

There were a number of candidates for the Ministry this Conference, which is a gratifying exception to our previous history in this country. Owing to our Mission funds being very limited, only a few could be recommended to be employed.

We continue, dear Fathers and Brethren, to experience the value of your liberal grant in aid of the Mission work in Canada. Without it our operations would be much more limited. We beg to assure you that no missionary grant could be of more benefit and importance. Since last Conference several additional Missionaries have been employed, and new Mission stations have been opened. Had we more means at our command, other inviting fields of labor would at once be entered. We hope, by your continued aid, and the increasing contributions of our people in this country, united with fervent prayer to the Lord of Hosts, to do greater things.

The Jubilee which our Conference has made arrangements for celebrating, will afford an excellent opportunity for bringing the history and merits of our Connexion before the members of our churches and congregations.

The "Christian Journal" gives increasing satisfaction, and has now become an agent for good which our people could not dispense with. May it go on and prosper.
