The Silver Question.

LASDON, Jan. 22.—At a conference yesterday of London bankers and others interested in the silver question the opinion was unanimously expressed that the free coinage measure now before the United States Congress should be passed. It was thought, however, that such coinage should be restricted to the product of native mines.

The professor said the index who was in an advanced stage of isease, had been making rapid progroward recovery since the operation performed. This is the first case in a patient has been operated upon any such visitation, and there is no doubt that many have perished who did not have time to reach shelter. Two shepherds, who were out with their flocks in the hills near Casares and Alusia, had barely time to take refuge in a cave when the storm came on. Here they remained without food or other covering than their scanty attire for three days. One died as soon as he was brought out to the air. The other may survive, although it is doubtful. At Modina, Sidonia, a hungry wolf chased a child in the heart of the village, and was only driven away when a number of people rushed to the rescue. Packs of wolves are roaming through the more populated districts of Andalusia. From Africa even more appalling stories are received, and exaggerated reports are current that whole tribes have perished in Algeria.

SPEAKING OF PORK.

SPEAKING OF PORK.

The American Rog Discussed by the order the reassembling of Parliament, and just after the Irish controversies, the victory has cheered Gladstone's followers an immense degree.

Ar. Gladstone has telegraphed the foling seply to a correspondent at Hartleol who wired his congratulations:

"The election is, from the time and cirms matances, by far the most important of 1886. The limits of a telegram prede giving my full meaning, but all must it that the simple figures of the poll reduces to dust and ashes the declarations of duces to dust and ashes the declarations of the Salisbury, Sir Henry James, Mr. Coschen and the Duke of Westminster upon latthey call 'recent events.''

Herr Broemel, of the same party, held it was unchristianlike to make the people's necessities of life dear in this barbarous manner. Every workman in England, he declared, could save considerably through the use of American pork.

Herr Frege, Conservative, said he favored the prohibition of American pork.

The question concerned the public health and not the interests of the landowners, as some papers asserted.

Von Boetticher said it was an error to suppose the prohibition of American pork was connected with any question of adopting a system of increased protection in Germany. It was solely a measure looking to the people's health. The American press itself admitted that the condition of the animals when slaughtered was by no means without danger. Dr. Von Boetticher read extraots from American papers in support of his assertions. He said the English and American people did not extraot meats used as was sometimes consumed in Germany. The Americans themselves demanded that their Government adopt similar measures to those adopted in Germany.

Count Kanitz approved of Von Boetticher's remarks. He declared that the new American tariff was not intended to retaliate against Germany for its prohibition of American pork. It was a general measure of protection affecting other powers.

TYLOR'S TURN.

A Poor Man Finds Himself Suddenly

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 22.—The heirs to an immense estate in county Tryone, Ireland, are said to be now living in Northern Kentucky, having emigrated to the United States in 1885 and settled some six miles south of Covington. The oldest son, and supposed heir to the title, is now living in comparative obscurity at Dayton, Ky. His name is Tylor. Advertisements for Tylor appeared in the leading newspapers of this country in the fall of last year. Some days ago a gentleman from London arrived in Dayton, and finally succeeded in locating the people he was looking for. He called on John C. Tylor and questioned him as to his family history, telling him that there was for him not only an accumulation of £1,500,000, but the estate and title of the Earl of Tyrone, as soon as legal steps that he had arranged for could he taken. The estate in question was confiscated to the Government for 100 years for complicity of the Earl of Tyrone of that period in an insurrection. This confiscation lapses with the current year. Tylor is a very intelligent gentleman of 65 years. He says it has always been understood by the family that the oldest living in 1891 would succeed to the estate and title.

REALISTIC TRAGEDY.

A Satter Shoots Himself on the Stage in Front of Mrss Potter.

SYDNEY, Jan. 22.—A sensational scene was witnessed during a performance by Mrs. Potter and Kyrle Bellew in "Hero and Leander." The curtain had fallen on the first act, and Mrs. Potter and Bellew were howing in front of it in response to a and Leander. The current the first act, and Mrs. Potter and Bellew were bowing in front of it in response to a recall. At this moment John Payne, a seaman of H. M. S. Orlando, sprang on the stage, drew a revolver and shot himself in the abdomen. He fell heavily forward, breaking one of the electric footlights. The wildest excitement prevailed. Women sereamed and Mrs. Potter fainted.

The wounded man was taken behind the scenes and Mr. Bellow addressed the audience with assuring words.

Payne was taken to the hospital, where he died soon afterwards. The performance was continued. Mrs. Potter was much upset by the event, but struggled bravely through to the end.

The "Soo" Line has issued a circular to all telegraph operators and agents requesting those who belong to the Order of Railroad Telegraphers to either withdraw from their organization and sign an agreement to that effect or resign their positions.

The Big Four has reduced the salaries of chief clerks in the freight department. Those who were paid $150 will receive but $125, and those who receive $125 hat $110. It is stated that the reduction will affect only the higher salaried clerks.

General Manager Tucker, of the Chicago and Eric Railroad, admits that the road is completely tied up by the strike of train dispatchers and conductors. He declares Scott will never be reinstated. Passengers on the tied up trains will be taken to their destinations on other roads.

