Askin Street Methodists Celebrate Their Anniversary.

India Relief Fund Circular Read - A New Organist-Other Notes.

Anniversary services were held yesterday at the Askin Street Methodist and evening. In the morning his sermon was especially to young men, and was a plain talk, earnest and evangelical, based on Christ's answer to Nicodemus, telling him to sell all that he had and give to the poor, if he would be saved. Mr. Baker said the greatest scandal to the Christian Church today was that while many rolled in luxury there were those about them who suffered because they had not the bare necessities of life. The offerings during the day, which were liberal, were applied to the reduction of the debt on recent improvements to the church. This evening a teameeting is to be held, and following the repast a choice pro-gramme of speeches and music will be

HOW THE CHINOCK COMES.

Even the Cattle in Montana Recognize the First Breath of the Benign Wind.

United States Weather Review. Picture to yourself a wild waste of rowed until the vast expanse resembles a billowy white sea. The frigid air, blowing half a gale, is filled with needle-like snow and ice crystals which sting the flesh like the bites of poisonous insects, and sift through the finest crevices. The sun, low down in the southern horizon, looks like a frozen globe, with halves, crescents and tright prismatic bars encircling it. Great herds of range cattle, which roam at will and thrive on the nutritious grasses indigenous to the northern slope, wander aimlessly here and there, or more frequently drift with the wind, in vain attempts to find food and shelter, moaning in distress from cold and hunger, their noses hung with bloody icicles, their legs galled snow crust as they travel.—they appeal to the hardest heart for pity. It is sure death for human beings to be caught out in one of these awful bliz-

Yet, such conditions frequently exist in this latitude, as they did for fifteen days in November, 1896, when it seemed as if the elements had conspired to bring about another ice age, and annihilate every living Would the "chinook" never come?

The wind veered and backed, now howling as if in dersion, and anon-becoming calm as if in contemplation of the desolation on the face of nature, while the poor dumb animals continued their ceaseless tramp, crying with pain and starvation. At last, on Dec. 1, about the hour of sunset, there was a change, which experienced plainsmen interpreted as favorable to the coming of the warm southwest should possess to stand the wear and wind. At sunset the temperature was only 13 degrees, the air scarcely in motion, but occasionally seeming to descend from overhead. Over the mountains in the southwest a great bank of black clouds hung dark and awesome, whose wide expanse was unbroken by line or break; only at the upper edge the curled and serrated cloud, blown into tatters by wind, was seen to be the advance courier of the long-prayed-for "chinook." How eager-Trunks, Valises, Boots and Shoes in ly we watched its approach! How we strained our hearing for the first welcome sigh of the gentle breath! But it was not until 11:35 p.m. that the first influence was felt. First, a puff of heat, summer-like in comparison with what had existed for two weeks,

The wind increases in strength and warmth; it blows now in one steady roar; the temperature has risen to 38 degrees, the great expanse of snow 30 inches deep on a level, is becoming damp and honeycombed wind, and we retire, satisfied that the "chinook" is a genuine and lasting Twelve hours afterward there are bare brown hills everywhere; the plains are covered with floods of water.
