The Programme.

A new Island every morning and a good appetite for dinner and an enjoyable sleep every night. These are on the programme of passengers who journey in the West Indies on ships of the "Royal Mail".

The first call after leaving Bermuda is St. Kitts, and there everybody goes on shore to see the sights. Perhaps they come back to the ship for luncheon and perhaps they do not, some charter a motor car and tour the Island, for there are many historic things to see. But at any rate, when night comes everybody is feeling hungry and ready for a good night's sleep. Next morning the ship is at Antigua where the previous day's performance is repeated, and so it goes for many days until Demerara is finally reached.

To Commandeer Potatoes.

The Wholesale Price in Canada Higher Than Retail in England.

London, January 7th .- The next aricle of food likely to be commandeered by Lord Devonport is potatoes. The scarcity is apparently due to the speculators rather than by actual shortage in the supply, but a reliable authority informs me that some months hence there may be no potatoes for civilians. Appeals have been made in Canada, but the latest reports of the Board of Trade show that there is a poor supply in the Domionion, and the prices are so high that the Government here will not consider them. In fact, the whole sale price in Canada is higher than the retail price here.

At present the restaurants and private houses show no sign of the learth of the tuber.

Baron Davenport, the food controler, has fixed the following prices which home growers may charge for their 1917 crops:-
