

THE NUT-SHELL, JUNE, 1890.

The prefect de police likewise entertains a large colony of cats which are placed under the care of an old woman of 70, who supplies them with daily rations of meat and milk.

"Ant farmers," though only numbering half a dozen or so in Paris, are not to be overlooked in our study of odd traits. One, for instance, religious in the name of Millie Blanche. She is not prepossessing in appearance. Her skin looks like dried pigskin, and is tanned like crocodile hide. She has leather gaiters and trousers, and a regular coat of armor, but notwithstanding this she is known and bitten by her ungrateful stock to such an extent that she is perfectly hideous. She sleeps in the middle of the seats of carts, and her epigrams has become so insensible to the bites of these insects that she slumbers soundly and sweetly while hundreds of them are endeavoring to extract a meal from her thick skin.

She was some time ago compelled to remove her quarters to a spot just outside Paris, because the neighbors not unreasonably objected to the stray members of her household skimming on their own account in the pantries of the adjoining houses. Millie Blanche supplies breeders and keepers of pheasants, the zoological gardens, aquariums and large bird-cages with snipe eggs. It is interesting to record that Millie Blanche is by this time possessed of a handsome fortune, which she spends on Hornefish as still eaten by the Parisians, much as such a statement may horrify my readers across the sea. At least a thousand horses are killed here every year to such an extent that it is capital. About thirty shops sell nothing but horse, mule and donkey's flesh, many of them have over their doors the bencheria of hippique, and do a rushing trade among the working population, who have no foolish scruples about eating portions of what is certainly the cleanest of animals. It is no secret that the major part of the "beef-steaks" at the restaurants as well as nine-tenths of the sausages come from defunct geese. The fat steamed sausages from the north of France are made from horse flesh, and the Lyons sausages from the meat of the double donkey.

SOME SIMPLE STAS.

Susanna Snooks sings sad, sweet songs, she sees soft, summer skies;
Strange sunset shades sit silently—she somes what sadly sighs.
Solloquisingly she strays, sweet songsters shyly sing.
She sees slim spruce spring shades surround some sparkling spring.
Still southward stents she strays,
She spies shy Simon Slade.
"Stop, Simon!" says Susanna Snooks.
Still sits sweet sunset's shade.
Shy Simon six snug satisfying squeeze silly stole.
Susanna snickered, Simon stayed. Sick silly spoony soul.
Susanna's sire saw some sly, suspicious stranger stray.
Saw Susan say: "Stop Simon Slade!"
Saw simple Simon stay.
Stern sire sought some some solid stick
—serenely, slyly slipped.
Susanna saw. Shy thrilly shrieked:
"Skip, Simon!" Simon skipped.

STRAY BITS.

The sweet orange was first brought from China to Europe by the Portuguese in the year 1547.
The largest shaft in Africa was, recently opened in the Kimberley diamond fields. It measures 23 feet 3 inches by 7 feet 9 inches, and is to be 1,000 feet deep.
The longest lived people in the world are the Norwegians, among whom the average duration of life is now 48.33 years for the men, and 51.30 for the women.
A play at one of the English theatres recently had to be modified because the actors had a suspension against the appearance of a peacock or its feathers on the stage.
A London confectionery store gives to every purchaser of a shilling's worth, a ticket entitling the purchaser to have one photograph of herself taken at an establishment opposite.
Ireland had upwards of 2,337 miles, and inland waters covering 574,867 acres, which supply chiefly a few salmon and eels to Great Britain, for home consumption, actually largely imported from east.

It is now possible to be cremated in Paris for sixty cents, recent improvements having greatly reduced the cost. Nearly all the cremations, however, consist of the remains of persons disposed of at the public expense.

The longest frosts in England are a general rule, those which begin before the 15th of November, and the deepest falls of snow during the last twenty years have commenced in the middle of January.

There is a vast quantity of land required in Europe over and above what is provided. In France 226,000 tons are yearly required; Germany, 60,000 tons; Austria, 15,000 tons; Belgium, 451,000 tons; England, 672,000 tons.

The most costly book in the world in a Bible in Hebrew. An offer of its weight in gold was once made, and it was ascertained that this offer amounted to 102,000 dollars, which was refused and the volume is still in the library of the Vatican.

