

POOR DOCUMENT M C 2 0 3 5

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., TUESDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1919

Evenings 7.30 and 9

OPERA HOUSE VAUDEVILLE

An All-Star Feature Programme to Start the New Year Right!

The Melody Mansion

Three Dainty Misses in a Classy Song and Dancing Revue

Tom McRae and Co.

Comedy Skit, "The Jockey and the Race-track Taut"

Emmett and Moore

Comedy Singing and Musical Sketch, "The Blacksmith and the Irish Colleen"

Kiski Bros.

Spectacular Japanese Novelty Offering

McCann and Robles

Hilarious Comedy Offering, Songs and Breezy Chatter

Afternoons at 2.30

SPORT NEWS OF A DAY, HOME AND ABROAD

NG.

Commercial League.
A Commercial League game on the Alley last night. The E. Bar & Co.'s team took four points from the Ford Motor Works team. The

	Total	Avg.
E. Bar & Co.	87	250
Ford Motor Works	87	250
McCrack	87	250
McCrack	87	250
McCrack	87	250
McCrack	87	250
McCrack	87	250
McCrack	87	250
McCrack	87	250
McCrack	87	250

Alles-Holten and C. P. R. teams will play in the Commercial League tonight. The Alles-Holten team will play in the Commercial League tonight. The Alles-Holten team will play in the Commercial League tonight.

Wellington League.
J. & A. McMillan, Total, 87, 250. J. & A. McMillan, Total, 87, 250. J. & A. McMillan, Total, 87, 250.

Customs House. Total, 87, 250. Customs House, Total, 87, 250. Customs House, Total, 87, 250.

Tonight the Schofield Paper Co. and W. V. A. teams will play.

Construction Team Won.
A boxing game on the Victoria last evening, a team from the Construction Co. defeated the Victoria team by a majority of four points.

Sugar Men's League.
In a game played on the Y. M. C. B. last night, between the new sugar men and the shipping department of the Atlantic Sugar Refinery, each team took two points. The score:

	Total	Avg.
Shipping Dept.	100	710
Sugar Men	71	64
Shipping Dept.	100	710
Sugar Men	71	64
Shipping Dept.	100	710
Sugar Men	71	64
Shipping Dept.	100	710
Sugar Men	71	64
Shipping Dept.	100	710
Sugar Men	71	64

W. Sugar House. Total, 87, 250. W. Sugar House, Total, 87, 250. W. Sugar House, Total, 87, 250.

Broom Men Won.
A game played between two teams of the Broom Men's League resulted in a four-point victory for the broom men.

Om Makers. Total, 87, 250. Om Makers, Total, 87, 250. Om Makers, Total, 87, 250.

Ush Makers. Total, 87, 250. Ush Makers, Total, 87, 250. Ush Makers, Total, 87, 250.

Jersey City Fights.
Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 29.—Young, out of Baltimore, out of Baltimore, out of Baltimore.

he strongest endorsement a cigar could get is the repeat orders it receives.

he Pippin—the best 7c Cigar on the Continent—strongly endorsed.

4 for a quarter enn, Brown & Richey, St. John, N. B.

don Made. Every package bears the Union Label.

BOOST FOR ST. JOHN SPORT

Atlantic Leader, Halifax: The St. John oarsmen are making preparations for an interesting season and the regatta held at Courtney Bay during the last summer was the means of reviving this branch of sport which a few decades ago was very popular in St. John.

The West St. John clubs are expected to have several shells that named by the boys of Carleton—the home of oarsmen.

The Westfield and Renforth Outing Associations no doubt will be out for honors and the crews from the St. John and Kennedycove rivers will add interest to the sports regatta next year.

Sail yacht racing and speedy contests between motor craft will make the old river "look alive" in 1920.

St. John is going to boom, and during the boom its citizens are going to take more active interest in sports, that interest which has been dormant for years but which is about to receive an awakening.

The athletic committee of the Commercial Club is an aggregation of "live wires" and assisted by the "people" at large who are imbued with the spirit of progress and are ready to lend a hand, St. John must go forward. Clean sport will prove a big factor, and along with other progressive measures means better citizenship, higher moral tone, a happier community, and a greater city.