Grand Chief George W. Howard, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors, is doing great work through the south and east in organizing branches of the Brotherhood of Conductors. He has already established upwards of 80 branches, with a membership of nearly 5,000 conductors throughout the different States since the first of last October.

At all points where both roads have freight and passenger representatives the business of both roads is to be put under one agent, and the doubling-up process is to be carried into all departments as far as practicals.

MR. EDDY AND HE KNIGHTS.

MF. E. Eddy volunteered some advice to the Knights of Labor in Hall, Out., on Tuesday night, when his election was declared, and laid down a principle as to manufacturers and wages. When the message was submitted the representative from Rawlins county read a telegram saying that many farmers were burning their furniture; for fuel and that twelve inches of snow was on the ground. The bill will be drawn up and passed.

Rough on the Lawyer.

OTTAMA, Jan. 22.—One of the cruelest things over said from the bench, whether intentional or not, was heard yesterday in the Supreme Court. Counsel for the appellant in a case from the west had been for a good half hour stating his case to the court. Mr. Justice Strong had been talking freely with the counsel, as is his wont, and was apparently helping the timid pleader out, when he started at something the lawyer said and asked, "Are you for the appellant?" "Yes, my Lord." "Oh." said the judge, bluntly, "I thought you were on the other side." The feelings of the counsel, who had been stating his case for 30 minutes, only to find that he had given this impression to one of the clearestheaded jurists on the bench, may be imagined.

The Argentine Republic.

Rio Janeiro, Jan. 22.—In the Assembly yesterday the constitution was read the first time. Several amendments were proposed. NO GOLDEN ROSE THIS YEAR. The Pope Not Inclined to Favor Mme

The Pope Not Inclined to Favor Mme.
Carnot with the Distinction.

Rome, Jan. 22.—There is no foundation for the picturesque rumor which has found its way into circulation to the effect that his Holiness the Pope, has written to the President of the French Republic, announcing his intention of sending to Mms. Carnot the much-coveted distinction of the Golden Rose. Lee Mill. is a Pontiff who is singularly unosteniatious in his manner, and almost frugal in his method of living, reducing as far as he possibly can the great and growing expenditures of the Vatican. This is a paramount reason why at the forthcoming consistory no new cardinals will be created. The Golden Rose has been at all time, a very highly valued distinction had costs the Pope every time it is bestowed about $5,000.

The life of the present Pontiff at the Vatican is simplicity itself and his own table expenses do not exceed $37 a month. This sum may seem quite incredible, but it is nevertheless absolutely correct. In his cardinal days he used to keep a chef and an undercook. When he removed to the Vatican these members of his household followed him. In the lapse of years the chef died and Leo never replaced him.

The encyclical of the Pope on the social question, which will be issued at Easter, will be divided into three parts, the first of which will deal with the general principles of social economy, the second with the means of getting rid of the primary causes of the co-existence of excessive poverty with inordinate wealth, and the third with the present condition of the social question. The Pope will urge the necessity of the Holy See directing the social and democrate movement, and will appeal to all the conservative forces, and even to Protestant ones, to aid in the furtherance of this proceeding.

were estensibly engaged in running a small store on the banks of St. Clair River, about one mile below Port Huron, in 1888, but the store was merely a cloak to cover their beginnsmuggling operations. They succeeded in making several importations of opium, and shipped successfully from Smith's Creek. Emmett and Imlay City. They brought most of the stuff across from Mooretown, the Canadian hamlet nearly opposite St. Clair.

At last the United States officers got track of a consignment at Victoria and followed it to Mooretown, by way of Toronto and St. Thomas, and a hot trail led them to Fred Saunders' store in this city. Saunders and Labelle made their last shipment of opium from Smith's Creek to Indianapolis, and the trail was so hot that the United States inspector was on the same train with Labelle and the opium. Labelle was arrested at Indianapolis and brought to this city for examination.

On the return trip to Detroit he jumped from the train at Uptonville while it was running 25 miles an hour. He had his handcuffs on, and his momentum was so great that he went head first through a wire fence. Fatal Fire at Starkville—A Boy Burned to Death—Other Fres.

ORONO, Ont., Jan. 23.—The Starkvill postoffice was burned on Sunday morning between 4 and 5 o'clock. When Mr. Robert Sharpe, the postmaster, awoke, he found that part of his dwelling used as a kitchen and postoffice enveloped in flames, and immediately turned his attention to rescue his wife and three children. He took a little girl 4 years old and a 7-weeks' old baby sister, carried them out on the roadside and returned for his little 3-year-old boy. Ray, but the fire had spread so rapidly that he could not reach the bed, and having asthma very badly, he was seen by his wife to fall almost suffocated. She ran to his rescue at the risk of her own life, caught him by the feet and pulled him from the burning building in an almost unconscious condition. As nothing could be saved from the building she left her husband, and grasping her two saved children ran, barefooted and in her nightclothes, with them to the nearest neighbors, some rods distant. They lost everything they possessed, excepting the blacksmith shop and its conditions. The neighbors and friends turned out yesterday with their teams and solicited clothing, provisions, furniture and money from the residents of the township, and succeeded in getting enough provisions to supply the family for the winter, besides other necessaries, and nearly $400 in money paid and promised. The remains of the little boy were buried in the village churchyard.
