LITTLE ONES ALL THE DAY MERRY

A Visit to St. John Supervised Play Grounds RUSH AT OPENING

Children Eager for Pleasures Provided at Every Day Club Field and Centennial School—What They Find—A Hint for This City from Massachusetts

The attendance at the openings of the supervised playgrounds on the Every Day Club and Centennial School grounds this season indicates that the movement is increasing in popularity and has made great headway in St. John during the four years it has been enjoyed here. Each season has seen improvement till this year has eclipsed all others.

It only remained for the school holidays for the hundreds of children, free from their studies, to seek the recreation provided for them so liberally and carefully on Every Day Club and Centennial grounds, and when the gates were officially thrown open to them and it was made known that the games and other amusements were at the disposal of the young ones, a rush was made to the grounds, and the children, in their eagerness to get to the play grounds, were seen in the streets, on the sidewalks, and in the public places, all the way from the city to the grounds, and the children, in their eagerness to get to the play grounds, were seen in the streets, on the sidewalks, and in the public places, all the way from the city to the grounds.

The Supervisors

Both the supervisors on the Every Day Club and Centennial grounds are from well known training schools, and their experience and qualifications are well known. Miss Frances Kerwell, the supervisor of the former grounds, is a graduate of the best training schools in London, England, and she had the distinction of being the winner of the king's scholarship for education. The scholarship included a two years' course in a high school for training all necessary subjects applied in a competition in which there were 400 superiors a child's garment worn by a city further south than Fort Frederick was built on the ruins of Fort La Tour, and first of all, to the time, when the St. John and the Du Monts first sailed into the harbor.

And yet, even as we may experience more happiness in one day than in a lifetime, so in the fifteen years that have passed, our city has seen some of the most important improvements of its whole history.

The Assistants

Miss Kerwell has as her assistant Miss Janet Maxwell, who also has had much experience. Miss Buchanan has as her assistant Miss Susie and Bertha Turner. The latter has had experience in play ground and kindergarten work in Chicago.

The equipment this year, with the exception of the "flat slide" is about the same as last year. This slide has lately been installed in the Centennial grounds, and is very popular.

Teaching Men to Sing

This week it is the intention to bring the organ from the Every Day Club rooms to the grounds when the children will be taught singing to better advantage. Both Miss Kerwell and Miss Maxwell are proficient at sight reading of music and thus far they have been instructing the little ones without the aid of organ or piano. The hours are from 9 a. m. to 12 and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. in the evenings. It is the intention of those in charge on these grounds to place an exhibit of the work in the dominion fair here in September.

Callao, Peru, July 9.—The German cruiser Bremen has arrived here and is coaling before proceeding to Nicaragua, where she is going to protect German interests.

Paris, July 9.—A dispatch from Lisbon says that the crew of the yacht Tonia, which is owned by Count Rudolphe Festetics de Toins, of Austria, mutinied yesterday with the purpose of looting the vessel. They bound two of the officers, but the count quelled the mutiny with a revolver and the crew were handed over to the police.

REASON FOR PRIDE IN CITY

Boom Essay Which Won Board of Trade Special A GOOD ARTICLE

Miss Waterman Reviews Conditions Leading up to Present Prosperity, Speaks of Matters as Now Existing and Makes Suggestions for Future.

The essay which follows was written by Miss Rosalie Waterman of Waterloo street in connection with the contest conducted by the board of trade, and Miss Waterman was awarded a special prize of $10. This paper covered the subject of steady growth and progress, with a view to the most profitable use of the resources and golden opportunities that the far west contains; but if any man in this city, in the natural beauties and advantages that surround it on every side, in the wide fertile fields and the rich resources that surround it, he has recognized these advantages and devoted his time and energy to the task of putting them to the most profitable use; in this city's name, bestowed three centuries ago by a great discoverer, and a history of steady growth and progress, with a flourishing present and a bright outlook towards a successful future. It is that man who, in the year 1604, called himself a citizen of St. John, New Brunswick.

Time of Prosperity

It is evident that the present time of prosperity is the result of the progress made by the city since the first settlement. The progress made by the city since the first settlement is the result of the progress made by the city since the first settlement. The progress made by the city since the first settlement is the result of the progress made by the city since the first settlement.

The European Political Game

Vienna, July 9.—Austrian diplomats are said to be displeased over the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese convention. It is feared that Russia will be relieved of all apprehensions in the Far East and therefore can devote herself to regaining former predominance in European politics and thus obstruct Austria's Balkan ambition.
