CUBA'S SAD CONDITION.

Famine and Disease Said to be Prevalent in Many Districts.

The War Still in Progress—The Terrible Plight of the Starved-Stricken Inhabitants—Without the Aid of Medical Assistance

The correspondent of the New York Sun at Havana, in referring to the sad condition of affairs in Cuba, says—

The Spanish gunboat Diego Velazquez entered on Wednesday morning the Bay of Cienfuegos carrying twenty-four families of pacifics from the province of Santa Clara. The families were found near the shore, starving and were sent to the outskirts at Cienfuegos with the other famine-stricken non-combatants...

NO PHYSICIANS WERE IN ATTENDANCE.

In the square La Villa, inside of the town, there were 200 tubs of pacifics gathered in by the Spanish columns.

After this report was presented, the Sanitary Department ordered that a new hospital be erected immediately. But the sick who were transferred to that new building were abandoned there, and after thirty-six hours, without any assistance, the majority died of hunger.

At El Limonar, near Matanzas, the Spanish guerrillas, in attempting to reconquer the neighboring hills, fell into an ambush prepared by the insurgents. Forty out of the 100 guerrillas were killed.

If the United States would like to do something for their citizens and for humanity here the first step to take is to remove the cause.

The war is going on as usual. The Spanish forces under Gen. Alfau, on their way from Corral Nuevo to Canasi, Matanzas province, heard the firing of Spaniards and insurgents in conflict at Vista Hermosa.

Near Cobre, Santiago de Cuba province, the Spanish forces of Buenavista were routed by the insurgents under Carlos Garcia, son of Gen. Calixto Garcia.

On and after the first of June we will charge regular line rates for publishing resolutions of condolence and notices of meetings of societies.