Out of a population set down at 253,891,821 in British India, there are no fewer than 20,130,026 widows, of whom Bombay claims 1,575,793; Madras, 3,554,911; North West Provinces and Oudh, 3,679,787; the Punjab, 1,563,233, and Bengal, 7,801,629.

A Russian practitioner recommends the use of hypocistis seeds for tooth-ache. His plan is to burn the seeds and to convey the smoke through a little paper tube to the hole in the tooth. He declares that in nearly all cases one application, or at most two, will suffice to cure the toothache.

Out of the Seine there were fished in one year 1,000,000 dead animals: 2,021,469, 977 cats, 2,257 rats, 567 chickens and ducks, 3,093 fowls of butchers' refuse, 210 rabbits and hares, 10 sheep, 4 horses, 71 pigs, 41 geese and turkeys, 10 calves and goats, 3 monkeys, 1 snake, 2 squirrels, 3 porcupines, 1 parrot, 6 birds of various kinds, 3 foxes, 139 pigeons and partridges, 3 hedgehogs, 6 hencocks and 1 seal.

THE CANDIDATE.

Who comes and grasps you by the hand
And welcomes you with greeting bland,
And flattery you can't withstand.
The candidate.
Who asks you how the children do,
And how the world is using you,
And hopes that you'll help put him through?
The candidate.
Who says the country's going to smash
Unless you help his side to thrash
The other side with vote and cash?
The candidate.
Who begs you to give him your vote,
And says your interests he'll promote,
And tries to cut his rival's throat?
The candidate.
Who, when his victory is won,
Will straight forget all you have done,
And look out sharp for Number One?
The candidate.

GENTILITY—AS SOME UNDER- STAND IT.

Gentle it is to have soft hands,
But not gentle to work on lands;
Gentle it is to lie in bed,
But not gentle to swing your head;
Gentle it is to cringe and bow,
But not gentle to now or plow;
Gentle it is to play the bean,
But not gentle to be a partner;
Gentle it is to keep a gig,
But not gentle to hog or dig;
Gentle it is in trade to fail,
But not gentle to swing a ball;
Gentle it is to play a fool,
But not gentle to keep a school;
Gentle it is to cheat your tailor,
But not gentle to be a partner;
Gentle it is to fight a duel,
But not gentle to cut your fuel;
Gentle it is to eat rich cake,
But not gentle to eat or bake;
Gentle it is to have the blues,
But not gentle to wear thick shoes;
Gentle it is to roll in wealth,
But not gentle to good health;
Gentle it is to "cut" a friend,
But not gentle your clothes to mend.
Gentle it is to make a show,
But not gentle to speak to know;
Gentle it is to go away,

But not gentle at home to stay;
Gentle it is to drink and smile,
But not gentle to than all gain;
Gentle it is to be a knave,
But not gentle your cash to save;
Gentle it is to make a bargain,
But not gentle to pay a debt;
Gentle it is to play at dice,
But not gentle to take advantage;
Gentle it is to cut a man's hair,
But not gentle old clothes to wear;
Gentle it is to know a lord,
But not gentle to pay your board;
Gentle it is to make a hop,
But not gentle to keep a shop.

THE NEW BABY.

There came to port last Sunday night,
The queerest little craft,
Without an inch of rigging on;
It looked, and looked and laughed.
It seemed so curious that she
Should cross the unknown wave,
And moor herself 'g't in my room,
My daughter, O my daughter!
She has no manifest but this,
No flag floats or the water;
She wears new ribbons and Lloyds—
My daughter, O my daughter!
Ring out wild bells, and tame ones too!
Ring out the lovers' moon,
Ring in the little wrosted socks!
Ring in the bib and spoon!
Ring out the muse! ring in the nurse!
Ring in the milk and bellows;
Away with paper, pen and ink—
My daughter, O my daughter!

A GOLD-SLUG WORKER.

