THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

The Belva.

Desires of buying a camera a certain fair young woman inspected the stock of a local soapkeeper. "Is this a good one?" she asked, as she picked up a dainty little machine. "What is it called?" "That's the Belvedere," said the handsome young shopman, politely. The young woman drew herself coldly erect, fixed him with an icy stare and asked again: "Er—and can you recommend the Belva?"

Wasted Energy.

"Dinah," inquired the mistress suspiciously, "did you wash this fish carefully before you baked it?" "Law, ma'am!" said Dinah. "Wot's de use ob washin or fish dat lived all his life in de watah?"

Same Thing.

"Mrs. Brush says her son is wedded to his art."

"But he has a wife. Would you call her art?" "I suppose so. She's painted."

Visitor—It brightens the home to have a little child around.

Proud Father—Yes, our little bill is increased over double now.

The Awakening.

"Why, Clara dear, what has happened?" "It is not a month since your marriage and I find you in tears already."

"Ah, Hilda, darling! (George is running for office, you know, and I've only just learned from the opposition papers what a really dreadful man I have married!)"

TIME FOR PROTEST

To the Editor of The Gleaner.
Sir—Isn't it about time that the stationers manage to lay in some lead pencils which are worth buying? Ever since the war began we have been putting up with substitutes for lead pencils and paying from five to eight cents each for them, too. Now our patience is becoming exhausted, and we are looking for a pencil which is soft lead and one which can be sharpened without the lead breaking. We bought two pencils during the last 48 hours, and paid six cents for one and seven for the other, and neither of them was worth a darn. We haven't had a good pencil in three years.

Yours,
SCRIBBLER.

Fredericton, March 17, 1921.

A MODERN TEST

To the Editor of The Gleaner.
Sir—What better test of a woman's psychology is there than the way she crosses a puddle?

In Fredericton spring comes with a splash. The sun shines, the snow melts and puddles—deep, wide, and numerous—form at every corner. Watch the tactics of Fredericton women as they pass them.

First comes the sensibly tailored business woman, clad with prudence and rubbers. Her mind intent on higher matters, she steps briskly along, and the most pervasive puddle is a mere nothing to her path.

Then the sports girl, scornful rubbers but with low-heeled Oxford adroitly suited to her stride. She takes in the whole extent of the puddle at a glance, selects the widest, deepest part, draws a deep breath, and jumps. Of course, she always lands precisely and gracefully, with possibly a slight splashing of muddy drops to detract from the admiration of the beholder. To her a walk on a spring day is a long and joyous season of opportunities to exhibit her physical prowess.

Many a promising flirtation has been begun over a puddle. With the sweet young thing with the silk stockings and high-heeled shoes when she approaches a stretch of dirty water. Her mouth drops, you can almost see tears in her eyes as she gazes appealingly at the nice-looking young man in the new spring overcoat. How could any man's heart resist her? Will thoughts of Sir Walter Raleigh flash through his head. If it weren't that his overcoat were so very new! All she wants, however, is a helping hand; a word of thanks, a remark as to the weather or the bad road service, the discovery of a mutual friend—and another promising romance has begun.

Does any young man wish to test the temper of his lady love? Let him induce her to approach a puddle in all its glory. Then, by careful manoeuvring, as him manage so that they get into close proximity to an puddle. She will, of course, be through a slough of muddy, icy water. No need to picture the immediate results; but if she can pursue an amiable conversation within the space of twenty minutes, let him put the ring immediately and look forward to a life of domestic bliss.

Yours,

HILPING HAND.

READING TEA CUPS

To the Editor of The Gleaner.
Sir—In the making of books there is no end. Once more this old truth has been impressed upon me, for I have received a volume entitled "Cup Reading: How to Tell Fortunes By Tea Leaves," with explanatory illustrations by a Highland Scot.

The practical part of this book consists of the chapter in which the author prints cuts of ten specimen cups. He says the unfolding of the leaves of fate have been at different times subjected to the vesper.

YOUR EFFICIENCY DEPENDS ON YOUR EYES

Good work needs good eyesight, because, as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a man is no stronger than his weakest faculty. And now, when the quality of a man's work will play such an important part in the determination of his income, you owe it to yourself to keep your faculties alert, keen-fit for the competition of industry.

Don't wonder whether or not your eyes are efficient. Have them examined—and KNOW.

Canadian Government statistics prove that over 80 per cent. of the men examined for the army had defective vision. This should indicate that possibly your eyesight is not so efficient as it should be.

Have your Eyes Examined—and KNOW. As every Live Canadian should.
