MAXIMS OF THE DEVIL,

vost of Trinity Would Supplant These by True Christian Principles. ost Welch is a forceful preach He is not eloquent, but clear, prese and practical. He has imbibed ach of the earnestness of his late aster, Bishop Lightfoot of Durham, der whom, at Bishop Auckland Cash, he was trained in the ministerial ty he should go, and sent out into the pit villages to test his 'prentice hand.

Mr. Welch's sermon yesterday morning in St. James' Cathedral was on "The Life," as defined by St. John. He gave illustrations of the instinct of self-preservation, and of the far nobler impulse of self-sacrifice. The latter he exemplified by the captain on the sinking ship refusing to desert his post of duty, heroism of soldiers in a forlorn hope, fidelity of doctors and hospital nurses.

Then, in four-fold form, the Provost discoursed on physical, intellectual, emotional and spiritual life. He eulogized the nobility of the first three, and proceeded to show their vast inferiority to that of the fourth-spiritual life. Having Christ as object and motive power is the only true life. This is not a future possession, but one of present enjoyment.

"Men tell us," he said, "that Christianty is played out, and they do this because with some Christianity concerns itself only or chiefly with the life to come. There have been many misrepresentations of Christ's religion: never a greater than that it has no concern with this life. The true Christian takes his life into home and duty, trade and commerce, politics and amusements.

"When the relations of employers trade and commerce, politics and amusements.

"When the relations of employers and employed, and trade transactions of whatever kind, and government by the nations, are ruled by the principles of Christianity and not by the maxims of the devil, then and not till then will the consummation for which we hope and pray arrive—the kingdoms of this world will have become the kingdom of the Lord and His Christ."

In the evening Provost Welch preached in St. George's Church, Johnstreet.

MURDER OF TRADER STOKES. Belgian Cauge Authorities Said to Guilty of Gross Outrages.

London, Sept. 15.—The execution of Mr. Stokes, the British-African trader, who was hanged by Major Lothaire, an officer of the Congo Free State, on the charge of selling arms and ammunition to the natives, continues to occupy considerable space in the newspapers. It is probable that on his return to Brussels Major Lothaire will be tried for the murder of Mr. Stokes. The latest damnatory fact in connection with the execution is that it occurred in the face of the protests of Major with the execution is that it occurred in the face of the protests of Major Lothaire's colleague, Dr. Mechaux, who thereupon withdrew from the Belgian expedition. Mr. Stokes was ignorant of the French language and Major Lothaire of the English. Stokes voluntarily entered the Belgian camp and submitted his trade books to a judge and turn whe could not understand a and jury, who could not understand a word of it. The English press clamor that justice be meted out to Lothaire, who, they characterize as a cold-blooded murderer.

The Christian World, which is informed from a high source, charges that the Belgian officials of the Congo Free State practice inhuman outrages on the natives, forcing them to bring in supplies of ivory and palm oil under mention. The paper adds that baskets of himan hands, cut off as punishment, have been seen at the Congo stations. The officials hold the lives of the natives as being of no account. In their crunken orgies they tie up blacks and use them as targets. They are charged with onen grossness in their relations. with open grossness in their relations with the native women. The paper declares that the Christian missions ought to appeal to King Leopold to sweep out the officials who are connected with these abominations.

American Trickery.

Editor World: In your issue of Thursday you publish despatches giving an account of a trial of speed on the New York Central Railroad, with a view to eclipsing the record made in England of 63 1-2 miles per hour on a long distance. It would seem that they came so near to accomplishing it that they determined to claim it anyway. The figures published, when analysed, show the fraud. Firstly, the time occupied is stated to be 497 minutes, and the distance traveled 436 miles, or not nearly one mile per minutes, and the distance traveled 436 miles, or not nearly one mile per minute. This must be an error, so far as time is concerned. The distance is, I think, correct. But, taking the starting time given at 5.40.30 a.m., and the arrival in Buffalo at 12.34.57 p.m. as correct, the time occupied would be 414 minutes and 27 seconds, or 24,907 seconds, which, divided by 436, gives 57 1-8 seconds per mile. Now, dividing the number of seconds in the hour by 57 1-8 gives the number of miles per hour, thus, for the sake of those who may like to review the figures, first multiply division and dividends by 8 to reduce to common factors, we dito reduce to common factors, we divide 28,800 by 457, and get as a result 63 1-50 mearly, or a rate of speed of 63 1-50 miles per hour, instead of, 64 1-3, the English rate being 63 1-2. The difference is not much, but the differance between fraud and honesty is a good deal.

the corresponding week of last year.

The week has witnessed an aimost continued liquidation of speculative holdings in the New York stock market. The decine in the leading stocks average between 3 and 4 points ench, and in some instances are much greater. Weak noiders have been forced to part with their snares and the short interest in the market is decidedly larger. The speculative situation seems to depend upon the foreign exchange market. The best feature of the situation is that rates for sterling shows signs of weakening. Not only is exchange offered freely at 4.89 3-4, but the expressed belief is that next week will witness a further lowering of figures. In to-day's trading there was little opportunity for these features to assert an influence. The market was still ominated by fears about the Treasury gold reserve and the possibility that the Belmont-Morgan bond syndicate and its allies would not extend further aid to the Government. There has been further demoralization in prices, the bears continuing their attacks, which were particularly successful in the cases of Sugar and Missouri Pacific. A rally, it is true, set in about 1 lo'clock, but did not hold, and the close was weak at a little advance above the lowest figures of the movement. The coal stocks seem to have support on continued reports of something favorable. Business throughout the country is expanding, particularly at
