sonally I must say that I do not know which assault is most brutal, the assault of the murderer upon my sister or the assault upon the reputation of Father Walser, the assault made by public opinion upon that good priest. "In your prayers pray for my poor sister; pray also for Father Walser. Let us help him carry his cross, and heavy though it be, let us act with fortitude and as becomes Christians." The scene of the murder was the point of interest for thousands of call-ers at the Reichlin home today, where the body was in view. At 3 o'clock it was taken into St. Joseph's, where vespers for the dead were sung by Father Reichlin and two assistants. The funeral services will be held to-The funeral services will be held to-

The funeral services will be held to morrow morning. Father Walser, who is confined in the county jail at Elyria, has seen no one since yesterday. He is treated as any other prisoner except that he has the freedom of the corridor. His preliminary hearing will be held prob-ably on Tuesday. There is no excite-ment at Elyria and no sign of any un-

The fight, which grew out of old factional differences, resulted in no serious bodily harm to any of the 2,000 men, women and children who were in the church when it began, but the panic among the affrighted women and children was the cause of severe bruises. Bloody and laverated faces and hands were evidences of the ferceness of the contest, and the pro-tests of Father Kellar and others were unavailing to restore peace. The men had been penned in by a mob of angry women, who pelted the stronger sex with whatever they laid their hands on. I am convinced before God, that no mat-absolutely innocent, and that no mat-ter how strong public opinion may be, it cannot make him out a murderer, the murderer of my sister. The time sould commissioner should be governed by the Liquor License Act and his own good judgment, and not by the wishes of the blood-hound story upon which the character of public opinion seems to be based. I believe Father Walser assault of the murderer upon my sister assault of the murderer upon my sister to mate assault is most brutal, the assault of the murderer upon my sister to mate a charge against me for not per-torming my duty faithfully I demand that you give me the name of the the charge made that you give me the name of that person, a copy of the charge made against me, and that that charge be

 Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the librar leader, said the terms of the bill should be closely investigated in committee. They were not satisfactory as set forth in the bill.
 Mr. Russell (liberal unionist) supported the second reading, although he dialiked some of the complicated arrangements of the bill.
 Mr. Dillon impressed upon the government that the amendments drafted by the national convention were the minimum of the Irish popular demand. The attorney general for Ireland, John Atkinson, said the government had no reason to be dissatisfied with the debate and that it was prepared to give fair and candid consideration to all the amendments.
 The debate was then adjourned, the debate was then adjourned. DETROIT, May 3.—The Grand Trunk Pan-American flyer from Chicago ran into a crowd of a thousand people at the corner of Dequinder and Canfield streets at 8.30 this evening, killing fen to fifteen men and seriously injuring about thirty more. The majority of the killed and wounded are from Tol-edo. Fifteen hundred Polanders from Toledo came up to Detroit this morn-ing on a special Lake Shore train to celebrate a holiday. They left the train at the corner of Dequinder and Can-veid streets and went over to St. Jo-sch"s church, where they spent the day with that congregation.

The victims were scattered along the tracks for a distance of two blocks. Lanterns were procured and the work of rescue began immediately. The scene reflected by the light of the lan-terns was horrible. Gradually the mangled and crushed bodies were re-covered and sent to the hospitals when there was a flicker of life left, and to the morgue when there was none. At 10 o'clock the police had identified four of the dead.