Boats in Montreal.
Montreal, Dec. 30.—Joe Burns, a local featherweight, earned the decision last night here over Lefty Pearce of New York. Pearce could go the full ten rounds only by hanging on to save himself during the final three rounds. Eddie Summers outpointed "Rube" Cohen. Both are from New York. The referee stopped Tex McEwen of Ottawa and Dave Marshall, a local fighter, in the eighth round. McEwen persisted in hanging on to save himself after being repeatedly warned.

Newspaper Verdict.
Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Jack Sharkey had a slight shade over Martie Collins in a ten-round bout here tonight, according to newspaper verdict.

Wolfe Won.
Cleveland, Dec. 29.—Jack Wolfe, of Cleveland, won the newspaper decision over Earl Puryear, of Peoria (Ill.), in a ten-round boxing bout here tonight.

BASEBALL.
A Trade of Players.
Boston, Dec. 29.—A trade of players between the Washington and Boston clubs of the American League was announced today. The Red Sox gave both an outfielder, Ed Manser, second baseman, and in exchange, Harper, a pitcher, Eddie Foster, second baseman, and Menosky, an outfielder. There was no money involved, it was said.

Nasty Rumors.
Chicago, Dec. 30.—Rumors that three members of the Chicago White Sox had been offered a $200,000 bribe to throw the 1919 season's games were investigated at a meeting yesterday. Following the meeting, Harry Grainger, secretary of the White Sox, said that two members of the syndicate had stated that their knowledge of throwing games was from hearsay and that no direct evidence involving members of the Chicago team had been produced.

Rumors in sporting circles were that three members of the White Sox had made an offer to the St. Louis gamblers to throw one game a week during each week of the season for $200 each game. It was also rumored that the players were to wire the gamblers in advance so they would know on which game to place their money.

THE TURF.
Frederick Driving Club.
Frederick, Dec. 29.—The Frederick Driving Club was organized tonight for the winter season and officers were elected as follows: Hugh O'Neill, honorary president; F. S. Wooten, president; G. E. Howie, secretary. It was decided to hold races on New Year's Day similar to those that place Christmas. Committees were appointed to complete the necessary arrangements and to classify the horses. William Sharon was appointed starter and it also was decided to use the Frederick trotting park for matinee races during the winter.

BASKETBALL.
Y. M. C. A. Tournament.
In the Senior Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament Roy Willett's team won the honors from Percy Long's team after a very close match all the way. Half time saw the winners ahead 10-7 and the scoring went even all the way the last half, both teams checking back hard. Willett winning out by a score of 22-27. The line-up: Willett (Capt.), McKee, Marshall, Copp, Ryan—22; Long (Capt.), Swetka, Latham, Turner, Folkins—27. Referee, T. Copp.

ATHLETIC.
Will Be Well Paid.
Rome, Dec. 26.—(Associated Press).—Platt Adams, an American athlete, who has been engaged to train the Italian Olympic games, will receive about $4,000 from the Italian Olympic committee. John Haddleton, an American Y. M. C. A. trainer, has been engaged to coach the Italian Olympic games for the games. The expense will be defrayed by the athletic societies of Rome.

HOCKEY.
Broke His Rib.
St. Stephen, N. B., Dec. 29.—George Walker, of this town, formerly of Fredericton, met with a painful accident tonight, while practicing hockey his stick came in contact with a post on the side of the rink striking him in the side, breaking one rib and fracturing another.

LITTLE BRAZILIAN PIANIST MAKES A HIT

Musical critics "set up and took notice" when a little Brazilian girl made her debut as a pianist in New York and great things are predicted for her. She is Marie Antônia, only nine years old, but already classed among the great ones. Marie is about to leave for Europe to continue her studies abroad.

(then German Imperial Chancellor) because both could not desert from their friendship with Russia.

Antagonized the British Cabinet.
Von Eckardstein Gives Interesting Sidelight of Swash-buckling Policy.

