

BRITAIN GREET'S U. S. AMBASSADOR

Frank S. Kellogg Arrives At Plymouth, England

WELCOMED BY THE MAYOR

New Envoy Declines To Discuss Questions At Issue

Special Cable to The London Free Press and New York Herald: Copyright, LONDON, Dec. 30.—Frank B. Kellogg, the new United States ambassador to Great Britain, arriving at Plymouth today, took an early opportunity for attesting his belief in the steadily growing cordiality of Anglo-American relations and his own hopes that he might be instrumental as American ambassador at the court of St. James in increasing their utility as a world pacifying agency.

The Kelloggs reached England on Mrs. Kellogg's birthday anniversary. The United States liner President Harding anchored in Plymouth harbor at a calm crossing early this morning, the ambassadorial party being conveyed ashore by Admiral Sir Phillip Phillips, more's flag lieutenant in an admiralty barge. Stepping ashore, the ambassador was greeted by the Mayor of Plymouth, who presented him with a letter of welcome from the city. The ambassador, who is accompanied by his wife and two children, is expected to remain in Plymouth for a few days before proceeding to London.

MR. KELLOGG PLEASED. Mr. Kellogg expressed his pleasure at landing in the city whose history was now that of the British Empire. The party, proceeded to the admiralty house, where greetings were exchanged with Admiral Phillips. A special motor carriage was attached to the boat train for the conveyance of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg. Post Wheeler, who has been in charge at the embassy since Mr. Harvey's departure, and Mrs. Wheeler, who is in charge of the embassy, were present to meet the ambassador. The ambassador, who is accompanied by his wife and two children, is expected to remain in Plymouth for a few days before proceeding to London.

CANADA IS CLOSED TO BATTLE CREEK COMPANY

Justice Middleton Declined to Interfere With Injunction Granted London

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—The trial and appellate courts of the province have held that the Battle Creek Toasted Corn Flakes Company, Limited, of London, Ontario, is entitled to an injunction restraining the Kellogg Toasted Corn Flakes Company, of Battle Creek, Michigan, from entering the Canadian market. The United States court, in appealing to the privy council and on its behalf, H. J. Scott, C. C., moved before Mr. Justice Middleton for an order staying the injunction until the appeal has been disposed of.

"The defendants have invaded the Canadian market with serious consequences to the United States. Damages of this kind cannot be estimated with any certainty," W. N. Tilley, K. C., for the Canadian company, argued that the court could not sanction the doing of an act which has been declared wrongful, either conditionally or unconditionally. "I cannot see my way to intervene," says Mr. Justice Middleton. "The defendants must suffer the loss incident to the fact that they are now in the position of unsuccessful litigants." If the defendants can submit a scheme by which the plaintiff can be adequately protected, Mr. Justice Middleton will consider further.

SHIPBUILDERS LOSE BY NAVY REDUCTION

Construction of Warships Formed Large Part of Annual Output of Ships.

GLASGOW, Dec. 29.—The serious position of the British ship-building industry is the subject of an article in the Glasgow Herald by Grant Barclay, president of the ship-building employers' federation. Mr. Barclay emphasizes the loss to both employers and workers by the reduction in warship construction, and says that during the last generation the building of war craft formed a considerable proportion of the annual output of ships. However, this cannot be expected in the future.

The article dwells also on the increased foreign competition and the consequent difficulty of finding orders. In conclusion it sounds a hopeful note for the future of the industry.

Baldwin Government Preparing For the End

Special Cable to The Free Press. LONDON, Dec. 30.—A meeting of the Cabinet Council will be held on Wednesday, January 2, to prepare the Government's reply to the speech from the throne, which will be made on January 3.

I understand that the speech will indicate the policies to which the Government is pledged rather than to propose a legislative program. It is expected that the speech will be a compromise between the Liberal and Conservative principles.

The Government also knows that the British public is not without sympathy for the Liberal party, but it is not prepared to risk the election on a platform of Liberalism.

With the election excitement dead and Christmas passed the sentiment of the country is swinging somewhat toward Baldwin, who, though facing defeat, shows no sign of weakening and is making no attempt at a compromise.

The traditional sympathy of the British for the underdog is asserting itself. It will not be sufficient to avert the fate of the Government, but it is certain that Baldwin's courageous stand will aid the Conservatives next election, which it is very improbable can be postponed beyond next May.

Labour is certainly puzzled with regard to the proposed Conservative policy. The leaders know fully well that action of too radical a nature will mean the loss of the Liberal support, while pussy-footing will lose them a large body of their own members.

They realize their need of a strong mandate from the people, but they fear the result of the inauguration either of radical or of moderate policies. The latter they know may split the party, throwing a large section in the direction of Bolshevism, and the former may drive away many Labour-Liberal back to their own party, which is undoubtedly gaining strength.

The canny politicians remember Lloyd George's policy of "war aims" which saved the country then from the danger of socialism and believe that he can again conceive a plan which will sweep the country at the next election.

PRIVY COUNCIL TO SETTLE BOUNDARY

Litigation Between Newfoundland and Canada Goes To Highest Court

OTTAWA, Dec. 30.—The long standing litigation between Canada and Newfoundland as to the boundary between Labrador and Quebec will go to the Privy Council for adjudication this year and Sir Patrick McGrath, who is representing Newfoundland in the case, has arrived in Ottawa in connection with the finalities prior to the argument. Briefs are being exchanged.

The Canadian claim is that the Quebec boundary should go almost to the outer shore of Labrador, a fringe reserved for the Newfoundland fishermen. The island colony, on the other hand, holds that the boundary is much nearer the interior. Some very ancient records will be invoked in the case when it is heard next summer. Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, will be chief counsel for the Dominion.

There has been talk of compromise and some unofficial negotiations have taken place. The Newfoundland suggestion was not modest. It was that the debt of the colony should be assumed by Canada in return for the territory in dispute. While the Government would be willing to pay a nominal sum it would not entertain a proposition involving any large outlay.
