Practical Home Physician.
The Practical Home Physician and Encyclopedia of Medicine (World Publishing Company, Guelph), has just been republished, revised to 1892. Its printing and binding are unusually good, the general appearance presented being most attractive.
The literary work is the joint product of the following physicians, all of them brilliant specialists: Drs. Henry M. Lyman, Chicago; W. B. Atkinson, Philadelphia; Christian Fenger, Chicago; W. T. Belfield, New York; Buchanan Barry, New York; Morris L. King, New York, and H. Webster Jones, London, Eng.
The book is a most admirable and comprehensive guide for the management of disease, giving the history, causes, means of prevention, and of symptoms of all diseases of men and women and children, and the most approved methods of treatment, with plain instructions for the care of the sick, full and accurate directions for treating wounds, injuries, poisons, etc., and a concise statement of the structure and functions of the human body, with a chapter on hygiene and rules of health. It might be expected that a volume which aims at covering so much ground would now and then come short, but a closer examination of its pages reveals the fact that every ill to which humanity is heir and which the physician can cure is dealt with carefully and thoroughly by the particular expert within whose scope it falls. It is not surprising that the Practical Home Physician ran through an enormous issue, it being estimated that over 1,000,000 of copies are in use at the present time, while over 75,000 copies have been exported to Australia, and 10,000 to South Africa. That the present edition which contains several hundred additional pages, making now 1,300 pages of printed reading matter is fully up to date is amply evinced by the fact that it contains a capital article on grippe by Dr. Atkinson, which was only published in January last. The book is wonderfully free from technical terms or phrases, at the same time its articles have the genuine stamp of authority upon them. One specially valuable feature of the volume before us is its numerous colored plates. Of these there are no less than 20, besides countless smaller engravings and a couple of costly life-like colored manikins, one of the head, the other of the hand. The book is certainly one deserving of the highest commendation, and would be a treasure in any household. It may not exactly take the place of a doctor, but it serves admirably to supplement the doctor's instructions, and best of all will often enable the father or mother of a household to ward off the visit of some dreaded disease. The book tells indeed of remedies, giving in every case the most approved treatment for the various diseases, but it tells more of prevention, in the wise assumption that "in the care of the body an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Mr. J. A. Hart is general agent for Western Ontario.

Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It may be used

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.
—Mr. Norman McFee, of the Hamilton road, is around again after a severe illness.
—The London delegates to the Y. P. S.
C. E. convention in New York City and their friends yesterday by the M. C. R.
They numbered about 30.
—The choir of Queen's Avenue and Askin Street Methodist churches spent the afternoon and evening at the Port. The ladies provided the lunch.
—A large number of boys passed through the city yesterday on their way to points west and north of Ontario from Dr. Bern-ardo's Home, London, England.
—J. Western Edwards, a gentleman whose only occupation is that of traveling, is at the Teumseh. He has explored nearly every country in the world.
—A happy time was spent at Springbank yesterday afternoon by the members of St.
John the Evangelist Church Sunday school.
Games of all sorts and refreshments were among the attractions.
—About 1,000 people attended the annual picnic of the Wellington Street Methodist Sunday school at Port Stanley yesterday. The children, their parents and friends had an enjoyable day of it.
—The London Real Estate Association and Messrs. Duncombe and Campbell, of St. Thomas, are building cottages at New Orchard Beach, Port Stanley. All the summer residences there are occupied.
—Mr. Wm. Confort, of Guelph, has been at the bedside of his brother, Rev.
Thos. Confort, London, who is so seriously ill that all hopes of recovery has been given up by his medical attendants.
—Col. Moffat, Major Beattie, Captain J.
West, James Magee, Wm. Gunn and J. R.
Peel were present at the funeral yesterday afternoon of Mrs. J. Kerr, daughter of the late Captain Wilson. The Dean of Huron officiated. Many beautiful floral offerings were received from the friends of the deceased. The body was interred in Woodland Cemetery.
—Mr. H. H. Gore, of London, at present traveling for the American Mechanics in Ohio, Indiana and Western and Southern Michigan, says all the crops are very backward, especially corn. On June 30 and July 1, at London, Ohio, it was cool enough for winter clothing. At Upper Sandusky, Ohio, he met Mr. Martin, formerly manager of the dining-room at the G. T. K. station at London, but now at the crossing of the two roads at Upper Sandusky, keeping the restaurant and doing very well.
—Compared with Essex, the extraordinary shortage in Kent is but a trifle.
Refuge Jewell of this city, has just reported to the Essex council that he has finished his audit of the books, and finds the loss, $1,700, making a total deficit of $24,650. The case will come on at the fall courts. The Kent case is still unsettled, the offer of settlement made by the county council not being acceptable to the suitors.
Canadian Teachers.
The Dominion Educational Association opened its first annual session in Quebec Tuesday, and there are many indications of a successful meeting. Among the visitors from this vicinity are: C. B. Kennedy, Samuel J. Radcliffe and Agnes McKenzie, London; Albert W. Plummer, Byth; Margaret B. Wyllie, Brantford; Miss A. E. Sinclair, Hamilton, and A. Daly, London. Hon. Gideon Oumet welcomed the delegates, and replies were made by Hon. G. W. Ross and others.
Y. M. C. A. Camp Notes.
Camp life has begun, indeed, and to-day the boys are attending to their regular duties. The meals have been extra fine, and are in charge of "Cook Lind." The mail carriers' duties have been very light to-day, owing possibly to the fact that the number of our postoffice box is not generally known. It is No. 51.
Last night was a noisy one in Tent 4, and very little sleep was secured. The boys were out soon after 5 this morning, and fell into line promptly at breakfast, doing full justice to the spread.
The Joe Milton is just coming in from Cleveland, and the people are flocking to the pier to see the vessel unload.
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Westervelt, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hodgson, Prof. J. H. Bowman and J. W. Westervelt, Jan., have visited the camp to-day.
The day is beautiful and all are well.

Presentation.
At the regular meeting of St. George's Lodge, A. F. and A. M., last night, Right Vice, Bro. Munson, P. D. D. G. M., was honored by receiving a handsome past district deputy's apron from M. Wor. Bro.
J. Ross Robertson, grand master. The presentation was made by R. Wor. Bro. J.
S. Dewar, who had been deputized by the grand master to perform the ceremony. A complete regalia would have been presented but for the fact that P. D. D. G. M. Munson had been voted that by the district. R.
Wor. Bro. Dewar warmly eulogized R.
Wor. Bro. Munson as a man and a Mason, and spoke of his indefatigable labors for the craft. The recipient feelingly replied.
He said he would ever regard the gift as of special significance, coming as it did from so universally respected a head of the craft as M. Wor. Bro. Robertson had proved to be. Wor. Bro. Luscombe, W. M., added that the grand master, in honoring R.
Wor. Munson, a universally esteemed member of St. George's Lodge, had honored the lodge.

less smaller engravings and a couple of costly life-like colored manikins, one of
book is certainly one deserving of the
treasure in any household. It may not exactly take the place of a doctor, but it
often enable the father or mother of a household to ward off the visit of some dreaded
disease. The book tells indeed of remedies,
giving in every case the most approved
tells more of prevention, in the wise assumption that "in the care of the body an
ounce of prevention is worth a pound of
cure." Mr. J. A. Hart is general agent for Western Ontario.