New York, Dec. 30.—How the Kaiser called the English ministers a "bunch of uneducated noodles," and through other insulting and provocative remarks finally antagonized the British cabinet and the late King Edward years before the war, is disclosed in a book just off the press of Karl Curtius, Berlin, entitled "Diplomatic Revelations Concerning the Origin of the Great War," by Baron von Eckardstein.

The author, who was formerly counselor of the German Embassy in London, tells for the first time the detailed story of the efforts of himself and a number of German and English statesmen to bring about a German-British entente, and how these efforts were frustrated by Berlin, and particularly by the Kaiser with his swash-buckling policy and impetuous meddling. The book throws interesting sidelights upon the relations between the Kaiser and King Edward, and quotes at length from conversations between the latter and Baron von Eckardstein.

It was in April, 1901, that Baron Alfred Rothschild, in an informal conversation with Eckardstein at London told the latter that several English ministers had declared no reliance could be placed in the Kaiser and Prince von Buelow.

Pipp misjudged only three games played by the Yankees during the season. Pipp ranked third among the American League first basemen. Stuffy McInnis holding second place with a mark of 99.1 to Pipp's 99.1. George Siler of the Browns is tied with Pipp. The St. Louis flash was far behind the Yankee first sacker in put-outs, but had a comfortable lead in assists.

Double and Triple Plays.
The champion White Sox led in making double plays, but the margin was slight. Gleason's team closed the campaign with 122 double killings, as against 119 double plays by the Red Sox, 118 by the Yankees and 106 by the Indians. Washington with ninety-eight, Philadelphia and St. Louis with ninety-four each, and Detroit with eighty-eight complete the list. The Browns set the pace in triple plays with two of these unusual performances, while Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit each made one. Six triple plays in one league during one season is somewhat out of the ordinary.

The Yankees excelled in put-outs, due to a combination of circumstances, since the lead over some clubs is greater than the difference in games played would explain. Extra-inning games, the games and victories away from home—when an extra half inning is played—all combine to swell the put-out total. Huggins' men also led in the number of assists, while Boston had the lowest figure in errors. The Mackmen were at the other end of the string, which extended from 148 misplays by the Red Sox to 220 by the Quakers. In passed balls the Chicago and Cleveland catchers were in the van, only six being charged against each club.

Chick Gandi, topped the first basemen with only three errors in his 115 games, but the Chicago first sacker was not as busy as any one of four other first basemen. Walter Pipp of the Yankees had the greatest number of put-outs, 1488, and Siler the top number of assists, 150.

RED SOX ARE BEST TEAM IN FIELDING
Official Figures Show Chicago Champions Second and Yanks Third.

American League's best fielding team on 1919 club record.

Player and Club. Pos. G. P.C. Johnson, Washington.....P. 84 988 Seaver, St. Louis.....C. 108 988 Gandi, Chicago.....1B. 115 907 Gleason, St. Louis.....2B. 118 976 Scott, Boston.....3B. 108 976 Vitt, Boston.....SS. 83 967 Ruth, Boston.....LF. 111 992 Spinks, Cleveland.....CF. 104 968 Hooper, Boston.....RF. 128 979

An all-star team of American League players, judged solely from the standpoint of fielding in the 1919 campaign, would read as above. It differs in some respects from the all-star team which close followers of the game would pick on the all-around ability of the various players, but it contains at least three stars who would not be overlooked by any one in search of the best possible combination that could be selected from the Ban Johnson circuit. The names of Walter Johnson, Babe Ruth and Tris Speaker would positively be included in such a group, just as they are among the fielding luminaries of 1919.

The infielders, outfielders and catchers above are chosen because they have reached the highest figures among players of their position who took part in at least 100 games. Such a system had to be eliminated in choosing a pitcher, as no baseman approaches the record in such games. Johnson, who took part in thirty-nine games during the season, accepted eighty-five of his eighty-six chances, and thereby qualified as the best fielding pitcher of the year in his league. He was crowded by George Davis of the Tigers, who reached the remarkable total of 106 accepted chances in thirty-four games, making only two misplays during the year. Wellman of the Browns also made a notable record among the pitchers in handling forty-three chances without an error.

