Mr. Veniot next dealt with the charge made by Hon. Dr. Landry that between the years 1901 and 1907 there had been no accounts rendered by road commissioners amounting to $54,066.82. He was referring to this matter merely to show or series and these accounts ered.

"If such a system was to be emned in 1907," said Mr. Veniot, "thould be said of the conduct of official to the school books and made no trus therefor? From 1901 to 1907 dittor's report contained the name a delinquent officials, but under resent regime these officials names at to be found in the report and it hus held in their hands for 1915 is not viven. Apparently the sum was too arge to name and was purposely kept ack. All this took place in Dr. Landry's wn department, under his direct superision. In the face of such a state of ffairs in his own department his criticism of the "no account" officials between 901 and 1907 comes with very poor race to say the least. dinary Bridges.
