"Boss" or "Bossed?"

By RUTH CAMERON.

There are two kinds of people in the world—the people who "boss" and the people who are "bossed." Those who "boss" hold the more enviable position; they are the favored of fortune—at least so the "bossed" in too many instances, sincerely believe.

Look at Smith. Head of the concern in thirteen years. Pushed over the heads of men who have spent their life in the plant, who know more about the business in a week than he does in year. Isn't that favoritism?

It may be favoritism, but I doubt it. Smith heads a big business. He started thirteen years ago as an office boy; now he is "bossing" those who used to "boss" him.

I don't know Smith but I do know something about the business. It is a great big concern, with a great, wonderfully intricate organization. To run it requires judgment, a rare faculty for handling men, and an in-imate knowledge of thousands of details.

The men who own it have millions invested. They want to conserve and increase their investment if they can. And I hardly think that favoritism would play any part in their choice.

The man who hates to be bossed has a remedy. He can learn to boss himself. The reason some men have bosses is obvious. They need someone to watch and direct them.

The man who is boss learned to watch and direct himself. He became his own boss before he became the boss of other men. Every man has his choice between two bosses, himself or somebody else. If he can force himself to learn to accomplish things without direction or watching, he doesn't need a boss. He will not have a boss long. The world is looking for his kind for the high places.

I think that is the lesson Smith learned. I imagine he is boss because he has earned the right. The man who is boss has been his own hardest taskmaster. He bossed himself night and day in order to learn or achieve that.

In fact I rather think Smith bossed himself into his boss-ship don't you?

Seeing by Wireless.

VERY LATEST WONDER.

London, June 17.—The annihilation of space by the wonders of modern science has been carried a step forward by the latest scientific discovery. What the telephone has done in the transmission of sound is now equalled by an invention for the transmission of light by wire.

The new invention enables the image of any object to be transmitted and reproduced before the eyes of a spectator miles away, just as the telephone transmits and reproduces the tones of the voice.

The inventor, Dr. M. A. Low, a London consulting engineer, has given a short description of the apparatus and method of the new wonder. The transmitter is a screen composed of cells of selenium, the electrical resistance of which varies according to the light that touches it. Over this screen there passes a synchronously running roller consisting of a number of pieces, which are alternating conductors and insulators.

The roller is driven by a motor of 3,000 revolutions a minute, and the resulting variations of light are transmitted along an ordinary conducting wire. The receiver is made up of a series of cells operated by the passage of polarized light through thin slats of steel and at this receiver the object which is before the transmitter is reproduced as a flickering image.

The process is described as a "kinematographic application of common electrical principles." The system has been tested through a resistance equivalent to a distance of four miles but in the opinion of Dr. Low, there is no reason why it should not be equally effective over far greater distances.

"The tones of the human voice, of which there are hundreds of gradations," says Dr. Low, "can be reproduced by wireless telephony. The gradations of light are far simpler than those of sound, and it should be possible to devise a wireless means of transmission. I will commit myself to the prophecy that in fifty years people will look back with wonder at the days when it was necessary to be at a person's side in order to see him. When this day arrives consider how it will change the conditions of warfare. Imagine the altered methods of military operations when you can see what is happening miles away."

At present the image reproduced is of about the size which the eye of a camera would take. It shows variations of light and shade somewhat in the degree of a half-tone block, but it does not reproduce color.

Dr. Low is well known in London as a consulting engineer and has engaged in laboratory research for the Government. A number of inventions stand to his credit, including the low high pressure motor and a high pressure petrol engine. The experiments in connection with light by wire have extended over five years.

In the transmitting screen selenium may be replaced by any diamagnetic material. The cost of the apparatus is considerable, as the conductive sections of the rollers are made of platinum.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the office. An order is received at the office, its history is recorded at the office, and finally payment is received at the office. If the office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland.—ap17.14

"Drunk With Thy Beauty."

Charles Dickens once had an argument with a friend about Byron's expression, "Drunk with thy beauty," to which he made great objection. During the discussion the novelist gazed as if enraptured at his host's fair haired daughter, who was in the room. At last he sprang to his feet, struck a dramatic attitude, clasped his hands with his hands and stalked to the window, where he wrote on the white woodwork: "O maiden of the amber dropping hair, Would I, Byronically, thy praise might utter! Drunk with thy beauty, would that I might dare To breathe out paens, borne upon a shutter!"

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. John Reddy, of St. John's, arrived on Saturday to visit his father, James Reddy, who was known to be nearing the end of his days. The old gentleman, who was 97, has since passed away.

The schooner Arthur Jim, fell down across Messrs. Munn & Co.'s wharf during yesterday's gale, and had several plank broken just above the water line. The schooner was all ready to proceed to the Labrador, but is delayed a few hours this morning while repairs are being made. Capt. J. Power is in charge.

Mr. Thomas Wakely's schooner Pandora, is on dock receiving extensive repairs and expects to get away by to-morrow evening. She is in charge of Capt. Quinlan, and goes trapping near Ferryland, for the next few months. The schooner is provided with a very fine motor boat.

The schr. H. M. Stanley, Captain Frank Tuck, arrived last week with a cargo of coal to Mr. A. Rutherford. The gaff topmast was furling on arrival, and a couple of days after one of the men had an occasion to go aloft, and in a cosy corner in the gaff topmast he found a bird's nest with two eggs in it.

The schr. Victory sailed for the Labrador this morning.

The funeral of the late James Reddy takes place this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Reddy was a native of Ulmerick, Ireland, and came to this town in the year 1840. He leaves four sons and one daughter to mourn their loss.

The C.H.E. Exams are on to-day in St. Paul's Hall.

Red McGhee

Red McGhee says: "O' Muggs McGraw has quite some rep for turnin' out the boys with p.e.p. to 'lectrify the nation. An' nearly ev'ry year you'll find him drivin' right along behind an all-star aggregation. It's ago Mike Donlin played in Muggs's show an' shined out pretty bright. Then, by some funny turn o' luck, the ol' pastime got stage-struck an' married Mabel Hite.

When Mike annexed himself a wife he thought he'd give the footlight life a handsome little treat. Became an actor—yes, he did. I don't know who he tried to kid, I never bought a seat. Well, anyhow, it didn't last. Mike couldn't stand the baseball fast an' back to Muggs he came. I hope that Broadway fever's gone for Mike looks best out on the lawn at our ol' diamond game.

In lookin' through the ol' box score you don't see Mike's name much no more. He pinch hits now an' then. He coaches, too, at first or third an' slips the crisp an' cross-grained word to hostile batt'ymen. The big league tricks Mike has to show to youngsters Muggs takes in tow to help his Giant band. Mike helps play ball games with his head—in fact, when everything is said, he's Muggs McGraw's right hand.
