THE WAR

On resuming the offensive the British penetrated four miles of German territory, capturing 2000 prisoners. "All continues to go well on British front," says official statement.

Germany admits British gain, but claims the attack has been stemmed. Italy denounces former agreement with Germany respecting rights of each other's subjects. No convention now exists between the two nations, declares one paper.

Italians carry strong positions against stout Austrian resistance. Successes in the Tofana region continue. Correspondent of German paper, writing from German headquarters, says English have colonial numerical superiority, their violent attacks continuing unintermittently for 48 hours, and increasing to unheard-of violence.

British headquarters in France announce all objectives taken in recent fighting. Germany reported to be worrying over possible desertion of Turkey. Athens royal palace supposed to have been set on fire.

Reports on western crops indicate yield will almost equal that of last year. Conditions very favorable.

PEOPLE OF STATES ARE WITH ALLIES

Rev. Dr. Covert, Chicago, Brings Message of Sympathy.

AT DEER PARK CHURCH

He Declares That the Thinking People of U.S. Are for Canada.

Rev. Dr. Covert, First Presbyterian Church, Chicago, who is spending his vacation in Muskoka, occupied the pulpit at Deer Park Presbyterian Church, St. Clair avenue, yesterday morning and evening. Dr. Covert will supply at Deer Park Church during the summer months, and the congregation will have the opportunity of hearing one of the most able ministers of the United States. At the morning service yesterday he delivered a message from his congregation, in which the allies were expressed and assuring them that their prayers were with them in the great cause for liberty and Christianity. He mentioned that during his short stay in Canada, in speaking with several Canadians, he had felt there was a slight feeling of suspicion towards the people of the United States, but he urged that any feeling of that kind be disregarded, for not only were the people of the States praying for the success of the allies, but they were giving of their money to the refugees of devastated Belgium and France.

ODDFELLOWS HELD DECORATION MARCH

Appropriate Ceremony for Departed Members at Many Cemeteries.

LARGE OPEN SERVICE

Members and Friends Gathered Yesterday at Broadway Lodge Hall.

The Independent Order of Oddfellows' annual decoration of the graves of their departed members was held yesterday by District 34, which is composed of the following lodges: Broadway, York, Riverdale, East Toronto, Gerrard, Greenwood, Danforth and Social.

At half-past ten committees composed of members of each of the lodges visited Mount Pleasant, St. James', the Necropolis and Norway cemeteries. Over the group of each of their lodges members this committee after a brief and appropriate ceremony, placed flowers and flags. The service was repeated at each of the graves, and at Mount Pleasant, where there are the graves of twelve, it was almost noon before the memorial service was finished and the last graves visited.

Other years it has been customary to hold the large memorial service under the leadership of Harry Elliott, but yesterday a departure was made and each of the cemeteries were visited in the morning by a decoration committee appointed by the district.

The service was largely choral and the choir of the East King Street Methodist Church was in attendance under the leadership of Harry Elliott. Rev. Bro. Wilson, a member of Broadway Lodge, conducted the service and on account of the heat made his remarks very brief. Taking his text from the fourteenth chapter of John, he said it was an error on the part of many to deem that it was for the worse when a brother was laid to rest, instead of rejoicing that his spirit was separated from the clay that held it to this lower plane.

He referred to the departed, mentioning especially two of the brothers that had been killed in action at the front, saying that no man could do more than lose his life for his fellow-men.

Deputy Grand Master C. N. Parks made a few remarks regarding the death and setting forth the high teachings of the order. The singing was especially good, the choir rendering "Son of My Soul," in which the solo part was taken by Mrs. Rutley. A duet was sung by Messrs. Elliott and Shields and a solo by Mr. Elliott.

PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

ALAN CAMPBELL, AUTHOR, FIGHTING AT THE FRONT

Writer of "The Dust of Egypt," is Son of Mrs. Patrick Campbell.

Alan Campbell, son of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the celebrated English actress, and author of "The Dust of Egypt," is now fighting with "The Ansons," a crack London regiment. "The Dust of Egypt," whose early scenes are laid some 1500 B. C., is in three parts, pictured by Marguerite Bartsch from the well-known English farce of the same name. It was produced by George D. Baker, with Edith Storey, Antonio Moreno and a powerful cast of Vitaphone players.

ANOTHER "LEGIT" STAR GOES INTO PICTURES

Gail Kane, One of Broadway's Youngest Celebrities, Joins World Film Company.

