D. Taylor's residence had caught fire, but was extinguished before much damage was done. -Mr. Hugh Carfrae, now of the stores department of the Topeka, Aitcheson and Sante Fe Railway, and formerly of this city, leaves next week for his home in Topeka. He came to London to attend the funeral of his aunt, the late Mrs. Sarah Carfrae. -The funeral of the late Miss Jessle Urquhart took place to Brown's Cemetery on Thursday afternoon, and was largely attended by sorrowing friends and relatives. Miss Urquhart had been ill for some months, but not until a week ago did she take a serious turn

-The committee appointed for the erection of a new fence around St. John's Cemetery, London township, which will be done at once. The fence will be some forty rods in extent, and four feet high. In front of the church the construction will be ornamental iron and the remainder of substantial locked wire, with lateral and twelve upright stays to each rod. There will be three neat iron gates. The work will be of reasonable cost, but the assessments paid and due will be sufficient to meet it. The trees and shrubbery now being pruned by Mr. Hugh Nickels, an experienced English tree

Pritchard Still Claims the Honor and Seems Likely to Get It.

A meeting of the finance committee is called for this afternoon, and if a quorum appears, a permanent chairman will no doubt be chosen. It apests, as Ald. Pritchard himself does not seek to hide his ignorance of the business that has been and is at present before No. 1 committee. His candor in this respect is not less than his presumption in demanding the chairmanship of a committee that he has managed to get upon only by a chance turn of the wheel of fortune. Still, he has pulled the string, and this afternoon's meeting remains to show how obediently the mayor and Ald.

She was arrested here Monday evening for obstructive evening for obstructing the street by praying and thereby collecting a crowd. She refused to stop, and was placed in jail, the next day being fined.

Last evening she again began preaching, and was once more arrested. She appealed to her hearers, and 500 persons, many of them business men, surrounded the police officer and demanded her release today. She was tried, and Assemblyman Rogers, the most prominent legisla-tive leader in New York State, volunteered her defense and branded her arrest as an outrage. She was, however, again arrested and fined, but business men paid the fine, and she is again free, but declares she will continue to hold meetings in the street in defiance of the authorities.