"This thing of trying to crowd big gold pieces onto street-car conductors is simply a nuisance," said George H. McBride, of Portland, to a San Francisco Examiner man.
"Old Man Applegate lived on the road between Oregon and California in those days, and just for accommodation he would provide meals and lodgings for such travelers as chanced to travel his way. It was an annoying custom with a certain class of stock dealers who frequently went over the road to offer a 50 dollar slug in payment for a night's entertainment, and if the change could not be given they would settle in full the next time they stopped."
"One day a fellow whom Uncle Applegate had spotted, offered a slug in the way, saying he was sorry, but really that was the smallest coin he had about him."
"I'm sorry too," said the host, "for I haven't a bit of change in the house."
"Oh, never mind," replied the guest, "I'll hand it to you as I come back."
"But may be I'll never see you again," suggested Applegate, ignoring the hand outstretch for the eight-cornered coin.
"Yes, you will. I'll be along here in about a week," said the other.
"Oh, well, in that case I'll just keep the slug, and when you come back I'll have the change for you," replied the old gentleman, and putting the piece in his pocket he bade the stranger good morning, with best wishes for a prosperous journey and a safe return.
"That man didn't try to fool with old man Applegate any more."

PARLIAMENTARIAN WAGES.

In Germany both houses receive about two dollars and a half per day.
In Austria the pay is the same as in France 5 dollars a day.
In Greece the senators get 100 dollars per month and the deputies 50 dollars.
In France members of each house receive the same—5 dollars per day.
In Denmark the members of the landing chamber each receive about 3 dollars and 75 cents a day.
In Belgium each member of the chamber of representatives gets 25 dollars a month.
In Portugal the peers and commons are paid the same sum, which is about 325 dollars a year.
In Spain the members of the cortes are not paid for their services, but are joy many advantages and immunities. In Switzerland the members of the national council get two dollars and a half per day, and the council of states the lower house, one dollar and a half. In Italy the senators and deputies are not paid at all, but they are allowed traveling expenses and certain other privileges.

England is the only country where members of parliament are not only unpaid, but have no special rights or privileges whatever.

In the United States of America the members of both branches of congress receive the same amount of pay—namely, 5,000 dollars per annum.

In Sweden the members of the diet receive 20 dollars for a session of four months, but they have to pay a fine of 3 dollars for every day's absence.

In Norway the members of the storting receive three dollars and a half per day during the session, which usually lasts about six weeks, but which has been extended to that many months.

OLD JONES' PHILOSOPHY.

Modesty is a good rudder, but a bad engine.
Lockin' mad teach a boy to dance, but not to do sums.
You may get learnin' at school, but sense comes nat'ral or not at all.
You use of bring a couple of little quarrels into the family an' they'll breed like sparrows.
Don't go back on your friends when you're 'n' luck.
You can't always judge a man by the blood he's got. Corn, bread an' whiskey come from the same place.
A runaway horse is worse'n a runaway wife, because it sometimes takes you with it.
Sometimes w'en a man seems to be havin' the worst luck he's only getting ready to come out, like a log from a saw mill, with a goodly price.
Don't send a fox to tend geese or a cat to skim milk unless they have a good reputation for honesty. Remember this w'en you put your money in the bank.

HOW EDITORS ARE MADE.

The following story is told about the editor of one of Maine's most prominent dailies:
When a small boy his father, now one of the most prominent men in the state, was running a printing office and publishing a weekly paper in one of the largest towns in Kennebec county. One day an advance agent of a show came along and asked for a cent's worth of printed upon cotton cloth. His order was filled, but for some reason he neglected to bill for them and they were thus left on the printer's hands. The printer's wife ran across them, and as cloth was then high she took the cloth home and used it to line a pair of pants she was then making for the editor above mentioned, then a boy about ten years of age.
As the months rolled by the pants looms grew threadbare and at school one day he accidentally tore the seat out, leaving about one foot of the lining exposed to view. This in itself would have made the boys smile, but they laughed till the tears came when they observed the following words standing out boldly upon the lining in large type:
"Doors open at 7.30. Performance starts."
It is needless to state that the boy was sent home in tears.

COST OF TYING SHOESTRINGS.

One of the managers of a big eastern knitting mill has had a calculation that the shoestrings of a working girl will come untied on the average three times per day, and that a girl will lose about 50 seconds for each rate of stoops to retie them. Most of the employes have two feet, so this entails a loss of 300 seconds every day for each girl. There are about 410 girls employed in this factory, and therefore the gentleman finds that 43,800 seconds are wasted in the course of a week, which time, at the rate of wages, is worth 937 1/2 dollars. Orders have been accordingly issued that girls must wear only buttoned shoes or Congress gaiters under penalty of discharge.