The outfield fielding records, made public yesterday, show the Boston Red Sox as the best fielding club of the American League with a mark of 975. The Chicago White Sox ranked second with 969 and the Yankees third with 968. Other clubs followed in order with these figures: Cleveland, 965; Detroit, 964; St. Louis, 963; Washington, 960; Philadelphia, 956.

The champion White Sox led in making double plays, but the margin was slight. Gleason's team closed the campaign with 122 double killings, as against 119 double plays by the Red Sox, 118 by the Yankees and 106 by the Indians. Washington with ninety-eight, Philadelphia and St. Louis with ninety-four each, and Detroit with eighty-eight complete the list. The Browns set the pace in triple plays with two of these unusual performances, while Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit each made one. Six triple plays in one league during one season is somewhat out of the ordinary.

The Yankees excelled in put-outs, due to a combination of circumstances, since the lead over some clubs is greater than the difference in games played would explain. Extra-inning games, the games and victories away from home—when an extra half inning is played—all combine to swell the put-out total. Huggins' men also led in the number of assists, while Boston had the lowest figure in errors. The Mackmen were at the other end of the string, which extended from 148 misplays by the Red Sox to 220 by the Quakers. In passed balls the Chicago and Cleveland catchers were in the van, only six being charged against each club.

Chick Gandi, topped the first basemen with only three errors in his 115 games, but the Chicago first sacker was not as busy as any one of four other first basemen. Walter Pipp of the Yankees had the greatest number of put-outs, 1488, and Siler the top number of assists, 150.

RED SOX ARE BEST TEAM IN FIELDING
Official Figures Show Chicago Champions Second and Yanks Third.

American League's best fielding team on 1919 club record.

Player and Club. Pos. G. P.C. Johnson, Washington.....P. 84 988 Seaver, St. Louis.....C. 108 988 Gandi, Chicago.....1B. 115 907 Gleason, St. Louis.....2B. 118 976 Scott, Boston.....3B. 108 976 Vitt, Boston.....SS. 83 967 Ruth, Boston.....LF. 111 992 Spinks, Cleveland.....CF. 104 968 Hooper, Boston.....RF. 128 979

An all-star team of American League players, judged solely from the standpoint of fielding in the 1919 campaign, would read as above. It differs in some respects from the all-star team which close followers of the game would pick on the all-around ability of the various players, but it contains at least three stars who would not be overlooked by any one in search of the best possible combination that could be selected from the Ban Johnson circuit. The names of Walter Johnson, Babe Ruth and Tris Speaker would positively be included in such a group, just as they are among the fielding luminaries of 1919.

The infielders, outfielders and catchers above are chosen because they have reached the highest figures among players of their position who took part in at least 100 games. Such a system had to be eliminated in choosing a pitcher, as no baseman approaches the record in such games. Johnson, who took part in thirty-nine games during the season, accepted eighty-five of his eighty-six chances, and thereby qualified as the best fielding pitcher of the year in his league. He was crowded by George Davis of the Tigers, who reached the remarkable total of 106 accepted chances in thirty-four games, making only two misplays during the year. Wellman of the Browns also made a notable record among the pitchers in handling forty-three chances without an error.

The outfield fielding records, made public yesterday, show the Boston Red Sox as the best fielding club of the American League with a mark of 975. The Chicago White Sox ranked second with 969 and the Yankees third with 968. Other clubs followed in order with these figures: Cleveland, 965; Detroit, 964; St. Louis, 963; Washington, 960; Philadelphia, 956.

The champion White Sox led in making double plays, but the margin was slight. Gleason's team closed the campaign with 122 double killings, as against 119 double plays by the Red Sox, 118 by the Yankees and 106 by the Indians. Washington with ninety-eight, Philadelphia and St. Louis with ninety-four each, and Detroit with eighty-eight complete the list. The Browns set the pace in triple plays with two of these unusual performances, while Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit each made one. Six triple plays in one league during one season is somewhat out of the ordinary.

