SENSATIONAL BASEBALL GAME

Auburns Lose to South Boston in Thrilling Match—Credit for Treat for Saint John Fans.

One of the most sensational games of the season was played last evening on St. Peter's baseball park between the Auburns of Cambridge, Mass., and the All Stars of South Boston, which ended in a victory for the latter team by a score of 6 to 3.

In the first inning the All Stars scored two runs on three hits and an error, but were held helplessly by Tippetts until the sixth when they garnered three more runs by timely and hard hitting.

The Auburn boys failed to get a man across until the fourth when they scored one run; they secured two more in the fifth and went into the lead, but were headed by their opponents in the next inning and failed to tally again during the remaining four innings.

The game had a most sensational wind-up. Murphy, who was on the mound for the All Stars, lost control of the ball in the last half of the ninth and passed the first two batters, but then pitched a perfect man out and another was retired on a fly to centre field.

The next man up drove out a high fly that was labeled for two bases, but Sullivan the crack centre for the All Stars chased it to the edge of the bank in right centre and speared it and with the ball still clutched in his hand disappeared over the bank.

The Auburns protested that the play did not count as the fielder could have dropped the ball when out of sight of the umpire, but the protest was not allowed and the game was over.

It is worthy of note that a similar protest was filed with the board of arbitration of the major leagues some years ago and their decision was as follows: "If the ball is held momentarily before going over an embankment the batter is out even if the ball is later dropped as a result of a fall caused by ground conditions but if a fielder goes over an embankment out of sight of the umpire and catches a ball the batter is given the benefit of the doubt and is allowed to continue running the bases subject to ground rules."

To Credit of W. J. McMahon. That St. John fans were given an opportunity of witnessing such a thrilling exhibition by these crack Boston teams was largely due to the efforts of William J. McMahon, manager of St. Peter's baseball park, who conceived the idea that such a game would be a big attraction due to many opinions expressed as to which was the better team.

The manager of the Auburns has challenged the All Stars for another game next Tuesday and arrangements may be made to stage this contest.