Gail Kane, who plays the star role of Judith Corbin in Burton E. Stevenson's story of army and navy life, "Paying the Price," makes her debut on the World Film program, and, incidentally, only her second appearance on the screen. She is a product of the legitimate stage, where she attained a high degree of popularity as an actress of no mean ability and of pleasing personality.

She is now in her twenty-fourth year, and one of the youngest stars on Broadway. She created the greatest impression in her dramatic career in George M. Cohan's topnotch comedy, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," in which she had one of the most important parts. The big success she made in this play induced Mr. Cohan to cast her in a leading part in "The Miracle Man," where she again scored as an actress of great versatility and one whose powers of dramatic interpretation were unlimited.

She gave up a number of important theatrical engagements to devote her entire time to the silent drama. She has been an ardent student of pantomime, and sacrificed an opportunity to star a few years ago thru her great desire to see the Passion Play at Oberammergau. Miss Kane appeared in her first screen play as the adventures in "The Great Diamond Robbery," which, owing to poor photography, was a failure. Anxious to obtain better results, she consented to play in "The Labyrinth," for the Equitable Motion Picture Corporation, and so well did her efforts result that she has allied herself permanently with the World Film Corporation.

POWER OF THE "MOVIES" IN POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Perhaps the first positive demonstration of the political power of the movies was given in Chicago during the last night of the campaign for superior court judges prior to the election on June 5, Judge William F. McLean Cooper, one of the Democratic candidates, did not have the support of a single newspaper, but he won re-election standing fourth among the candidates. The screens of practically every movie theatre of Chicago, about 1000, were used to elector for Judge Cooper, because of his long political career, more than a year ago, when he prevented the city authorities from putting the "Birth of a Nation," D. W. Griffith and his associates took a long distance part in the campaign thru newspaper advertisements.

Dr. Foreman was called and pronounced death due to apoplexy of the heart. The coroner had the body removed to the morgue, where it awaits arrival of friends from Montreal.

SCREEN GOSSIP

BATTLESHIP NAMED AFTER MOTION PICTURE ACTOR

Vessel Was Called "Moreno" After Antonio Moreno of Vitaphone Co.

Antonio Moreno, a popular moving picture actor, enjoys the unique distinction of having one of the Argentine Republic's latest battleships named after him.

When it became time for the heads of the navy department of Argentina to select a name for one of the republic's latest battleships, then on the ways, an influential member of the navy board recalled that he owed Tony Moreno a debt of gratitude, and in a letter addressed to the Vitaphone player asked permission to use the name Moreno without signifying for what purpose. The South American dignitary received his education in the Williston Seminary, Easthampton, Mass., the same school that helped fit Mr. Moreno for his battle with the world, and during their four years as students the two were inseparable companions, their friendship having been cemented by Mr. Moreno's daring rescue of his friend from drowning after having fallen thru a hole in the ice while skating. The first inkling of Moreno had of the honor conferred upon him was when he received a second letter in which was enclosed a photograph of the battleship's model, her stern in the immediate foreground with the name Moreno showing prominently.

THREE WOLVES COULDN'T SCARE THE LITTLE LAMB

An unusual incident of the making of the latest Bluebird photoplay, "The Three Godfathers," which features Harry Carey, was the filming of a short scene in which three vicious timber wolves and a lamb were the principal players. Contrary to expectation, it was the lamb and not the wolves which caused most of the trouble, which is a striking illustration of the power of the "terrible meek." The wolves gave trouble at first, but Director Le Saint managed to make them do what he wanted at last, and played their parts like veterans. But it was different with the lamb. It did not seem to care a bit about the presence of the wolves, but insisted upon its apparently unalienable right to walk straight up to the lens for the purpose of investigation. It was a long time before it became sufficiently interested in a bundle of grass to remain in its proper position. The whole proceedings caused a great deal of amusement at the Bluebird studios, and Le Saint declared that the animal department had better train its lambs instead of concentrating its attention upon the "wild" animals.

"BILLION-DOLLAR CAST"

"Cousin Jim" is the intimate title of a five-reeler recently exhibited in Chicago, which bears several notable distinctions. First, it was produced with a professional in the cast, all of the players being prominent Chicago society folk. Second, it was filmed in the aid of a manufactured set, all scenes and locations having been the real thing. It was done for the benefit of the American Red Cross and the feature of the advertising was the emphasis placed on the "billion-dollar cast."

Universal Director Henry McRae is filming the three reels of a melodrama entitled "The State's Witness," with Marie Walcamp, Lee Hill, and L. C. Shumway in the principal roles. The play has all the usual McRae thrills, and a love story is woven into the plot.