The Yankees excelled in put-outs, due to a combination of circumstances, since the lead over some clubs is greater than the difference in games played would explain. Extra-inning games, the games and victories away from home—when an extra half inning is played—all combine to swell the put-out total. Huggins' men also led in the number of assists, while Boston had the lowest figure in errors. The Mackmen were at the other end of the string, which extended from 148 misplays by the Red Sox to 220 by the Quakers. In passed balls the Chicago and Cleveland catchers were in the van, only six being charged against each club.

Chick Gandi, topped the first basemen with only three errors in his 115 games, but the Chicago first sacker was not as busy as any one of four other first basemen. Walter Pipp of the Yankees had the greatest number of put-outs, 1488, and Siler the top number of assists, 150.

RED SOX ARE BEST TEAM IN FIELDING
Official Figures Show Chicago Champions Second and Yanks Third.

American League's best fielding team on 1919 club record.

Player and Club. Pos. G. P.C. Johnson, Washington.....P. 84 988 Seaver, St. Louis.....C. 108 988 Gandi, Chicago.....1B. 115 907 Gleason, St. Louis.....2B. 118 976 Scott, Boston.....3B. 108 976 Vitt, Boston.....SS. 83 967 Ruth, Boston.....LF. 111 992 Spinks, Cleveland.....CF. 104 968 Hooper, Boston.....RF. 128 979

An all-star team of American League players, judged solely from the standpoint of fielding in the 1919 campaign, would read as above. It differs in some respects from the all-star team which close followers of the game would pick on the all-around ability of the various players, but it contains at least three stars who would not be overlooked by any one in search of the best possible combination that could be selected from the Ban Johnson circuit. The names of Walter Johnson, Babe Ruth and Tris Speaker would positively be included in such a group, just as they are among the fielding luminaries of 1919.

The infielders, outfielders and catchers above are chosen because they have reached the highest figures among players of their position who took part in at least 100 games. Such a system had to be eliminated in choosing a pitcher, as no baseman approaches the record in such games. Johnson, who took part in thirty-nine games during the season, accepted eighty-five of his eighty-six chances, and thereby qualified as the best fielding pitcher of the year in his league. He was crowded by George Davis of the Tigers, who reached the remarkable total of 106 accepted chances in thirty-four games, making only two misplays during the year. Wellman of the Browns also made a notable record among the pitchers in handling forty-three chances without an error.

The outfield fielding records, made public yesterday, show the Boston Red Sox as the best fielding club of the American League with a mark of 975. The Chicago White Sox ranked second with 969 and the Yankees third with 968. Other clubs followed in order with these figures: Cleveland, 965; Detroit, 964; St. Louis, 963; Washington, 960; Philadelphia, 956.

The champion White Sox led in making double plays, but the margin was slight. Gleason's team closed the campaign with 122 double killings, as against 119 double plays by the Red Sox, 118 by the Yankees and 106 by the Indians. Washington with ninety-eight, Philadelphia and St. Louis with ninety-four each, and Detroit with eighty-eight complete the list. The Browns set the pace in triple plays with two of these unusual performances, while Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit each made one. Six triple plays in one league during one season is somewhat out of the ordinary.

The Yankees excelled in put-outs, due to a combination of circumstances, since the lead over some clubs is greater than the difference in games played would explain. Extra-inning games, the games and victories away from home—when an extra half inning is played—all combine to swell the put-out total. Huggins' men also led in the number of assists, while Boston had the lowest figure in errors. The Mackmen were at the other end of the string, which extended from 148 misplays by the Red Sox to 220 by the Quakers. In passed balls the Chicago and Cleveland catchers were in the van, only six being charged against each club.

Chick Gandi, topped the first basemen with only three errors in his 115 games, but the Chicago first sacker was not as busy as any one of four other first basemen. Walter Pipp of the Yankees had the greatest number of put-outs, 1488, and Siler the top number of assists, 150.

IMPERIAL

Smiles, Gurgles, Then Shrieks of Laughter!

