LIFESAVING STATION RECEIVES TWO CALLS

The life-saving crew received two calls yesterday, the first was about noon when they went to Dutch Churches, 12 miles east of Toronto, where a 30-foot launch with a party of four had stalled and was rolling badly in the heavy sea. No. 1 boat pulled the disabled boat back to Toronto.

About five o'clock a message came in saying that a 14-foot yawl had dragged its anchor at the foot of Bathurst street and when the crew arrived she was well adrift. They brought her in and secured her to the dock.

"The instructions given by the exchange to the delegates were clear and mambiguous. You wanted an open market for the coming year—an open cash market and an open market for trading for future delivery. Your delegates went to London to do what they could to secure open markets.

"In London we negotiated with the representatives of the Canadian government, viz., the high commissioner for Canada, Sir George Perley, Dr. Robertson and Mr. Lloyd Harris, chairman of war trade commission.

"None of these gentlemen had been authorized to discuss with the Imperial authorities the question of the handling of the coming crop. Eventually in response to our request, the high commissioner and Dr. Robertson held a conference with the Royal Wheat Commission on June 18th. None of your delegates were present at that conference because it was an official conference between the representatives of the two governments.

"It is added that the commission as at present advised, will probably make its purchases on an f.o.b. basis as and when stocks are wanted, and it will probably prove advisable to establish an office at the Canadian commission believes that an early announcement that the wheat export company (Winnipeg) will cease to operate and that trade will be able to resume more normal courses, will remove the element of uncertainty which with the garrison of Quebec, had saved this city from the invading troops of Arnold and Montgomery.

"It appeared to our delegates, on receipt of this letter, that their work was done and done to the satisfaction of the grain trade. We could not ask anything more or anything better.
"After the market was opened, however, it appeared that Mr. Harris, chairman of the war trade mission, believed that he had been authorized to sell Canadian wheat, both to the United Kingdom and to neutral countries. This was obviously inconsistent with the notion of an open market. Further, it appears that the minister of Canada, Sir Robert Borden, sent a cablegram to the Hon. Arthur

Could Have Sold Surplus

"The results of this conference were presumably in the hands of the Dominion government, when on the 7th of July the government announced that the wheat market would be opened and following that announcement the Winnipeg market would be opened on the 21st of July. There is no doubt that the Canadian grain trade could have sold the Canadian surplus of wheat under the plans proposed by the royal wheat commission as outlined in the above letter.

Ottawa Lineary to the effect that the British government has fixed the price for wheat at $1.80, and that the United States and Canadian governments will in consequence be responsible for the difference between that amount and the figure paid to the farmers is not causing any con-"Following the conference with the wheat commission, a letter has been received from the secretary stating that it is impossible at present to outline any specific buying policy, partly owing to the crop situation of both consuming and producing countries still being subeject to large variations, and partly because it is not yet known how far the responsibility of the royal commission may extend in making purchases on behalf of the allies.

"The royal commission, therefore, is unable to state what proportion of the new Dominion crop it will desire to buy, but as the commission is allive to the fact that the Wheat Export Company was necessarily a hindrance to the normal conduct of the export trade during the war, and the given that amount and the figure paid to the farmers is not causing any concern here. In the first place it is pointed out that it is not within the power of the British, or any other government, to say what price shall prevail for wheat this year. Prices will be governed by the world market, and the present indications are they will be considerably higher than $1.80.

The explanation given by Mr. Sanford Evans in Winnipeg that the $1.80 mentioned in the London despatch is the amount which the government will ask of purchasers in order to ensure the turning out of a four-pound loaf for nine pence, is accepted in official circles here as being correct.
