INTERESTING FROM EUROPE.

The Italian Parliament was opened on the 18th ult. by King Victor Emmanuel in person. His Majesty, in his speech, said:

Italy, almost entirely free and united, confides in your wisdom, and it is on you devolves the task of her organization. You will establish the greatest administrative liberty, taking care, at the same time, that her unity be protected. Public opinion is favorable to our national tendencies. The Emperor of the French, although assuring to us the benefits of non-intervention, has deemed it fitting to call his Envoy. This act has excited our deep regret, without, however, affecting our gratitude. At Magenta and Solferino, France and Italy have riveted ties of unity which will be indissoluble. England, the ancient home of liberty, has recognized our right to dispose of ourselves. We cannot serve an imperishable remembrance of the support which her good offices have afforded us.

An illustrious Prince having ascended the Throne of Prussia, I sent my Ambassador in order to testify to him our sympathy for his person and for the German nation. You will assist my government in completing the armaments. In the consciousness of its strength, the Kingdom of Italy will be able to follow the counsels of prudence.

My voice was once raised with boldness, but it is as wise to wait at the right time as it is to do at the right time.

Devoted to Italy, I have risked my crown for her sake; but no one has the right to risk the existence and the destiny of a nation.

The taking of a formidable fortress has worthily crowned the exploits of the army and navy. Thus they, as well as the volunteers, have required a reward which has given the country a just confidence in itself, and it is with pleasure that I express to the first Parliament of Italy the joy which as a King and soldier, I feel on this account.

THE LAST DAYS AT GAETA.

It appears that the bombardment of the 11th and 12th was of extreme violence. The explosion of the powder magazines had rendered the rifled cannon useless; but the fortress still replied with the other guns. The Neapolitan artillery men displayed the greatest bravery; twice they silenced the guns of the Battarie des Capucins.

On the 13th, although negotiations had been partially opened, the bombardment continued with the same violence: two batteries of the fortress were demolished, and then the capitulation was signed. It was the fortress that fired the last cannon-shot. It appears that from the demand to surrender to the moment the capitulation was signed, the Piedmontese threw 50,000 shells in the fortress.

On the 14th the Sardinian troops occupied one-half of the town at 8 A.M. At the same time the Queen, the Princess, the Royal household, and the foreign Ministers embarked on board La Mouette. The King passed the Neapolitan troops in review, who went as they presented arms to him. An immense crowd was assembled, and the population shed tears. The King was very pale from emotion. Royal honors were paid to Francis II. as he embarked on board La Mouette. As the vessel left, a salvo of 21 guns was fired and the flags were lowered from the batteries while the garrison shouted: "Long live the King!" though in presence of the Piedmontese, already in possession.

A despatch dated at Naples, Feb. 18, says: General Cialdini and the army have attended to those who died in the late struggle. The General has also published an order of the day, announcing the taking of Gaeta. The tone of the order is very moderate. It concludes as follows:

"Death throws a sad veil over all human affairs. The dead are all equal. Be generous towards the vanquished. Your hatred cannot be a soldier, Victor Emmanuel fights and gives."

The Sardinians are actively engaged clearing Gaeta of its ruins. The city has suffered enormously from the bombardment. Typhus fever is ravaging Gaeta.

Russia is successful in the great work of emancipation of the serfs. A St. Petersburg letter says:

The moment is close at hand, and I am happy to announce it, when the emancipation of the serfs will be an accomplished fact. The proclamation will be issued on the 3d of March, the anniversary of the accession to the throne of Alexander II, whose reign will be forever illustrated by this measure of social justice. The more than 20,000,000 of Christian souls will be free and the same hour have ceased to be a property.

SPEED OF BOYS' SLEDS.—A person in Middletown a day or two since, timed the speed of boys' sleds there, where coasting has been a popular amusement. It was on Court Street, the inclination pretty steep all the way to the river. He found that the sleds went half a mile in eighteen seconds, or nearly two miles a minute. This is double the speed of the swiftest express train. It is a sport not attended with danger, especially when the sleds come down across leveled roads of city streets. Witness, the accident in Farmington the other day. In the sled-town, the boys would tie a string of sleds together, rail-road fashion, and one of these trains in crossing a road, came against a two-horse sled and threw both horses down, the sleds passing under the horses in safety.—Hartford Jan. 30.
