The Insurance.

The Crown then touched upon the insurance phase of the case. Samuel W. Hughson, agent for the Covenant Mutual, which company had $2000 insurance on the life of Wells, testified that he called on the young man at the Hyams' warehouse in December with reference to placing a policy on his life. Harry Hyams paid witness the premium. The absence of the policy, which is in the head offices at Galesburg, suddenly brought the evidence of this witness to an end. an end.
George H. Gundry, agent of the New York Life, told of taking insurance policies on the life of young Wells in June and September, 1892. The Crown also attempted to introduce a large number of cheques, showing in all over $20,000, paid to the two prisoners. Mr. Johnston objected to the evidence, on the ground that developments subsequent to the commission of an act could not be introduced as proof of the original motive, since the motive had then ceased to exist. The Magistrate, however, held that if a man does something in anticipation of an event occurring afterwards, and such event does occur, the evidence thereof can be put in as then evidence thereof can be put in as life, and made his sister, to whom Harry Hyams was engaged to be married, the sole beneficiary, believing that they would subsequently come into possession of the money. The proof that they did secure the money was therefore evidence as to the motive.

Laws—J. W. Tyrrell Expected to Go to Ellesmere Land for the United States.

Ottawa, March 1.—According to advices which reached the Department of Trade and Commerce to-day, there is a good opportunity for Canada available in opening up trade with Jamaica. The department has received an official copy of the speech with which the Legislature was opened on Feb. 15. It contained this reference, to the trade question: "The withdrawal of the Government of the United States from the reciprocal arrangement with this colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with this colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with the colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with the colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with this colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with this colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with the colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with this colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with this colony, entered into in 1891, and the reciprocal arrangement with the scale of the Lieut-Government of the Sales and the United States exploratory expedition to Ellesmere Land

It is quite likely that J. W. Tyrrell, son of Reeve Tyrrell of Weston, will lead the United States exploratory expedition to Ellesmere Land

It is quite likely that J. W. Tyrrell, son of Reeve Tyrrell of Weston, will lead the United States exploratory expedition to appeal to the Dominion Government House here. For this resolution, however, the following amendment was substituted and carried with only two dissenting votes: "This House is of opinion that no expenditure should be made on account of the maintenance of Givernment House here. For the Saleau March 1.—The Manitoba Legislature yesterday discussed a resolution to appeal to the Dominio reference. to the trade question: "The withdrawal of the Government of the United States from the reciprocal arrangement with this colony, entered into in 1891, and the re-imposition of the duty on sugar leaves us, free to restore to our tariff some of the sources of revenue abandoned under that arrangement. A bill will be submitted to you dealing with the subject."

In view of this position of fiscal affairs in Jamaica, it is felt here that the present is a most opportune time for negotiations looking to the conclusion of a reciprocal trade arrangement with the island. The action of the United States Government above referred to has taught Jamaicans a practical lesson as to the instability of United States legislation, a lesson which they are not likely soon to forget, and an experience under which they are smarting.