PRETTY CONSTANCE TALMADGE

In Augustus Thomas' Society Comedy

"MRS. LEFFINGWELL'S BOOTS"

How a Pair of Embroidered Slippers Upset No Less Than Three Happy Families

BRITISH WEEKLY

News of the Empire in Late Moving Pictures

MUTT AND JEFF
Continuation of Bud Fisher's Animated Cartoons

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Called by the Literary Digest From Everywhere

OUR ORCHESTRA
Of Twelve Players in Continuous Musicale

THE MILL STREET FIRE IN SURPRISING MOVIES

WATCH FOR OUR SEASON OF 1920 ANNOUNCEMENT WATCH

A Wonderful Year Ahead of Our Patrons

WEDNESDAY:
Charlie Ray in
"THE EGG CRATE WALLOP"

UNIQUE | The Lure of Society
Life is the Theme of This Story

BEAUTIFUL AND GRACEFUL
ETHEL CLAYTON
In a Role She Interprets With Charm
Men, Women and Money

Episode 13
"Elmo the Mighty"

CHAS. CHAPLIN in
"SOME NERVE"

Matinee at 2, 3.30
Evening at 7, 8.30

PRICES:—Mat. 10c,
15c Evening 15c, 25c

LYRIC
MUSICAL
COMPANY
Present
"THREE MARRIED MEN"

Matinee at 2.30
Evening 7.15, 8.45

QUEEN SQUARE THEATRE

TODAY 2.30, 7, 8.40
Bessie Barriscale in
"THE CAST-OFF"

Six Parts
"The Foolish Age"—Mack Sennett Comedy
COMING WED. and THURS.
Gladys Leslie in "The Golden Shower"

Refugee Camp at Port Said Closed

Thousands of Armenians Have There Been Sheltered From Turks by Joint Action of England and States.

New York, Dec. 29.—Hugh S. Miller, special correspondent of Near East Relief, writes as follows:

After four years of existence, during which period it had sheltered thousands of men, women and children who had escaped massacre by the Turks, the big Armenian refugee camp on the bank of the Suez Canal, just outside Port Said, has been closed. The 5,000 refugees who have been quartered in the camp have been sent north, some to the villages from which they fled, and some to other camps and stations of the Near East Relief throughout Syria, Turkey and Armenia, where they will be cared for until they can be repatriated.

The end of the camp came gradually. For weeks it had been known that it was to be abandoned, and day after day large parties of refugees, burdened with bags and household goods, had been taken down the canal in barges to be transferred to steamships or trains at Port Said. Each day a long line of refugees filed down the sand streets of the camp to the water's edge and embarked. For a few days, also, there were long lines of refugees waiting for the work of the camp also picked their things and went north to other stations.

The camp at Port Said was probably the largest and most interesting of its kind supported by the United States in the whole of the war zone. Situated on the low eastern bank of the canal, its rows of tents extended back from the water's edge a mile or more across the sand. Along the waterway, in front of the very doors of the tents, at all hours of the day and night, passed vessels from all quarters of the globe.

Originally the site was occupied by the quarantine station. In 1915 a French cruiser appeared unannounced in port with several thousand Armenian refugees whom it had rescued from a hill on the Mediterranean coast, where they were besieged by a Turkish force. There was no other place to send them, and there was no time to build quarters for them. The best thing to do was to take over the quarantine station, and this was done at once.

The station then underwent a transformation. The few buildings on the site were filled with refugees, and as quickly as possible army tents were erected to everything.

Furthermore, the denunciation and threats with which the German Navy League and its organs are continually covering us, are not exactly conducive to remove our distrust.

Too Much for British Monarch.
"What do you think the Kaiser would say if I allowed myself to refer to his ministers by similar friendly epithets?" "As you have known for years, I have always had the greatest sympathies for Germany, and I am actually still today of the opinion that England and Germany are natural allies. Together they could police the world and maintain permanent world peace."

"Certainly Germany needs colonies and economic expansion. Nor is there anything to prevent her from having plenty of both, for there is room enough in the world for England and Germany."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"Yes, but we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."

"But we cannot be expected to co-operate with these continual jumping-jack tricks of the Kaiser."