyn team is an attraction because it won the National League pennant. Both Yankees and Robins trained last spring at Jacksonville and played a series of exhibition games while there. It would not be surprising if both clubs return to the Florida metropolis and follow the same programme as last spring, with a trip to Palm Beach and Miami, but these details will be decided upon later.

HUGH DUFFY NEW MANAGER OF THE RED SOX
Boston, Mass., Nov. 6.—Hugh Duffy, former Boston outfielder star, was announced yesterday as the new manager of the Red Sox, succeeding Ed. Barrow who resigned to become business manager of the New York Americans.

Duffy was born at River Point, R. I., and broke into professional baseball as a member of the Fall River team of the New England League. In 1887 he was signed by "Pop" Anson as a member of the old Chicago club and in 1891 he came to this city as right fielder of the American Association club.

A year later he joined the Boston Nationals, remaining with the team for nine years, the last five as captain. Since then he has been successively manager of teams in Milwaukee, Philadelphia, Providence and Chicago. In 1894 he was champion batsman of the United States.
