

Bombers Take Tri-Service 8-0

The University of New Brunswick Red Bombers took the opening game in the New Brunswick Rugby Football Union last Saturday in Moncton by downing the Tri-Service entry by a score of 8-0. In overcoming the highly rated service team, the college squad showed that once again they are after the Union title, and a Maritime playoff berth.

The opening whistle found T.S. kicking to U.N.B. The first quarter saw both teams unable to bring about a series of plays which would lead to a touchdown. Once Tri-Service rolled to two first downs but were stopped after the second and neither team was able to overcome the other's defence.

U.N.B. 0, Tri-Service 0
Tri-Service opened the second quarter by gaining two first downs. The ball changed hands three times and finally the first point of the game was scored. A pass to Guy Doiron was good for 25 yards. A second first down was made by Don Fowler on a pro-pass over the line of scrimmage. A Tri-Service off-side on a U.N.B. third down gave U.N.B. another first down. On their third down U.N.B. kicked deep into the Tri-Service goal zone and Don Bell tackled the ball carrier in the goal zone for a rouge and one point. From scrimmage on their own 25 yard line, T.S. passed for a first down. The ball was bobbled by T.S. and U.N.B. players and finally a Tri-Service player caught it. Arsenault then passed for 50 yards to Kraft, who seemed headed for a Tri-Service touchdown when Kerr finally caught up with him. Going all out for a touchdown, Tri-Service tried two forward passes, both incomplete. A poor kick prevented them from possibly tying the game. U.N.B. marched to three first downs and the half ended with no further scoring.

U.N.B. 1, Tri-Service 0
To open the second half, U.N.B. kicked off to Tri-Service, who, led by MacDougall ran two first downs and seemed headed for a third when Johnny Oatway stopped them by intercepting a pass. U.N.B. made two first downs and were then stopped. The third quarter continued with play in the Tri-Service territory, and neither team able to get more than two first downs in a row. The quarter ended with the ball deep in Tri-Service territory.

U.N.B. 1, Tri-Service 0
The ball changed hands four times at the beginning of the final quarter and it was then Tri-Service ball on their own 25-yard line. Arsenault threw a pass and Willie Schure intercepted it and ran about 30 yards for a touchdown. The convert was not good, with the kick going wild. U.N.B. kicked off to Tri-Service and when the Moncton Militia men could get nowhere, the Bombers, led by Schure, marched to three first downs. After two incomplete passes, the college men kicked to very deep Tri-Service territory. Tri-Service failed to complete a pass and when Arsenault faded back into the goal zone for a second try, Bell tackled him for a safety touch and U.N.B. was in front 8-0. Tri-Service was unable to get the ball out of their own territory, so the Red Bombers were victorious in their opening game.

Stars of the game were Schure and Bell for U.N.B. and MacDougall for Tri-Service. Pete Potter also played a strong game on the line, stopping many Tri-Service plunges.

Although defeated, Tri-Service had 16 first downs to 13 for U.N.B.

The Red Bombers will play their first home game on October 11; with St. Thomas University the visitors. Other home games will be on October 25 against Tri-Service and on November 8 with Moncton Trojans the opposition.

Cross-Country Team to Maine This Weekend

The track team have been polishing their spikes, running around in circles (or is it ovals?), getting ready for the four mile cross country run with the University of Maine. This annual event will be held on the Maine campus at Orono on this Saturday, October 11.

The team of seven will be chosen from:
Mal Millar, who is competing for the fifth year. He has placed second twice and third and fourth on other occasions. Dave Vine, in his second attempt. Last year he finished seventh in a field of 14. Burke Swan and Ivby Stewart, two more second year men. John Kelly, who has been a team member for the past three years, may also turn out for the team.

Others competing for positions on the team include Juniors Tom Gorman, Leo Dignard, Bill Spriggs, and Andre Breault; Sophomore Eddie Allen; and Freshmen Jack Lister, Don Terrace, Don Thornton, Roy Washburn, Frank Bilodeau, Herb Laviolette, Herb Underhill, and Bob McGuire.

The team, coach, manager Bill Reddin, and two drivers will stay overnight at one of the campus fraternity houses and after the four mile race will watch the University of Maine play their biggest football rival, the University of New Hampshire.

Coach Amby Legere reports that the team is shaping up well and has been training nightly for the past two and a half weeks. The team usually runs on the track in the evening and over the three and one-half mile cross country course which starts from the Gym and stretches uphill for one and one-half miles north of the University.

The U.N.B. team has never beaten Maine on total points nor taken first place but Mal Miller has finished second on two occasions. Several of the Freshmen turning out look good, with one of them showing excellent time on our rugged three and one-half mile course.

As Seen from the Bleachers

By the Spectator

The time was October 1951. The day was dark, mysterious, and depressing. A damp, cold rain had converted the Hilltop avenues back to their semi-liquid normality, an evil laden wind howled savagely, providing a fitting climax to the bleakness of the occasion. The editor cringed, the student body shuddered, and this column was born.

Now as we sit down to prepare for a second year's excursion into the land of facts and farce we find the day equally dark and depressing, the wind continuing on its swirling way, and the ascending avenues still untainted by the touch of the modern world. The only variation from the debut lies in the absence of the rain, and if you will accept this with me as an omen of brighter hope we will proceed with the presentation of a series of articles which, I believe, will enlighten you even more than last year as to how a sports column should not be written.

Yes, for the information of those new to our campus, this is theoretically a sports column. It has been classified by many in a varying number of ways, but as the censors prohibit the use of such language in this paper I am prevented from passing these suggestions on to you, in the light of which, combined with the inconvenience of lying awake nights trying to think of another title, it shall be continued under the same head and in the same chaotic style.

Now that the hidden meaning behind this seemingly futile nattering has been located for you, let us proceed with the topic in question, namely the world of sports at U.N.B.

It is the policy of this column to piece out the more interesting and important aspects of the week's play and to expound, elaborate, and comment on them in such a manner and with such a style that they no longer appear interesting or important. In fact, in the majority of cases they appear in a completely unrecognizable form. But even with this in mind, and even this early in the year, we find ourselves against the inevitable barrier of weeding out a decent topic. Now, under ordinary circumstances, such a problem would create little loss of sleep from this corner, for the simple reason that even the poorest of topics can be presented in an equally confusing and misrepresented manner as the very best of subjects. But the truth is, despite the fact that the Red Bombers have taken one win in the defense of their N.B. Canadian Football Crown and that the soccer squad will have a game under their belts by the time you plod yawningly through this, that the local athletic year is still in the preparatory stage. This, coupled with the fact that we were not present at the 8-0 edge of Tri-Service, and that we promised ourselves to at least begin the year with a softened heart, prohibits any direct miscomment at this time.

We would, though, before closing, like to extend a welcome to the freshmen on behalf of the U.N.B. sportdom and pass on the hope that you will take an active part in helping to keep the Red and Black athletic banners waving at their present high standard. Perhaps never before has the opportunity for freshmen to nail down varsity berths prevailed to such a degree as it does this coming year. Help is needed on all fronts, it is now YOUR University, give it your help.

But above all, be you a rabid fan, only slightly interested, or even indifferent, support your teams, if not by physical effort at least by vocal and your presence.

In closing let us quote one of the Maritimes' best-known and better sport commentators. "If you can't play a sport be one anyway". Or, to reduce that to terms more applicable to this column, if you can't be a participant at least be a spectator.
