PAYMASTER DAVIES and wife met with a narrow escape on Thursday last. Both were travelling in the Paymaster's car, attached to the rear of the train. Between Coleman and O'Leary stations the car jumped the rails, travelled over the sleepers a short distance, and then toppled over a small embankment. Beyond a slight shaking up, and a cut hand which Mr. Davies received from a pane of glass, the cocupants of the car were uninjured. Three axles of the car were uninjured. Three axles of the car were broken.
