Children's and Misses' Jackets and Long Coats

Mothers who have girls from the ages of 4 to 16 years know how difficult it has been to get Ready-to-wear Jackets at a reasonable price. We have always handled a limited quantity of these goods, but our purchases have been restricted owing to the exorbitant prices most manufacturers ask for Children's Garments. This season we were fortunate in securing a line of English and German goods made by two firms who cater to the children's trade exclusively, with the result that we can offer you the largest and most stylish line of Children's and Misses' Jackets and Long Coats ever shown in Campbellton, and at prices that will astonish you for cheapness.

LIEUT. COL. MALTBY

Relieved of Command of Battery Without Notice.

A GENERAL SHUFFLE.

Lieuts. Sargeant and Ferguson Also Out. Others Follow.

Without official notification Lieut. Col. Maltby was relieved of the command of the Newcastle 12th Field Battery on Thursday last. The only intimation Col. Maltby had of the change was contained in a personal letter from Lieut. Col. Drury, commanding the 12th Field Battery, dated last week and transferred the command including stores and equipment to Capt. Lawlor.

Col. Maltby's tenure of office as commander of the Battery expired in 1902. In that year a military order was issued making a regimental list for field artillery. Lieut. Col. Maltby was one of six who were available for brigade division command and he was forthwith appointed. At the same time he was instructed to remain in command of the 12th Field Battery until further notice, principally because there was no one qualified to take command. And now comes word that he has been relieved of his command, but there has been no official notification.

Col. Maltby has been in the militia for thirty years. He joined the 12th Field Battery in 1874, and after serving one year became a member of the 1st Field Battery, to whose service he has practically devoted his life. He has never missed a drill, and is now recognized as one of the ablest field artillerymen in Canada. It is also learned that Lieuts. Sargeant and Ferguson have resigned their commissions. This leaves Lieut. Anslow as the only commissioned officer outside the command of the Battery.

The directors of the Farmers' Institute have decided to hold a series of meetings and lectures in the town of Campbellton. The meetings will be held on the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd of October, and will be held in the town hall. The lectures will be given by Mr. J. H. Smith, of the University of Toronto, and Mr. J. H. Smith, of the University of Toronto. The meetings will be held in the town hall, and will be held on the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd of October.

FIRE AT EEL RIVER.

The Mill of Wm. Currie & Co. Burned.

LOSS ABOUT $5000 00.

The Company were About to Abandon Lumbering Operations There.

About noon on Saturday a fire was discovered in the mill of Wm. Currie & Co. at Eel River, and although a hard fight was put up against the flames, they had gained such headway that the efforts were of no avail. The mill and most of the machinery were completely destroyed.

The mill was down for repairs on Saturday and it is difficult to tell just how the fire started. There was no insurance and the total loss is estimated at about $5000, but as the company were about to abandon lumbering operations on Eel River, the loss is not considered a serious one.

The most disastrous fire that Chatham has experienced for many years occurred this morning. About 4:30 o'clock some men returning from a dance discovered a blaze in the rear of S. Hoffman & Son's store where some boxes were located. The fire department was quickly at work, but the fire gained great headway for some time. The flames partially destroyed a warehouse in the rear of the Hoffman building, burned through the wall of J. Egan-Breath's barber shop and attacked the interior of the Hoffman store.

The fire extended to the vacant three-story building on the east side of the street, and the Hoffman and Hoffman buildings were completely destroyed. The Hoffman building is badly gutted and the stock of dry goods is totally ruined. The Hoffman building is a three-story building, and the Hoffman building is a three-story building.

The fire was burning in three different places when it arrived and that the extinguished a blaze in some paper at the rear of the Hoffman building. The Hoffman building is a three-story building, and the Hoffman building is a three-story building.
