The poet-Queen of Roumania is not the only sovereign in Europe who writes verse and leads an intellectual life. Less known than Carmen Sylva, Nicholas I., reigning prince of Montenegro, may claim the attention of cultivated minds. Indeed, the great friendship by which his royal highness honors the writer of these lines has sprung from literary inter-course. The prince of Montenegro may claim the attention of cultivated minds. claim the attention of culturated minus. The Prince of Montenegro succeeded his uncle when he was still quite a youth, and broke up his studies in Paris rather abruptly to take possession of the throne left vacant by the decease of his uncle. From that day the prince and his beautiful wife, Princess Milena, devoted themselves to the welfare of their, subjects. Cettinje, if one of the smallest among European capitals, is not one of the less picturesque. The shrill whistle of railway engines has not yet broken the peace and freshness that reign in its pure mountain air. Prince Nicholas belongs to a very ancient dynasty indeed, and by his daughters' prilliant marriages he is now allied to almost all the great reigning houses in Europe. He was the best friend of the late Emperor Alexander III. of Russia, and the present Czar shows of Russia, and the present Czar shows him great affection and filial reverence. "Our mountains are rugged and bare," writes the Prince of Monetnegro, "but our hearts are full of vigor and fire." The prince always cuts a conspicuous fig-ure in such court ceremonics as he is prevailed upon to appear in, whether in Italy or in Russia. His tall form towers high above the crowd, and the brilliant colors of his costume, the great case of his every movement, the glittering row of knives he wears in his belt, always make him the centre of attention. FEEDING CHILDREN.

Suggestion for Proper Diet to Busy Mothers.

Do not forget that the baby outgrows his food just as he does his clothes, and that timely additions to his dietary are a valuable means of preventing scurvy, rachitis, diarrhoeal disturbances and other diseases of dietetic origin.

Many children are peevish and ill-tempered because they are improperly nour-ished. A revision of the diet ,with suitable additions, will satisfy the child and transform it into a happy, crowing youngster. A healthy child has an instinct for sweets and this should be gratified in moderation. Honey is one of the best of sweets, or a little good butter-scotch or sweet chocolate may green vegetables and salads furnish the elemnts of growth and repair in a satisfactory form.

When children lose appetite, instead of when children lose appetite, instead of pampering them with injudicious indulgences, try feeding them nothing but fruit for a day or so, when appetite will quickly reassert itself unless some disease is incubating.

Children who are properly fed will suffer little as a rule from toothache head-fer little, as a rule, from toothache, head ache, nerves, broken sleep, etc. Proper ventilation, daily outdoor exercise and regular mealtimes are all essential to appetite and good digestion.

(il-Filled Shells to Calm Waters.

Shells filled with oil, intended to calm tormy sea when fired into it, have been invented in France. The effect of a film of oil in reducing the size of waves is well known, but in the case of a moving vessel is difficult to reach those in front among which the vessel's progress will soon bring it. At first ordinary explosive shells containing oil were fired, but these, besides being dangerous, did not distribute the oil eyenly. At present wooden shells are used, which break when they strike the water, allowing the oil to run evenly over the surface. For night use the shells have an illuminating attachment. The results are said to be satisfactory,

"But if they would brush their straw hats as they do the others they would keep fresh and good looking much longer; that is not so much on account of the brushing itself as because of the protection of brushing it, keeping it clean, gives it from the effects of moisture.

"What puts a straw hat out of business in appearance is rain. Let drops of rain fall on a dusty hat and every drop spreads and fixes the dust on which it falls and makes the hat dingy. The same rain falling on a clean hat would have far less effect on its appearance. "Brush your straw hat, and the rib-bon, too, just as you would any other, and you will have the satisfaction of

On Women Swearing.

(Nebraska State Journal.)

Nothing grates more discordanty upon the delicate ear of a delicate person than to hear a woman using profane and indelicate hanguage. A case of that kind was recently reported in this county and the court was asked to discipline her with a fine. After hearing both sides of the story he compranised the case by merely taxing her with the costs. But why should a woman be assessed damages for using profane language when men are permitted to render the atmosphere heavy with the smoks of their worls without danger of police interference? Portrait of Chinese Empress.

The portrait of the Dowager Empress of China, painted by the American artist, Miss Carl, which has been on exhibition at the St. Louis Fair, is to be the property of this country, an unexampled honor and difficult to understand. It will probably be placed in the White House, as no art gallery would be thought a respectful resting place for so august a gift. Indeed, considering the august a gift. Indeed, considering the prejudices of the people, the painting and exhibiting of a portrait of a Chinese ruler is a daring innovation. It is said that this portrait, like former Chinese drawings of the Empress, is misleading, as it depicts a large woman, while she is in fact, a little woman.
